Imports.—The import of rice during the week under report was nearly seven times that of the corresponding week in 1896, viz., 155,049 cwts., against 23,532 cwts. Burmah as usual supplied by far the largest quantity, viz., 112,608 cwts., against 196,738 cwts. in the week ending 7th April 1897. The receipts from Chandbali aggregated 31,665 cwts., against 23,532 cwts. in the week ending 14th April 1896. Of the 19,446 cwts. of paddy imported during the week under report, Burma contributed 18,109 cwts., against nil in the corresponding week in 1896. The total imports of gram and pulse were double those of the week ending 14th April 1896, viz., 7,956 cwts. against 3,928 cwts. Of these quantities, Chandbali contributed 5,435 cwts., against 2,664 cwts., and the Madras ports 2,521 cwts., against 1,114 cwts., respectively.

Exports.—In the following statement the total quantity of each kind of food-grain exported by sea during the second week of April 1897 is compared with the figures for the corresponding period of 1896 :—

	8th to 14th April

Foreign Ports.

The returns again show a falling off in the exports of rice to foreign ports, viz., 68,559 cwts. in the period under review, against 111,234 cwts. in the corresponding week in 1896; the quantity exported in the week ending 7th April 1897 was 84,454 cwts. The chief fluctuations in this trade were a decrease of 44,713 cwts. in the shipments to Ceylon and of 24,526 cwts. in those to Hamburg, while Natal, Reunion, and Persia took 15,864 cwts., 7,187 cwts., and 10,630 cwts., respectively, against nothing in the week ending 14th April 1896. There were no exports of paddy during the second week of April 1897, against 2,218 cwts. in the corresponding week in 1896. The exports of gram and pulse fell from 8,565 cwts. in the week ending 14th April 1896 to 1,903 cwts. in the week ending 14th April 1897, the largest decline being in the supplies sent to Mauritius (nil against 5,126 cwts. in the second week of 1896) and to Ceylon (682 cwts., against 2,689 cwts. in the week ending 14th April 1896).

Indian Ports.

There was again no trade in rice with the coast ports. The large decline of 20,039 cwts. in the trade of the week under review as compared with the corresponding period in 1896 was almost entirely due to the exports to the Madras ports having fallen from 19,224 cwts. to only 7 cwts. in the week under report. The variations in the other heads are unimportant and call for no remarks.

Detailed statements showing the sources of supply and the places of destination, both as regards Foreign and Indian ports, are given below.

Imports. The rise of 11,240 cwts. in the import trade of Chittagong, which amounted to 11,969 cwts., was chiefly due to the receipts of rice and paddy from Burma, against nil in the corresponding week of 1896. No paddy having been brought there from Chittagong, the imports into Narayanganj showed a falling off of 3,069 cwts.

Exports. The export trade of Chittagong fell off by 3,012 cwts. in consequence of absence of despatches of rice to Bombay, which received 3,029 cwts. last year. There were no exports to Foreign ports from Cuttack and Puri, and the trade of those ports also declined by 29,230 cwts. and 5,159 cwts. respectively. Balasore, too, showed a falling off of 91,224 cwts., as there were no despatches of rice and paddy to the Maldives, Madras, and Bombay.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed, open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas by Order in Council made in pursuance of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, and dated the fourteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, Her Majesty, on the joint recommendation of the Admiralty and the Board of Trade, was pleased to direct that on and after the first day of September, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, the Regulations for preventing Collisions at Sea contained in an Order in Council dated the ninth day of January, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, and the additions by an Order in Council dated the thirteenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, made thereto, should be annulled, and that there should be substituted therefor the new Regulations contained in the first schedule to the said first-named Order in Council, and that the same should from and after the first day of September, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, apply to ships of the countries mentioned in the said second schedule thereto, whether within British jurisdiction or not.

And whereas by the Orders in Council dated respectively the twenty-fourth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, the twenty-sixth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one, the eighteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two, the twenty-third day of August, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three, and the second day of February, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, Her Majesty was pleased to direct that the operation of the Article numbered 10 of the New Regulations contained in the first schedule of the said Order in Council of the fourteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, should be suspended from time to time.

And whereas the Admiralty and the Board of Trade have jointly recommended to Her Majesty that, so far as regards British ships and Boats, the regulations hereinafter set forth shall be substituted for the regulations contained in the first schedule to the said Order in Council of the fourteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine.

Now, therefore, Her Majesty, by virtue of the powers vested in Her by the said recited Act, and by and with the advice of Her Privy Council is pleased to direct that, on and after the first day of September, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four the regulations contained in the schedule, hereto shall, so far as regards British ships and boats, be substituted for the regulations contained in the first schedule to the said Order in Council of the fourteenth day of August one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine.

SCHEDULE REFERRED TO IN THIS ORDER.

Regulations for preventing Collisions at Sea.

Article 1.—In the following rules every steam ship which is under sail and not under steam is to be considered a sailing ship; and every steam ship which is under steam, whether under sail or not, is to be considered a ship under steam.

Rules concerning Lights.

Article 2.—The lights mentioned in the following Articles numbered 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11, and no others, shall be carried in all weathers, from sunset to sunrise.

Article 3.—A seagoing steam ship when under way shall carry :—

(a) On or in front of the foremast, at a height above the hull of not less than 20 feet, and if the breadth of the ship exceeds 20 feet, then at a height above the hull not less than such breadth, a bright white light, so constructed as to show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 20 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light 10 points on each side of the ship, viz., from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on either side, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night, with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least five miles.

(b) On the starboard side a green light, so constructed as to show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the starboard side, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark nigh with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least two miles.

(c) On the port side a red light, so constructed as to show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the port side, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night, with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least two miles.

(d) The said green and red side lights shall be fitted with inboard screens projecting at least 3 feet forward from the light, so as to prevent these lights from being seen across the bow.

Article 4.—A steam ship, when towing another ship shall, in addition to her side lights, carry two bright white lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 3 feet apart, so as to distinguish her from other steam ships. Each of these lights shall be of the same construction and character, and shall be carried in the same position, as the white light which other steam ships are required to carry.

Article 5 (a).—A ship, whether a steam ship or a sailing ship, which from any accident is not under command, shall at night carry in the same position as the white light which steam ships are required to carry, and, if a steam ship, in place of that light, three red lights in globular lanterns, each not less than 10 inches in diameter, in a vertical line one over the other not less than three feet apart, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere at a distance of at least two miles; and shall by day carry in a vertical line one over the other, not less than three feet apart, in front of but not lower than her foremast head, three black balls or shapes, each two feet in diameter.

(b) A ship, whether a steam ship or sailing ship employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable, shall at night carry in the same position as the white light which steam ships are required to carry, and if a steam ship, in place of that light, three lights in globular lanterns each not less than 10 inches in diameter, in vertical line over one another, not less than 6 feet apart; the highest and lowest of these lights shall be red, and the middle light shall be white, and they shall be of such a character that the red lights shall be visible at the same distance as the white light. By day she shall carry in a vertical line one over the other not less than six feet apart, in front of but not lower than her foremast head, three shapes not less than two feet in diameter, of which the top and bottom shall be globular in shape and red in colour, and the middle one diamond in shape and white.

(c) The ships referred to in this Article, when not making any way through the water, shall not carry the side lights, but when making way shall carry them.

(d) The lights and shapes required to be shown by this Article are to be taken by other ships as signals that the ship showing them is not under command, and cannot therefore get out of the way. The signals to be made by ships in distress and requiring assistance are contained in Article 27.

Article 6.—A sailing ship under way or being towed shall carry the same lights as are provided by Article 3 for a steam ship under way, with the exception of the white light, which she shall never carry.

Article 7.—Whenever, as in the case of small vessels during bad weather, the green and red side lights cannot be fixed, these lights shall be kept on deck, on their respective sides of the vessel, ready for use; and shall, on the approach of or to other vessels, be exhibited on their respective sides in sufficient time to prevent collision, in such manner as to make them most visible, and so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

To make the use of these portable lights more certain and easy, the lanterns containing them shall each be painted outside with the colour of the light they respectively contain, and shall be provided with proper screens.

Article 8.—A ship, whether a steam ship or a sailing ship, when at anchor, shall carry, where it can best be seen, but at a height not exceeding 20 feet above the hull, a white light, in a globular lantern of not less than 8 inches in diameter, and so constructed as to show a clear uniform and unbroken light visible all round the horizon, at a distance of at least one mile.

Article 9.—A pilot vessel, when engaged on her station on pilotage duty, shall not carry the light required for other vessels, but shall carry a white light at the masthead, visible all round the horizon, and shall also exhibit a flare-up light or flare-up lights at short intervals, which shall never exceed fifteen minutes.

A pilot vessel, when not engaged on her station on pilotage duty, shall carry lights similar to those of other ships.

Article 10.—Open boats and fishing vessels of less than 20 tons net registered tonnage, when under way and when not having their nets, trawls, dredges, or lines in the water, shall not be obliged to carry the coloured side lights; but every such boat and vessel shall in lieu thereof have ready at hand a lantern with a green glass on the one side, and a red glass on the other side, and on approaching to or being approached by another vessel such lantern shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision, so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

The following portion of this Article applies only to fishing vessels and boats when in the sea off the coast of Europe lying north of Cape Finisterre:—

(a) All fishing vessels and fishing boats of 20 tons net registered tonnage, or upward, when under way and when not required by the following regulations in this Article to carry and show the lights therein named shall carry and show the same lights as other vessels under way.

(b) All vessels when engaged in fishing with drift nets shall exibit two white lights from any part of the vessel where they can be best seen. Such lights shall be placed so that the vertical distance between them shall be not less than 6 feet and not more than 10 feet; and so that the horizontal distance between them measured in a line with the keel of the vessel shall be not less than 5 feet and not more than 10 feet. The lower of these two lights shall be the more forward, and both of them shall be of such a character, and contained in lanterns of such construction as to show all round the horizon, on a dark night with a clear atmosphere, for a distance of not less than three miles.

(c) A vessel employed in line fishing with her lines out shall carry the same lights as a vessel when engaged in fishing with drift nets.

(d) If a vessel when fishing becomes stationary in consequence of her gear getting fast to a rock or other obstruction, she shall show the light and make the fog signal for a vessel at anchor.

(e) Fishing vessels and open boats may at any time use a flare-up in addition to the lights which they are by this Article required, to carry and show. All flare-up lights exhibited by a vessel when trawling dredging, or fishing with any kind of drag net shall be shown at the after part of the vessel, expecting that if the vessel is hanging by the stern to her trawl, dredge, or drag net, they shall be exhibited from the bow.

(f) Every fishing vessel and every open boat when at anchor between sunset and sunrise shall exhibit a white light visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least one mile.

(g) In fog, mist, or falling snow, a drift net vessel attached to her nets and a vessel when trawling, dredging or fishing with any kind of drag net, and a vessel employed in line fishing with her lines out, shall at intervals of not more than two minutes make a blast with her fog horn and ring her bell alternately.

Article 11. A ship which is being overtaken by another shall show from her stern to such last-mentioned ship a white light or a flare-up light.

Sound signals for fog, &c.

Article 12. A steam ship shall be provided with a steam whistle or other efficient steam sound signal, so placed that the sound may not be intercepted by any obstructions, and with an efficient fog horn to be sounded by a bellows or other mechanical means, and also with an efficient bell.* A sailing ship shall be provided with a similar fog horn and bell.

In fog, mist, or falling snow, whether by day or night, the signals described in this Article shall be used as follows; that is to say,—

(a) A steam ship under way shall make with her steam whistle, or other steam sound signal, at intervals of not more than two minutes, a prolonged blast.

(b) A sailing ship under way shall make with her fog horn, at intervals of not more than two minutes, when on the starboard tack one blast, when on the port tack two blasts in succession, and when with the wind abaft the beam three blasts in succession.

(c) A steam ship and a sailing ship, when not under way, shall at intervals of not more than two minutes ring the bell.

Speed of ships to be moderate in fog, &c.

Article 13. Every ship, whether a sailing ship or steam ship, shall, in a fog, mist, or falling snow, go at a moderate speed.

Steering and Sailing Rules.

Article 14. When two sailing ships are approaching one another, so as to involve risk of collision, one of them shall keep out of the way of the other, as follows, viz.:—

(a) A ship which is running free shall keep out of the way of a ship which is close-hauled.

(b) A ship which is close-hauled on the port tack shall keep out of the way of a ship which is close-hauled on the starboard tack.

(c) When both are running free with the wind on different sides, the ship which has the wind on the port side shall keep out of the way of the other.

(d) When both are running free with the wind on the same side, the ship which is to windward shall keep out of the way of the ship which is to leeward.

(e) A ship which has the wind aft shall keep out of the way of the other ship.

Article 15. If two ships under steam are meeting end on, or nearly end on, so as to involve risk of collision, each shall alter her course to starboard, so that each may pass on the port side of the other.

This Article only applies to cases where ships are meeting end on, or nearly end on, in such a manner as to involve risk of collision, and does not apply to two ships which must, if both keep on their respective courses, pass clear of each other.

* In all cases where the Regulations require a bell to be used, a drum will be substituted on board Turkish vessels.

The only cases to which it does apply are, when each of the two ships is end on, or nearly end on, to the other; in other words, to cases in which, by day, each ship sees the masts of the other in a line, or nearly in a line with her own; and by night, to cases in which each ship is in such a position as to see both the side lights of the other.

It does not apply by day to cases in which a ship sees another ahead crossing her own course or by night to cases where the red light of one ship is opposed to the red light of the other or where the green light of one ship is opposed to the green light of the other, or where a red light without a green light, or a green light without a red light, is seen ahead, or where both green and red lights are seen anywhere but ahead.

Article 16. If two ships under steam are crossing so as to involve risk of collision, the ship which has the other on her own starboard side shall keep out of the way of the other.

Article 17. If two ships, one of which is a sailing ship and the other a steam ship, are proceeding in such directions as to involve risk of collision, the steam ship shall keep out of the way of the sailing ship.

Article 18. Every steam ship, when approaching another ship, so as to involve risk of collision, shall slacken her speed or stop and reverse, if necessary.

Article 19. In taking any course authorised or required by these regulations, a steam ship under way may indicate that course to any other ship which she has in sight by the following signals on her steam whistle, viz.—

One short blast to mean "I am directing my course to starboard."
Two short blasts to mean "I am directing my course to port."
Three short blasts to mean "I am going full speed astern."

The use of these signals is optional, but if they are used the course of the ship must be in accordance with the signal made.

Article 20. Notwithstanding anything contained in any preceding Article, every ship, whether a sailing ship or a steam ship, overtaking any other, shall keep out of the way of the overtaken ship.

Article 21. In narrow channels every steam ship shall, when it is safe and practicable, keep to that side of the fairway or mid-channel which lies on the starboard side of such ship.

Article 22.—Where by the above rules one of two ships is to keep out of the way, the other shall keep her course.

Article 23. In obeying and construing these rules due regard shall be had to all dangers of navigation, and to any special circumstances which may render a departure from the above rules necessary in order to avoid immediate danger.

No ship under any circumstances to neglect proper precautions.

Article 24. Nothing in these rules shall exonerate any ship, or the owner, or master, or crew thereof, from the consequences of any neglect to carry lights or signals, or of any neglect to keep a proper look out, or of the neglect of any precaution which may be required by the ordinary practice of seamen, or by the special circumstances of the case.

Reservation of Rules for Harbours and Inland Navigation.

Article 25. Nothing in these rules shall interfere with the operation of a special rule, duly made by local authority, relative to the navigation of any harbour, river, or inland navigation.

Special lights for Squadrons and Convoys.

Article 26. Nothing in these rules shall interfere with the operation of any special rules made by the Government of any nation with respect to additional station and signal lights for two or more ships of war or for ships sailing under convoy.

Article 27. When a ship is in distress and requires assistance from other ships or from the shore, the following shall be the signals to be used or displayed by her, either together or separately, that is to say:

In the day time—

1. A gun fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. The International Code signal of distress indicated by N C;
3. The distant signal, consisting of a square flag, having either above or below it a ball, or anything resembling a ball.

At night—

1. A gun fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. Flames on the ship (as from a burning tar barrel, oil barrel, &c.);
3. Rockets or shells, throwing stars of any colour or description, fired one at a time, at short intervals.

C. L. PEEL.

SCHEDULE I.

Preliminary.

These Rules shall be followed by all vessels upon the high seas and in all waters connected therewith, navigable by sea-going vessels.

In the following rules every steam vessel which is under sail and not under steam is to be considered a sailing vessel, and every vessel under steam, whether under sail or not, is to be considered a steam vessel.

The word "steam vessel" shall include any vessel propelled by machinery.

A vessel is "under way" within the meaning of these Rules, when she is not at anchor, or made fast to the shore or aground.

Rules concerning Lights, &c.

The word "visible" in these Rules, when applied to lights, shall mean visible on a dark night with clear atmosphere.

Article 1.—The Rules concerning lights shall be complied with in all weathers from sunset to sunrise and during such time no other lights which may be mistaken for the prescribed lights shall be exhibited.

Article 2.—A steam vessel when under way shall carry—

(a) On or in front of the foremast, or if a vessel without a foremast, then in the fore part of the vessel, at a height above the hull of not less than 20 feet, and if the breadth of the vessel exceeds 20 feet, then at a height above the hull not less than such breadth, so, however, that the light need not be carried at a greater height above the hull than 40 feet, a bright white light, so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horison of 20 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light 10 points on each side of the vessel, viz., from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on either side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 5 miles.

(b) On the starboard side a green light so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the starboard side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(c) On the port side a red light so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on the port side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(d) The said green and red side-lights shall be fitted with inboard screens projecting at least 3 feet forward from the light, so as to prevent these lights from being seen across the bow.

(e) A steam vessel when under way may carry an additional white light similar in construction to the light mentioned in subdivision (a). Those two lights shall be so placed in line with the keel that one shall be at least 15 feet higher than the other, and in such a position with reference to each other that the lower light shall be forward of the upper one. The vertical distance between these lights shall be less than the horizontal distance.

Article 3.—A steam vessel when towing another vessel shall, in addition to her side-lights, carry two bright white lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, and when towing more than one vessel shall carry an additional bright white light 6 feet above or below such lights, if the length of the tow, measuring from the stern of the towing vessel to the stern of the last vessel towed exceeds 600 feet. Each of these lights shall be of the same construction and character, and shall be carried in the same position as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), except the additional light, which may be carried at a height of not less than 14 feet above the hull.

Such steam vessel may carry a small white light abaft the funnel or aftermast for the vessel towed to steer by, but such light shall not be visible forward of the beam.

Article 4 (a).—A vessel which from any acoident is not under command shall carry at the same height as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), where they can best be seen, and, if a steam vessel, in lieu of that light two red lights, in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, and of such a character as to be visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least 2 miles, and shall by day carry in a vertical line one over the other not less than 6 feet apart, where they can best be seen, two black balls or shapes each 2 feet in diameter.

(b) A vessel employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable shall carry in the same position as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), and if a steam vessel, in lieu of that light, three lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart. The highest and lowest of these lights shall be red, and the middle light shall be white, and they shall be of such a character as to be visible all round the horizon, at a distance of at least 2 miles. By day she shall carry in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, where they can best be seen, three shapes not less than 2 feet in diameter, of which the highest and lowest shall be globular in shape and red in colour, and the middle one diamond in shape and white.

(c) The vessels referred to in this Article, when not making way through the water, shall not carry the side lights, but when making way shall carry them.

(d) The lights and shapes required to be shown by this Article are to be taken by other vessels as signal that the vessel showing them is not under command and cannot therefore get out of the way.

These signals are not signals of vessels in distress and requiring assistance. Such signals are contained in Article 31.

Article 5.—A sailing vessel under way, and any vessel being towed, shall carry the same lights as are prescribed by Article 2 for a steam vessel under way, with the exception of the white lights mentioned therein which they shall never carry.

Article 6.—Whenever, as in the case of small vessels under way during bad weather, the green and red side-lights cannot be fixed, these lights shall be kept at hand lighted and ready for use; and shall, on the approach of or to other vessels, be exhibited on their respective sides in sufficient time to prevent collision, in such manner as to make them most visible, and so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side, nor, if practicable, more than 2 points abaft the beam on their respective sides.

To make the use of these portable lights more certain and easy, the lanterns containing them shall each be painted outside with the colour of the light they respectively contain, and shall be provided with proper screens.

Article 7.—Steam vessels of less than 40, and vessels under oars or sails of less than 20 tons gross tonnage, respectively, and rowing boats, when underway, shall not be obliged to carry the lights mentioned in Article 2 (a) (b) and (c), but if they do not carry them, they shall be provided with the following lights :—

1. Steam vessels of less than 40 tons shall carry :

(a) In the fore part of the vessel, or on or in front of the funnel where it can best be seen, and at a height above the gunwale of not less than 9 feet, a bright white light constructed and fixed as prescribed in Article 2 (a), and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(b) Green and red side-lights constructed and fixed as prescribed in Article 2 (b) and (c), and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 1 mile, or a combined lantern showing a green light and a red light from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on their respective sides. Such lantern shall be carried not less than 3 feet below the white light.

2. Small steamboats, such as are carried by sea-going vessels, may carry the white light at a less height than 9 feet above the gunwale, but it shall be carried above the combined lantern, mentioned in subdivision 1 (b).

3. Vessels under oars or sails, of less than 20 tons, shall have ready at hand a lantern with a green glass on one side and a red glass on the other, which, on the approach of or two other vessels, shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision, so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

4. Rowing boats, whether under oars, or sail, shall have ready at hand a lantern showing a white light, which shall be temporarily exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision.

The vessels referred to in this Article shall not be obliged to carry the lights prescribed by Article 4 (a) and Article 11, last paragraph.

Article 8.—Pilot vessels, when engaged on their station on pilotage duty shall not show the lights required for other vessels, but shall carry a white light at the masthead, visible all round the horizon, and shall also exhibit a flare-up light or flare-up lights at short intervals, which shall never exceed 15 minutes.

On the near approach of or to other vessels they shall have their side-lights lighted, ready for use, and shall flash or show them at short intervals, to indicate the direction in which they are heading, but the green light shall not be shown on the port side, nor the red light on the starboard side.

A pilot-vessel of such a class as to be obliged to go alongside of a vessel to put a pilot on board, may show the white light instead of carrying it at the masthead, and may, instead of the coloured lights above mentioned, have at hand ready for use a lantern with a green glass on the one side and a red glass on the other, to be used as prescribed above.

Pilot vessels, when not engaged on their station on pilotage duty, shall carry lights similar to those of other vessels of their tonnage.

*Article 9.

Article 10.—A vessel which is being overtaken by another shall show from her stern to such last-mentioned vessel a white light or a flare-up light.

The white light required to be shown by this Article may be fixed and carried in a lantern, but in such case the lantern shall be so constructed, fitted, and screened that it shall throw an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 12 points of the compass, viz., for 6 points from right aft on each side of the vessel, so as to be visible at a distance of at least 1 mile. Such light shall be carried as nearly as practicable on the same level as the side-lights.

Article 11.—A vessel under 150 feet in lenght, when at anchor, shall carry forward, where it can best be seen, but at a height not exceeding 20 feet above the hull, a white light in a lantern so constructed as to show a clear uniform and unbroken light visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least 1 mile.

A vessel of 150 feet or upwards in length, when at anchor, shall carry in the forward part of the vessel, at a height of not less than 20, and not exceeding 40 feet above the hull, one such light and at or near the stern of the vessel, and at such a height that it shall be not less than 15 feet lower than the forward light, another such light.

The length of a vessel shall be deemed to be the length appearing in her certificate of registry.

A vessel aground in or near a fairway shall carry the above light or lights and the two red lights prescribed by Article 4 (a).

Article 12.—Every vessel may, if necessary in order to attract attention, in addition to the lights which she is by these Rules required to carry, show a flare-up light or use any detonating signal that cannot be mistaken for a distress signal.

Article 13.—Nothing in these Rules shall interfere with the operation of any special rules made by the Government of any nation with respect to additional station and signal lights for two or more ships of war or for vessels sailing under convoy, or with the exhibition of recognition signals adopted by shipowners, which have been authorized by their respective Governments and duly registered and published.

* This Article will deal with regulations affecting fishing boats, and will be the subject of another Order, which will be submitted to Her Majesty for approval at a later date.

Article 14.—A steam vessel proceeding under sail only, but having her funnel up, shall carry in daytime, forward, where it can best be seen, one black ball or shape 2 feet in diameter.

Sound-Signals for Fog, etc.

Article 15.—All signals prescribed by this Article for vessels under way shall be given :

1. By "steam vessels" on the whistle or siren.
2. By "sailing vessels and vessels towed" on the fog-horn.

The words "prolonged blast" used in this Article, shall mean a blast of from 4 to 6 seconds' duration.

A steam vessel shall be provided with an efficient whistle or siren, sounded by steam or some substitute for steam, so placed that the sound may not be intercepted by any obstruction, and with an efficient fog-horn,to be sounded by mechanical means, and also with an efficient bell.* A sailing vessel of 20 tons gross tonnage or upwards shall be provided with a similar fog-horn and bell.

In fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain storms, whether by day or night, the signals described in this Article shall be used as follows, viz. :—

(a) A steam vessel having way upon her, shall sound, at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, a prolonged blast.

(b) A steam vessel under way, but stopped and having no way upon her, shall sound at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, 2 prolonged blasts, with an interval of about 1 second between them.

(c) A sailing vessel under way shall sound, at intervals of not more than 1 minute, when on the starboard tack one blast, when on the port tack two blasts in succession, and when with the wind abaft the beam three blasts in succession.

(d) A vessel, when at anchor, shall, at intervals of not more than 1 minute, ring the bell rapidly for about 5 seconds.

(e) A vessel, when towing a vessel employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable, and a vessel under way, which is unable to get out of the way of an approaching vessel through being not under command, or unable to manœuvre as required by these Rules, shall, instead of the signals prescribed in sub-divisions (a) and (c) of the Article, at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, sound three blasts in succession, viz., one prolonged blast followed by two short blasts. A vessel towed may give this signal and she shall not give any other.

Sailing-vessels and boats of less than 20 tons gross tonnage shall not be obliged to give the above-mentioned signals, but if they do not, they shall make some other efficient sound-signal at intervals of not more than 1 minute.

Speed of Ships to be Moderate in Fog, etc.

Article 16.—Every vessel shall, in a fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain-storms, go at a moderate speed having careful regard to the existing circumstances and conditions.

A steam vessel hearing, apparently forward of her beam, the fog-signal of a vessel the position of which is not ascertained, shall, so far as the circumstances of the case admit, stop her engines, and then navigate with caution until danger of collision is over.

Steering and Sailing Rules.

Preliminary—Risk of Collision.

Risk of collision can, when circumstances permit, be ascertained by carefully watching the compass bearing of an approaching vessel. If the bearing does not appreciably change, such risk should be deemed to exist.

Article 17.—When two sailing vessels are approching one another, so as to involve risk of collision, one of them shall keep out of the way of the other, as follows, viz:—

(a) A vessel which is running free shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is close-hauled.

(b) A vessel which is close hauled on the port tack shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is close-hauled on the starboard tack.

(c) When both are running free, with the wind on different sides, the vessel which has the wind on the port side shall keep out of the way of the other.

(d) When both are running free, with the wind on the same side, the vessel which is to windward shall keep out of the way of the vessel which is to leeward.

(e) A vessel which has the wind aft shall keep out of the way of the other vessel.

Article 18.—When two steam vessels are meeting end on, or nearly end on, so as to involve risk of collision, each shall alter her course to starboard, so that each may pass on the port side of the other.

This Article only applies to cases where vessels are meeting end on, or nearly end on, in such a manner as to involve risk of collision, and does not apply to two vessels which must, if both keep on their respective courses, pass clear of each other.

* In all cases where the Rules require a bell to be used, a drum may be substituted on board Turkish vessels, or a gong where such articles are used on board shall sea-going vessels.

The only cases to which it does apply are when each of the two vessels is end on, or nearly end on, to the other; in other words to cases in which, by day, each vessel sees the masts of the other in a line, or nearly in a line, with her own; and, by night, to cases in which each vessel is in such a position as to see both the side-lights of the other.

It does not apply, by day, to cases in which a vessel sees another ahead crossing her own course; or by night to cases where the red light of one vessel is opposed to the red light of the other, or where the green light of one vessel is opposed to the green light of the other, or where a red light without a green light, or a green light without a red light, is seen ahead, or where both green and red lights are seen any where but ahead.

Article 19.—When two steam vessels are crossing, so as to involve risk of collision, the vessel which has the other on her own starboard side shall keep out of the way of the other.

Article 20.—When a steam vessel and a sailing vessel are proceeding in such directions as to involve risk of collision, the steam vessel shall keep out of the way of the sailing vessel.

Article 21.—Where by any of the Rules one of two vessels is to keep out of the way, the other shall keep her course and speed.

Note.—When, in consequence of thick weather or other causes, such vessel finds herself so close that collision cannot be avoided by the action of the giving-way vessel alone, she also shall take such action as will best aid to avert collision. (See articles 27 and 29.)

Article 22.—Every vessel which is directed by these Rules to keep out of the way of another vessel shall, if the circumstances of the case admit, avoid crossing ahead of the other.

Article 23.—Every steam vessel, which is directed by these Rules to keep out of the way of another vessel shall on approaching her, if necessary, slacken her speed or stop or reverse.

Article 24.—Notwithstanding anything contained in these Rules, every vessel, overtaking any other, shall keep out of the way of the overtaken vessel.

Every vessel coming up with another vessel from any direction more than two points abaft, her beam, i.e., in such a position, with reference to the vessel which she is overtaking, that at night she would be unable to see either of that vessel's side-lights, shall be deemed to be an overtaking vessel; and no subsequent alteration of the bearing between the two vessels shall make the overtaking vessel a crossing vessel within the meaning of these Rules, or relieve her of the duty of keeping clear of the overtaken vessel until she is finally past and clear.

As by day the overtaking vessel cannot always know with certainty whether she is forwarded of or abaft this direction from the other vessel, she should, if in doubt, assume that she is an overtaking vessel and keep out of the way.

Article 25.—In narrow channels every steam vessel shall, when it is safe and practicable, keep to that side of fair-way or mid channel which lies on the starboard side of such vessel.

Article 26.—Sailing vessels under way shall keep out of the way of sailing vessels or boats fishing with nets or lines, or trawls. This Rule shall not give to any vessel or boat engaged in fishing the right of obstructing a fairway used by vessels other than fishing-vessels or boats.

Article 27.—In obeying and construing these Rules, due regard shall be had to all dangers of navigation and collision, and to any special circumstances which may render a departure from the above rules necessary in order to avoid immediate danger.

Sound Signals for Vessels in Sight of one another.

Article 28.—The words "short blast" used in this Article shall mean a blast of about one seconds duration

When vessels are in sight of one another, a steam vessel under way, in taking any course authorized or required by these Rules, shall indicate that course by the following signals on her whistle or siren, viz.:—

One short blast to mean, "I am directing my course to starboard."
Two short blasts to mean, "I am directing my course to port."
Three short blasts to mean, "My engines are going full speed astern."

No Vessel under any Circumstances to neglect proper Precautions.

Article 29.—Nothing in these Rules shall exonerate any vessel, or the owner, or master, or crew, thereof, from the consequences of any neglect to carry lights or signals, or of any neglect to keep a proper look-out, or of the neglect of any precaution which may be required by the ordinary practice of seamen, or by the special circumstances of the case.

Reservation of Rules for Harbours and Inland Navigation.

Article 30.—Nothing in these Rules shall interfere with the operation of a special rule, duly made by local authority, relative to the navigation of any harbour, river, or inland waters.

SCHEDULE II.

Distress Signals.

Article 31.—When a vessel is in distress and requires assistance from other vessels or from the shore, the following shall be the signals to be used or displayed by her, either together or separately, viz.:—

In the day time—

1. A gun or other explosive signal fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. The International Code signal of distress indicated by N C;
3. The distance signal, consisting of a square flag, having either above or below it a ball or anything resembling a ball;
4. A continuous sounding with any fog-signal apparatus.

A night—

1. A gun or other explosive signal fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. Flames on the vessel (as from a burning tar-barrel, oil-barrel, etc.);
3. Rockets or shells, throwing stars of any colour or description, fired one at a time, at short intervals;
4. A continuous sounding with any fog-signal apparatus.

The fees payable in advance for such additional courses are the following:—

	Rs.
For a single course of lectures on each subject in one year ...	40
For six months' attendance in each department of hospital practice ...	60

6. Any matriculated student who leaves the College before completing his University course, with the object of continuing his studies at a medical school in Europe, may receive certificates of attendance of lectures on payment of fees at the rate fixed in the foregoing rule. 7. Any person not being a matriculated student of the College who wishes to attend any course of lectures, or any department of hospital practice, may do so with the permission of the Principal and Professor of the subject on payment, in advance, of fees at the rates fixed in paragraph 5. Those who fail to gain the aforesaid percentage of marks will not be eligible for promotion, but will go through the first-year class again.

9 Students of the second year will be required to pass a College test examination in Anatomy, Physiology, and Materia Medica. Those who pass the examination with 20 per cent. in two subjects and 15 per cent. in a third will be entitled to go up in the following March or April for the Preliminary Scientific Examination of the Calcutta University, the subjects of which are Chemistry and Botany. Those who (after passing the College test) fail at the University examination will be entitled, equally with those who pass it, to join the third-year class, at the end of which the former will have to present themselves, as at present, for the combined Preliminary Scientific and 1st L.M.S (or 1st M.B.) examination.

10. Those students who fail at the College test examination of the second year will not be debarred from going up for the Preliminary Scientific examination, but will be encouraged to do so in order to get that stage over; but whether they pass or fail at the University examination, they will be relegated for a further year to the second-year class, provided that those who pass the University examination will not be required to attend the courses in those subjects in which they have passed.

Third-year students who fail a second time will be liable to removal from the College; but if they are specially recommended by the Principal, they may again be relegated to the third-year class, on payment of the fees laid down in Rule 16, and re-admitted to the 1st L.M.S. or 1st M.B. examination, and this concession may be allowed for any number of years at the discretion of the Principal.

13. Students of the fourth-year class will be required to pass a College test examination in Surgery, Medicine, Midwifery, and Medical Jurisprudence. Those who pass the examination with 20 per cent. of the marks in three subjects, and 15 per cent. in a fourth, will be eligible for promotion to the fifth-year class Those who fail will be relegated to the fourth-year class for a further year. The examination in Surgery and Medicine will be both theoretical and clinical; but those students who can obtain from the Visiting Surgeon or Physician, to whose wards they have been attached, a certificate that they have really profited by their instruction in either subject, will be excused the clinical examination in that subject.

14. Students who fail at the 2nd L.M.S or 2nd M.B. examination will have to attend a further course of lectures in the subject or subjects in which they have failed, in accordance with the regulations of the University.

15. The Principal will determine the maximum number that may be admitted to the first-year class. Students who have failed at the test examination of the first-year will have a prior claim to re-admission over new students.

16. Students re-admitted to a class after failure at the test examination will be required to pay half the regular fee for the session (Rs. 35), but extra fees as for dissection (Rs. 6) in full. The half fee must be paid at the commencement of the session in June. Those, however, who, after failing either at the Preliminary Scientific Examination or at the final examination, have to attend a further course of lectures in the subject or subjects in which they failed, shall be required to pay for such lectures a fee of Rs. 20 for one subject Rs. 30 for two, and Rs. 35 for three. Exceptions to this latter rule may be made in special cases by the Director of Public Instruction on the recommendation of the Principal.

18. Junior scholarships of Rs. 8 per mensem and free tuition for one year are annually awarded to ten students of the second year, on the results of the Test and Honour examinations at the end of the first year.

Scholarships of the same value are awarded to ten students at the commencement of their third year, on the results of the Test and Honour examinations at the end of their second year, provided they have passed either the Preliminary Scientific L.M.S. or M.B. examination.

Ten senior scholarships of Rs. 12 per mensem and free tuition are awarded annually to students at the commencement of their fourth year, on the results of the Test and Honour examinations at the end of their third year, provided they have passed either the 1st L.M.S. or 1st M.B. examination. These scholarships are tenable for two years, provided the holder passes creditably the Test and Honour examinations at the end of his fourth year. In the event of any scholarship being forfeited under this condition, it may be awarded for one year to any student of the fifth year who has fulfilled the conditions and is not the holder of any scholarship. These scholarships shall not be awarded to students who have gained the Duga Charan Laha scholarship of Rs. 30 per mensem or any other scholarship.

Postal Notice.

THE attention of the public is invited to the advantages of fully prepaying postage on packets of printed papers for the United Kingdom. It has been found that in a large number of cases these packets are posted with insufficient postage, which, although allowed by the rules, leads to delay in their delivery, and causes annoyance to the persons addressed. It has therefore been thought desirable to bring the matter to general notice.

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary now ready at the Office of Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge is made); packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross-references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product, even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal 8vo. pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G.; Vol IV latter half of G to middle of L; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI (which consist of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI); and the Index. The Index is a Glossary of the Vernacular and European names of the plants, animals and minerals of India, and, as such, is a work of reference, which, it is hoped, will prove of considerable value.

Beacons at entrance.

The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 176 of 1897) that the undermentioned two pairs of beacons have been erected on either side of the entrance to Birikau river to facilitate the navigation over the bar :—

Each beacon consists of an iron framework, 8 or 9 feet high, surmounted by a white triangle.

Approximate position, lat. 1° 13′ 20″ S., long. 41° 51′ 10″ E.
The rear beacon bears N. 27° W., distant 110 yards from the front beacon.

2. Birikau beacons.—The front beacon is situated with Birikau flagstaff bearing S. 20° W., distant about half a cable; and Yunda point S. 55° E.

Amended positions of islet and rocks eastward of Awang bay.

The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 183 of 1897) that the islet and rocks above water, shown on the charts eastward of Awang bay, south coast of Lombok, are situated more to the eastward; and they have been placed in the undermentioned positions on the Admiralty chart :—

1. A rock above water in lat. 8° 55′ 30″ S., long. 116° 29′ 30″ E.

2. A cluster of an islet and three rocks above water, included between lats. 8° 55′ 10″ S. and 8° 55′ 50″ S., and longs. 116° 30′ 15″ E. and 116° 30′ 45″ E.

As there is some doubt as to whether any rocks exist immediately eastward of Awang bay, the letters E.D. have been written against those shown on the charts in that position.

Additional lights, Little Woody island.

THE Port Master, Brisbane, has given notice (No. 4 of 1897) that two pairs of white leading lights will be exhibited from Little Woody Island on and after the 31st March. The pair of lights showing to the northward are 450 feet apart, bearing when in line S. 43° E., and lead about two cables clear of the Long Middle Bank buoy. The second pair showing to the southward are 350 feet apart, they bear when in line N. 3° E., and lead about midway between the red beacon and black buoy shown on chart, intersecting the line of leading lights shown from White Cliffs nearly midway between the White Cliffs and the red buoy.

Directions.—Vessels leaving the Mary River or bound North through Sandy Strait will run down the White Cliffs lead as hitherto until the white leading lights on Little Woody Island bearing N. 3° E. come in line. Keep the latter in line until about half-a-mile distant from the island when haul up N. W. by N. ½ N. passing it at a distance of three cables, and continue until the white leading lights on the north end of the island are in line astern bearing S. 43° E. Keep the last-named pair in line until the Woody Island lights change from red to white, when proceed as before.

NEW MEMBER.

THE Hon'ble MR. PRATT took his seat in Council.

CONDITION OF RAILWAY PLATFORMS.

The Hon'ble RAI ESHAN CHUNDRA MITTRA BAHADUR asked—

Has the attention of the Government been called to the condition of the platforms at Sheoraphuli, Bhaddeshwar, and Khana Junction stations, which are all so low that ladies can with difficulty get out of the Railway compartments into the platforms, and from them to get into the train? Is the Government aware that Bhaddeshwar is a great place of trade, and that Sheoraphuli is a junction station for the Tarakeswar Railway, and that hundreds of Hindu ladies have daily to make use of the platform of the Sheoraphuli station? Was there not a petition presented to Mr. R. C. Dutt, then Magistrate of Hooghly, for the raising of this platform? Will the Government be pleased to state how that petition has been disposed of, and also to take steps for the removal of the much felt grievance to which I have called attention?

The Hon'ble MR. GLASS replied:—

"The attention of Government has not been drawn to the condition of the platforms at Sheoraphuli, Bhaddeshwar and Khana Junction on the East Indian Railway. It has been ascertained that a petition was presented to the Magistrate of Hooghly some time ago urging that the Sheoraphuli platform be raised: the Railway authorities were addressed in the matter by that officer and asked to take steps to remove the grievance, but apparently no reply has yet been given. The Public Works Department of this Government have also recently addressed the East Indian Railway enquiring what it is proposed to do to improve the platforms, but as the Agent has been absent from headquarters no reply has been received. A reply is, however, expected on his return."

The Hon'ble Mr. RISLEY added some remarks about the condition of the Khana junction platform.

SUBORDINATE JUDICIAL SERVICE.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

Will the Government be pleased to state whether the members of the Subordinate Judicial Service who have been appointed Sessions Judges are subject to the same rules as regards leave, travelling and deputation allowances, as Assistant Sessions Judges in Bombay and the Central Provinces?

The Hon'ble MR. BOLTON replied:—

"The Officers referred to in the Hon'ble Member's first question are members of the Subordinate Judicial Service temporarily appointed to be also Assistant Sessions Judges, and they remain subject to the rules of that service as regards leave and allowances."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

(a) In the rules framed by Government in 1894 for the appointment and promotion of officers in the Judicial Branch of the Provincial Civil Service, and published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 14th March, 1894, promotion to grades below that on Rs. 600 a month is said to be given ordinarily according to seniority, subject to fitness and approved conduct, while the right to promotion to the senior grades is reserved to the Lieutenant-Governor by special selection for merit without regard to seniority. Will the Government state whether in any case this right has been exercised by the Lieutenant-Governor, and if not, will His Honour now exercise the right with a view to give encouragement to meritorious officers in the service?

(b) Will the Government state whether there are any fixed rules for the transfer of Subordinate Judicial Officers? If not, will the Government frame such rules subject to such exceptions as any special case may require?

(c) Does priority of registration of the name of a candidate for the Subordinate Judicial Service ensure the appointment of the candidate whose name is thus registered to an acting or permanent Munsifship? If so, will the Government state whether such a rule is observed and appointments are made in accordance therewith?

The Hon'ble MR. BOLTON replied:—

"(a) The right alluded to has been exercised by His Honour.

"(b) There are no fixed rules for the transfer of officers in the Subordinate Judicial or any other Service, and the Lieutenant-Governor sees no necessity for such rules.

"(c) Under the rules for admission into the Judicial Branch of the Provincial Civil Service, priority of entry in the register confers no right of priority of appointment; and a candidate's name must be struck off the register if he fails to obtain an appointment before he attains the age of 29 years. Other things being equal, priority of registration is taken into account; but it is necessary sometimes to make exceptions, and these may result in particular candidates not securing appointments before they reach the age limit."

ESTATES PARTITION BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. FINUCANE presented the Preliminary Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the law relating to the partition of estates. He said:—

"As we have made numerous alterations in the Bill, we have presented only a preliminary report, and propose to have the Bill re-published. The principal changes which have been made are that we have lowered the limit of partibility of revenue from Rs. 100 to Rs. 20, and we have re-cast the whole of Chapter V regarding the survey and record-of rights. The Select Committee describe the change made in that Chapter thus:—

'We have re-cast this Chapter. The Bill, as introduced, provided for the making of a complete survey and the preparation of a record-of-rights, including the determination of the status of all tenants and the decision of all disputes by the Deputy Collector, whose decisions were to be deemed to be correct until the contrary was proved and were to be appealable only to the Revenue authorities.

'Under the Bill for amendment of the Bengal Tenancy Act, which is now before the Council, Revenue Officers are to be deprived of the power of deciding disputes as to possession, right and title, and their orders are not to have the force and effect of decrees of a Civil Court. We think that still less should powers to decide disputes be given them in partition proceedings.

'The determination and recording of the status of tenants are not necessary for the purpose of apportioning the revenue of estates under partition, and for this reason, and because the proprietors unanimously object to complicating the proceedings by recording the rights of the tenants, we have omittted this status of tenants from the particulars which the Deputy Collector is to record in making a survey.

'We have provided that the Deputy Collector shall make a survey showing the area of land held by each tenant and prepare a record of existing rents (i) as stated by the landlord, (ii) as stated by the tenant, and (iii) as taken for the purposes of the partition. We have also provided that a copy of extracts relating to their holdings containing these particulars shall be given to the tenants. We think these extracts will sufficiently protect them against the risk of having the partition proceedings made use of to their detriment. We have attached no special evidential value to the entries made by the Deputy Collector in the survey papers and record of existing rents. They may be referred to by the Courts as evidence of the contemporaneous admissions or allegations of the parties as to the amount of the rent at the time the record was prepared, and as evidence of what was the Deputy Collector's opinion as to the amount of the rent, and no more. We do not think it necessary for the purposes of the partition, or desirable on general grounds, to empower the Deputy Collector to decide any disputes relating to rent or status in the course of partition proceedings, and have modified the Chapter accordingly.'

"The other amendments made by the Select Committee are purely of a technical nature, and I need not take up the time of the Council in referring to them. The Lieutenant-Governor has ordered the Preliminary Report and the Bill as amended by the Select Committee to be published for the purpose of eliciting opinions."

AMENDMENT OF CERTAIN SECTIONS OF BENGAL TENANCY ACT, 1885.

The Hon'ble MR. FINUCANE also introduced the Bill to amend sections 30, 31, 39, 52 and 119 and Chapter X of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, and moved that it be read in Council. He said:—

"SIR,—The duty now devolves upon me to move that the Bill to amend sections 30, 31, 52 and 119 and Chapter X of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1895, be read in Council. This Bill, with a full statement of its Objects and Reasons, has been in the hands of Hon'ble Members for some days back. Hon'ble Members are a ware that the discussions which eventuated in the Bengal Tenancy Act began in connection with a small Bill 'to provide for the more speedy realisation of arrears of rent, and to amend the law relating to rent' which was originally suggested by the Hon'ble Kristo Das Pal, and introduced into this Council in 1878. These discussions were carried on continuously from the date of the appointment of the Bihar and Bengal Rent Commissions in 1878 and 1879, throughout the periods of office of two Viceroys, Lord Ripon and Lord Dufferin, and of two Lieutenant-Governors, Sir Ashley Eden and Sir Rivers Thompson, down to 1885 when the Bengal Tenancy Act was passed.

"Discussions which began with a small Bill for facilitating the realisation of arrears of rent and the settlement of rent, in private estates, by Revenue Officers, ended with the Bengal Tenancy Act. There were some who held at the time that Act was under consideration that the land was the absolute property of the zamindars who were, or ought to be, entitled to do as they pleased with it, and, according to them, the Bill which resulted in the Act of 1885 was of a revolutionary and confiscatory character. There were others who held that by the common law and immemorial custom of India the raiyats were, before the permanent settlement, entitled to hold their lands at the pargana rates, which were fixed and unalterable rates, that the permanent settlement was never intended to deprive them of that right, but on the contrary that Lord Cornwallis' intention was to secure the raiyats in the possession of their lands at rates as fixed and unalterable as the revenue payable to the British Government by the zamindars themselves. According to these latter authorities the Act was an earnest but not completely successful attempt to restore to the raiyats of Bengal some of those ancient rights of which they had been deprived subsequently to the date of the permanent settlement and were then being deprived. According to those who held this view the Tenancy Bill of 1885, far from being revolutionary or confiscatory, was, on the contrary, inspired by that spirit of true conservatism, which cuts down the parasite so that the tree may flourish. The Act was a compromise between these conflicting views.

"I think it may be truly said, that no Act passed by the Indian Legislature was ever submitted to such prolonged, careful and searching investigation as the Tenancy Act. No Bill was ever more ably defended, on the one hand, by the eminent men who supported it, and none, on the other, was ever so severely criticised and stoutly opposed by those who were not in favour of it. The result of seven years' discussion was, as I have said, the compromise embodied in the Act as it stands.

"Bearing these facts in mind, it will doubtless be felt by the Council, and outside of the Council, that it is no light matter to re-open discussion on any of the fundamental principles then accepted as a settlement of the questions at issue, and strong reasons will naturally be expected to justify the adoption of such a course.

"These reasons it is my duty, and it will be my endeavour, to lay before the Council.

"The literature connected with the Tenancy Act before the date of its passing fills 14 large volumes in the records of the Bengal Secretariat. As Macaulay said in one of his essays, writing of Dr. Nare's Memoirs of Lord Burleigh, compared with the labour of reading through these volumes, all other labour would be agreeable occupation.

"But I trust that it will not be necessary for Hon'ble Members to undergo this labour in order to master the provisions of this Bill.

"Macaulay goes on to tell of a criminal who was suffered to make his choice between reading the works of a certain historian and the galleys. He chose the history; but when he had gone a certain length and came to read of the war of Pisa, it was too much for him. He changed his mind and went to the galleys. I hope that the literature connected with defects, some real and some, as I think, imaginary, discovered within the past five years in the Tenancy Act, and the literature which may spring up from the introduction of this Bill, may not be to those who in the future may have to study the law and literature of landlord and tenant in Bengal, what the war of Pisa was to Macaulay's criminal.

"It is not, as you Sir informed the Council at one of the first meetings over which you presided, the intention or wish of Government now to re-open the whole field of discussion on every question relating to the law of landlord and tenant in Bengal; nor is it intended to open the way to a no-rent agitation on the one side, or an agitation for undoing what was done in favour of the tenantry of Bengal by the Act of 1885 on the other.

"The object of this Bill is to make amendments in certain specified sections with a view to giving effect to the intentions of the authors of the Tenancy Act of 1885, in respect of which sections experience has shown that they were so worded as to give room for misunderstanding of their meaning, or in respect of which, though the meaning and intention are clear, yet the agency and procedure provided for giving effect to them have proved by experience to be unsuitable. It is hoped and intended that the discussions on the Bill may be confined to the particular sections which it is proposed to amend.

"I need not occupy the time of the Council with a lengthened narrative of the origin and history of the present Bill. Among the authors of the Tenancy Act Sir Steuart Bayley was one of the chief. While he was Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, survey and settlement operations were not undertaken on so extensive a scale as they have since been, and no great difficulty was experienced in carrying out provisions of Chapter X of the Tenancy Act. The vaticinations of those who predicted that the Act (the operation of Chapter X especially) would convulse society, lower the value of landed property and set landlord and tenant by the ears were all falsified by events. The value of proprietary rights and of tenants' rights has never been higher, the relations of landlord and tenant have never been more harmonious, and never have there been fewer agrarian riots or disturbances in these provinces than since the Tenancy Act was passed. But when Sir Charles Elliott took charge of the administration of Bengal, difficulties arose and discussions took place between Revenue Officers carrying out settlements of rent and revenue, the Board of Revenue and the Bengal Government, which lasted during the whole period of Sir Charles Elliott's administration. The outcome of these discussions was a Minute by the late Lieutenant Governor, in which he recorded the opinion that the procedure prescribed by Chapter X of the Tenancy Act was too cumbrous, dilatory and expensive to permit of the settlement of rents being carried out under it on a large scale, at a reasonable expenditure of time and money. Sir Charles Elliott, therefore, recommended legislation. At this stage the administration of Bengal was assumed by your Honour, and one of your earliest acts as Lieutenant-Governor was to summon a Conference to Belvedere to consider Sir Charles Elliott's Minute and other documents bearing on the subject of the amendment of the law.

"Both Members of the Board of Revenue, the Revenue Secretaries to the Governments of India and Bengal, the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, the Director of Land Records and some of the Settlement Officers were present at that Conference, and the conclusion almost unanimously agreed to was that Chapter X of the Act and certain other sections required amendment so as to render them more clear and workable. A Minute was subsequently drawn up by Your Honour on the whole subject and a Bill was prepared under your instructions, in which the conclusions come to by the Conference were embodied,

The Bill was submitted to the Government of India and by them to the Secretary of State, who, as well as His Excellency the Governor-General in Council, have accorded their sanction to its introduction in this Council.

"It will thus be seen that this Bill is not the work, and does not represent the views, of any particular individual. It is the result of lengthened discussions, in which various officials and others have taken part, and it represents the mature conclusions to which the Government of India and the Government of Bengal, as a whole, have come after careful consideration.

"I now proceed to explain the changes in the Act proposed to be made by the present Bill, and the reasons for these proposals. They may be divided broadly into three classes, namely, proposals intended—

(1) to clear up doubts and difficulties of procedure which have arisen in the course of experience in the working of Chapter X of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885;

(2) to facilitate the settlement of rents when undertaken on a large scale, either for the purpose of settling land-revenue or on the application of private individuals;

(3) to amend the substantive law relating to the enhancement and reduction of rents, so as to make certain provisions of the law workable, and to give effect to the intention of its authors regarding certain points on which, owing to want of sufficient clearness in the wording of the law, or to the interpretations put on it by the Civil Courts, it has been found in practice to be inoperative.

"The principal changes in procedure proposed in Chapter X of the Tenancy Act are these two:—(1) Under the Act revenue officers were intended and empowered to decide all disputes that came before them at any time up to the final publication of the records, in the same way, and following with slight modifications the same procedure, as the Civil Courts, whether such disputes related to possession, right, title, status or any other question that might arise from an entry made or proposed to be made in, or an omission from, the record. Their decisions were to have the force and effect of decrees of the Civil Courts, and were to be subject to appeal only to a Special Judge appointed by Government for the purpose, and from him to the High Court; but it was not intended that the correctness of their orders on any dispute so decided should be liable to be questioned in the ordinary Munsifs' Courts. Now it is proposed that Revenue Officers shall not finally decide any questions of the kind, nor are their orders to have the force and effect of decrees of the Civil Courts. When a dispute is raised on any of the classes of questions just mentioned, Revenue Officers will endeavour to ascertain to the best of their ability the true state of things, and after hearing what the parties concerned have to say, they will pass a summary order directing that entry to be made in the record which appears to them to be the proper one. These entries will be presumed to be correct, but any one who is dissatisfied with them can contest their correctness in the ordinary Civil Courts having jurisdiction to entertain a suit for recovery of rent of the land which forms the subject-matter of the dispute.

"I will explain later on why this change is proposed. Here I merely note the fact.

"(2) The second great change proposed in the procedure prescribed in Chapter X is in the method and agency for the determination of fair-rents. Under the present law, Revenue Officers are bound to settle rents, as in the case of decision of disputes, on the same principles, in the same way, and following the same procedure as the Civil Courts; their final orders or decisions fixing fair rents are appealable to the Special Judge, but no second appeal, as regards the question whether the rent is pitched too high or too low, lies to the High Court against an order of a Revenue Officer fixing a fair rent.

"Under the Bill it is proposed that the orders of Revenue Officers fixing fair rents shall not be appealable to the Special Judge, but to the superior Revenue authorities, and that the finding of the Revenue authorities as to what the amount of the fair rent is, shall be final, except in certain specified classes of cases, in which it is left open to the parties to contest in the Civil Court the orders of the Revenue authorities even as to the amount of a fair rent settled, but only on certain specified grounds.

"If I have succeeded in making these two points clear, it will be manifest in the first place that the Bill not only does not curtail the powers of the ordinary Civil Courts, but, on the contrary, that it actually enlarges the powers of these Courts, that it transfers to them from the Revenue Officers the decision of all disputes involving questions of possession, status, right, and title, that it allows an appeal to the High Court on every point on which an appeal now lies to that Court, and that all it does is to alter the procedure for settlement of rent and to transfer the right of appeal on questions of fixing rents from the Special Judge to the Revenue authorities. It is true it allows no resort to the ordinary Munsiffs' Courts or to the High Court as to the amount of a rent settled, except on certain specified grounds, but neither does the present law.

"I now proceed to state reasons why the first of the changes mentioned above, namely, the transference of the decision of disputes to the Civil Courts, is proposed. The framers of the Act of 1885 thought that on a Revenue Officer beginning a record of rights, he would find himself face to face with numerous cases in which, on the one side or the other, the status of the raiyat, the area of the holding, the amount of the rent payable, were the subject of dispute. Unless he could deal with these disputes, the record would, they thought, be of little value, and it was, in their opinion, obviously absurd to empower one officer to settle the question of status and area, and then to send another to settle the question of rent. It appeared to them equally unreasonable to empower a Revenue Officer, with all the parties and witnesses before him, to decide disputes and then to allow the whole matter to be re-opened from the very beginning in a Civil Court.

"The natural result of such a course must, it was supposed, be to leave behind the Revenue Officer a crop of litigation for the Civil Courts to deal with after the Revenue Officer had left. Hence the Select Committee on the Tenancy Bill empowered the Revenue Officers to decide all disputes that might arise out of their own proceedings, instead of leaving them over for the decision of the Civil Courts.

"It will be asked, why is it now proposed to depart from the conclusion then come to in this respect? The answer is—firstly, that the Revenue Officers themselves have, in recent years, declared that the burden of deciding questions of possession, status, right and title, following the procedure of the Civil Procedure Code, is too heavy for them, and have begged to be relieved of it; and secondly, that the High Court have declared that the class of officers employed on survey and settlement proceedings are unfit for the work of deciding questions of status, right and title.

"In one of their judgments the Hon'ble Judges of the High Court expressed the opinion that the Legislature could not have intended to transfer civil suits as to rights in land between tenant and tenant to the Revenue Officer, and in another they declared that they did not think that the Legislature contemplated the formidable result that officers, such as those entrusted with the duty of preparing records of right, should be permitted to enquire into disputes as to the titles to land of indefinite extent.

"It will be shown presently that the intention of the Legislature in reality was that Revenue Officers should enquire into and decide all disputes coming before them. But however that may be, the proposals now made in this respect are in accordance with the views of the Hon'ble Judges as enunciated in the decisions to which I have referred, and as they are also in accordance with the wishes of the Revenue Officers concerned, it is hoped that they will meet with general approval.

"The sole objection to this part of the Government proposals is in this, that, as the authors of the Tenancy Act feared, the Revenue Officers will leave after them disputes which they have raised but not finally settled, and as these disputes will, if the parties wish to have them decided at all, have to be decided by the Civil Courts, the suitors, especially those of the poorer classes, may find the cost of litigation in the Civil Courts much higher and the results not more satisfactory than the decisions of the Revenue Officers have been. This is no doubt a serious risk; but the difficulties put in the way of Revenue Officers by the decisions of the superior Civil Courts are so great that some change in the law is considered clearly necessary, and no more satisfactory solution of the problem has in the opinion of Government been suggested than that now proposed in the Bill.

"The difficulties experienced, and the way in which it is proposed to meet them, cannot, I think, be more clearly explained than they are explained in paragraphs 2 to 5 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons, from which the extract which I am about to read is taken :—

'The intention of the framers of the Tenancy Act, as explained in Council by Sir Steuart Bayley, when presenting the Report of the Select Committee, clearly was that all disputes affecting the record-of-rights or fixation of rents were to be formally and finally decided by the Revenue Officer, subject only to appeal to the Special Judge, and to a second appeal to the High Court in certain specified cases. Entries in the record, which were not disputed up to the time of final publication of the record, were to be presumed to be correct till the contrary was proved. If a dispute as to any entry in, or omission from, the record arose, it was to be decided by the Revenue Officer, and his decision was to have the force and effect of a decree. So that every entry in the record as finally published was to have attached to it either (a) the presumption of correctness, or (b) the force and effect of a decree of a Civil Court. Objections might be made at any time during the publication of the draft record, which the Revenue Officer was to summarily hear and consider, and disputes raised at any time before the final publication of the record were to be heard and decided. The distinction between an objection and a dispute was not, however, clearly defined, and the result has been that the Civil Courts have in some cases held that the Revenue Officer is bound to hear, as civil suits, trifling objections which can be adequately disposed of summarily, to the satisfaction of the parties, without the expense and delay entailed by the formal procedure of a civil suit. On the other hand, where Revenue Officers have heard and decided disputes, following the procedure of the Civil Procedure Code, in which cases it was intended that their decisions should, subject to appeal to the Special Judge, be res judicata between the parties, the Civil Courts have in some cases held that their decisions, though not appealed against, were not res judicata, that no finality attached to them, and that it was open to the parties to re-open the questions decided in the ordinary Civil Courts.

'Further, the Courts have held, where a survey is ordered to be made, and a record-of-rights prepared, of a particular estate or local area, and a dispute arises as to whether certain lands formed part of that estate or local area, that the Revenue Officer has no jurisdiction to hear and decide the dispute, and that when a dispute arises as to whether land claimed rent-free was properly so held or not, the Revenue Officer has no authority to hear and decide the dispute; and, again, that when a dispute arises as between one landlord and another landlord, or one tenant and another tenant, regarding the ownership or occupation of land, the Revenue Officer has no authority to hear and decide the dispute. It has, in short, been held that the Revenue Officer can only hear and decide a dispute between a landlord and tenant, when the relationship of landlord and tenant is proved or admitted to exist.

'The effect of these decisions is to curtail to a very great extent the powers of the Revenue Officer to decide disputes arising out of his proceedings, to leave gaps in the record-of-rights, and to drive the parties to litigation after the Revenue Officer has left the ground, even as regards matters which he has nominally decided.

'That this was not the intention of the framers of the Act is shown by the following extract from Sir Steuart Bayley's speech in Council in presenting the Report of the Select Committee on the Tenancy Bill as passed :—

"What we have done, then, has been to give the Revenue Officer, in the first instance, power to settle all disputes that may come before him. Where no dispute arises, he will record what he finds, he will not alter rents, and his entries will only have a presumptive value in cases afterwards brought before the Courts; where a dispute arises, he will decide it, on the same grounds, by the same rules, and with the same procedure, as a Civil Court. His decision will be liable to appeal like that of the ordinary Civil Court to a Special Judge, who may or may not be the Judge of the district, and will be subject to a further special appeal to the High Court. In appeal, the High Court may settle a new rent, but in so doing is to be guided by the other rents shown in the rent-roll. In other words, there can be no second appeal to the High Court merely on the ground that the rent has been pitched too high or too low, but if a second appeal is preferred, as it may be on the ground that the Special Judge, owing to some error on a point of law, has, for example, found the holding to comprise more land or less land than it actually does comprise, or has given the raiyat a wrong status, and if the appellant succeeds, the High Court can, without altering the rates, reduce or increase the rent, as the case may be.

"The decision of the Revenue Officer in disputed cases, subject to these appeals, will have the effect of a judgment of the Civil Court and will be res judicata, thus bearring a fresh suit for enhancement for 15 years."

'It is clear that the decisions of the Civil Courts above referred to are not in accord with the intention of the framers of the Act expressed in the preceding extract, and it is thought that if the decisions of Revenue Officers are not to have finality on all questions that come before them, subject to appeal to the Special Judge, it is desirable to relieve them altogether of the duty of deciding disputes as civil suits, and to confine them, in the first place, to the preparation of a record of existing facts, rents and status. This record will be prepared, after careful investigation, under such rules as the Local Government may prescribe. It will be published in draft; objections made to any entry in or omissions from it will be carefully considered and disposed of under such rules as may be prescribed by Government; then it will be finally published, and the presumption of correctness will be attached to entries made in it. If the parties afterwards wish to dispute the correctness of any entry other than an entry of rent settled or any omission, they can do so in the Civil Courts.

"For these reasons then it is proposed that Revenue Officers shall be relieved altogether of the duty of deciding disputes. They will in preparing records of right confine themselves to ascertaining and recording, to the best of their ability, existing facts of possession and status. Presumptive evidential value of correctness will be given to the entries made by them in their records, and it will be open to the parties concerned to question the correctness of these entries in the Civil Courts.

"I now come to the reasons for the second important change proposed, namely, that in the procedure, method and agency for settling rents. The method of settling rents prescribed in the Tenancy Act is briefly this—the existing rents are presumed to be fair, and any one who wants to alter them has to show, by legal evidence, the grounds of the proposed alteration. The present Act provides that in all proceedings of settlement of rents under Chapter X the Revenue Officer shall, subject to rules made by the Local Government, adopt the procedure laid down in the Code of Civil Procedure for the trial of suits, and their orders fixing fair rents are appealable to the Special Judge. This implies that each individual case must, (subject to joinder of tenants holding under the same landlord in the same village,) be dealt with separately, a separate record being made and the evidence being separately recorded in each individual case. Now when settlements of revenue are being made on a large scale as they are in Orissa and Chittagong, and rents have consequently to be settled for all the tenants of an entire Division containing hundreds of thousands of holdings, it must be manifestly impossible to treat the settlement of rent in the case of each individual tenant judicially and as a separate civil suit if the proceedings are to be completed within a reasonable limit of time and at a reasonable expenditure of money. Moreover, it is not necessary for the ends of justice to treat each individual tenant's case separately. When, for example, a rise or fall in the prices since the rents were last fixed has been established to the satisfaction of the Court or the Revenue Officer, and an alteration in the rents generally is sought on the ground of rise or fall in prices since the rents were last fixed, it would obviously involve great waste of time and money to record the evidence on the point of alteration in prices over and over in each separate case. The same remark applies to a prevailing rate. If a prevailing rate is once established for a village or local area, it should not be necessary to record all the evidence in support of it over and over again in each individual tenant's case. But it is necessary to do this if the judicial procedure is to be followed in the settlement of rents. To meet these and other difficulties, it is now proposed to dispense with the judicial procedure altogether in the settlement of fair rents by Revenue Officers, and to substitute more elastic methods of settling rents under the supervision and control of the Superior Revenue authorities, whose findings will be liable to be contested in the Civil Courts on certain specified grounds and on those grounds only.

"Nobody who has not travelled through Bengal, Bihar and Orissa, and studied on the ground the existing land-tenures, can fully comprehend the immense variety and complication of tenures and of rent systems that prevail in these Provinces.

"In Chittagong, on the one side, small plots of permanently-settled and temporarily-settled lands measuring a half an acre or less—plots of what are known as long-term and short-term taluks, itmams, daritmams, and various other tenures of the kind, not to speak of plots embraced in ordinary occupancy and non-occupancy raiyats' holdings—are all interspersed like squares on a chess-board in the same village. The same person is often proprietor, and, having created a tenure under himself in favour of another person, then becomes an occupancy tenant under the tenure-holder of his own creation in land of which he is also proprietor.

"In Backerganj there are no less than 13 different grades of intermediate tenure holders between the proprietor and the actual cultivator, and the same person often holds shares as proprietor and again as tenure-holder under another tenure-holder and as occupancy raiyat under yet another, all in the same plot of land. To give a concrete example. In a particular estate in that district one Kamiruddin has a small plot of land. He holds a fractional share, represented by $\frac{7081}{12288}$ of that plot as an occupancy raiyat under a howladar, a share represented by $\frac{117}{3072}$ under another howladar as tenant at fixed rates, $\frac{105}{3072}$ as occupancy raiyat under the same howladar, and $\frac{147}{12288}$ as under-raiyat.

"Again in Chota Nagpur, in another direction, rent is assessed not by an acreage rate, but by guesswork according to the number of ploughs the tenant may have or the quantity of seed sown by him. In Bihar, in another direction, the system of tenures is comparatively simple and is analogous to that prevailing in the neighbouring districts of the North-Western Provinces; but even there proprietary interests are extremely complicated, and a proprietor has been known to hold the one-millionth part of an estate, the Government revenue of the whole estate being one anna.

"How is it possible for a Judicial Officer sitting in a Court with no experience of these things to understand these complications of tenures or to fairly assess the rents that they ought to pay?

"But even if an officer sitting in Court could understand the intricacies of tenures, still the assessment of fair rents on a large scale under the procrustean rules of judicial procedure would be extremely difficult.

"As Sir John Shore wrote more than 100 years ago: 'The infinite varieties of soil and further variations of value from local circumstances are absolutely beyond the investigation and almost the comprehension not merely of a Collector, but of any body who has not made it the business of his life.'

"Sir Charles Elliott wrote 80 years later when he was Settlement Officer in the Central Provinces: 'The art of fixing rent is an almost lost one. If you ask any zamindar why such a field pays such a rent, the most intelligent of them can give you no answer but that his fathers fixed it so.'

"Now, such being the complications of tenures and such being the difficulties in the way of settling rents, on a great scale, it is considered by Government that the best agency for overcoming these difficulties is that of Revenue Officers, who can go on the ground, see the land for themselves, observe and ascertain the facts on the land, and consult the people concerned in their villages. It is thought that the hard-and-fast rules of the law of evidence and of the Civil Procedure Code are not suited to proceedings of this kind. It follows that it is not desirable to tie Revenue Officers down by the Civil Procedure Code or prescribe any one method of settling rents, and to insist that Revenue Officers shall follow that method only.

"A good Settlement Officer who is tactful and sympathetic will make a good settlement without any law. He will consult the people concerned, be guided largely by what they think, and generally carry them with him. He will recognise the facts that the people who have lived on the land all their lives know very much more than he can of its capabilities, that the present rent is the result of the past history of the holding and of the haggling of all the ages, and he will not, if he is wise, ignore that history or attempt to raise or lower all rents to one dead level according to his own preconceived notions of the fitness of things. The landlords and raiyats are generally reasonable when brought together in their villages, surrounded by their neighbours and restrained by the public opinion of their fellows. Hence it is deemed to be a matter of cardinal importance that officers settling rents should be free to consult the people in their villages, to note what they say, and themselves to observe facts on the spot and make use of the knowledge thus acquired in coming to a conclusion as to what a fair rent would be. But this the law of evidence and the Civil Procedure Code do not allow them to do.

"Again, an inexperienced Revenue Officer may, under the present law, do great mischief either by excessive enhancements or reductions of rent. The superior Revenue authorities have no real control over him under the law as it stands, and his decisions, however manifestly wrong, can only be reversed by a regular appeal to the Special Judge, which appeal can only be made within 30 days of the passing of his order, and when made may take a very long time to decide. Moreover, as I have already indicated, if each and every landlord and tenant in a vast estate or local area under settlement of rents were to contest the Revenue Officer's orders or proposals for settling fair rents, and to fight out every case as a civil suit as they are entitled to do, under the present law, it is clear that the proceedings would be interminable, and the expense intolerable. Happily the raiyats and landlords have not fought out every case. They have generally accepted reasonable proposals; but, admitting this to be the rule, there have been exceptions where the tenants kept aloof and rents were settled behind their backs, which were manifestly unfair. These rents were not appealed against to the Special Judge within the period of limitation. They became binding on the parties, and the Revenue authorities had no legal power to alter them. The law ought not to be based on the assumption that recourse to it will not be generally needed, and that people will always be moderate and reasonable.

"For all these reasons it is proposed to transfer the control of Revenue Officers in settling rents to the Revenue authorities, who are not to be tied down by the rules of judicial procedure, and it is also proposed to make the method of settling rents more elastic than it now is.

"The proposal as to procedure to be followed by Revenue Officers is that it shall be regulated by rules made by the Local Government, but the principles on which rents are to be settled by them are substantially in accord with the provisions of the present Act regulating enhancement or reduction of rents.

"The new section 104A. of the Bill enables the Revenue Officer to settle rents (1) by compromise, with the assent of the parties, when satisfied that the rents agreed upon are fair and equitable, or (2) to propose rents which, if accepted, may be settled as fair, or (3) to frame a Table of Rates where the conditions are such as to render this practicable, and to apply the rates to areas resulting from survey, or (4) to maintain the existing rents or to enhance or reduce them on the grounds specified in the Tenancy Act, or to settle them partly in one or more of these ways and partly in another.

"The first, second and fourth methods require no justification. They are in accord with the present law. It is obviously right that landlord and tenants should be encouraged to settle their differences among themselves, and that Settlement Officers should endeavour to make proposals which they may accept as being reasonable. It is because we have had Settlement Officers who were guided by these considerations that we have been able to carry on settlements of rent and revenue by amicable compromises on a large scale during the last twelve years. But you cannot always count on Settlement Officers being tactful, or on raiyats and landlords being reasonable, and when the former are injudicious or the latter unreasonable, and recourse to compulsory measures is necessary, it is submitted that the machinery of the law ought to be such as to permit of the vagaries of injudicious Revenue Officers being put straight, and unreasoning raiyats and zamindars brought to listen to reason.

"It is hoped that Revenue Officers will, in the future, continue to make amicable settlements, as they have hitherto done, but where they cannot do so, then they must have recourse to the third and fourth methods of settling rents. The fourth method merely reproduces the present law. The existing rents are to be presumed to be fair, and are to be enhanced or reduced on the grounds mentioned in Act.

"The system of Tables of Rates is new. That system was proposed originally by the Bengal Rent Commission, but it was abandoned when the Tenancy Act was being passed, because it was thought to be generally impracticable; it was admitted, however, at the time that there were some areas in which it was practicable to frame Tables of Rates. It is believed that this is the case in parts of Orissa, to which Province the Tenancy Act was not extended when passed. The provisions of the Bill for framing Tables of Rates follow to a large extent the proposals of the Rent Commission and those of the Bill of 1884. The Revenue Officer in framing his table is to have regard to the nature of the soil, situation of the land, means of irrigation, and other like considerations. The tables will be published, objections to them considered, and when finally approved by the superior Revenue authorities, they may be presumed to be correct, but the Revenue Officer is not to be bound to apply them in any particular case in which it may be unfair or inequitable to apply them.

"That the Revenue authorities are a more suitable agency for settling rents on a large scale than the Civil Courts has always been admitted, and was expressly asserted both by the Bengal Rent Commission and the Select Committee that reported on the Tenancy Bill just before it was passed. It has always been recognised that Government Officers, in settling rents for the purpose of ascertaining the assets on which revenue is to be based in temporarily-settled estates, should have more discretion in the matter of altering rents than was allowable to private individuals in suits in the Civil Courts. The Bengal Government, however, in 1885, with a view to showing that they claimed nothing in the way of enhanced rents in their own estates or in estates under settlement of revenue, which they were not prepared to concede to private landlords, consented to have the same rules and the same procedure applied to their own estates as were proposed for fixation of rent in private estates; but apparently the difference was not sufficiently considered, between the difficulties of a settlement of rents on a great scale and a settlement of rent of individual tenants by a Revenue Officer or Civil Court. In individual cases it is easy to follow the procedure of the Civil Procedure Code, but where hundreds of thousands of tenants' rents have to be settled, it is obviously most difficult, if not impossible, to follow the Civil Procedure Code, and to complete the proceedings within a reasonable time at a reasonable expenditure. It is not now, however, proposed to differentiate between the settlement of rents in Government and that in private estates. The procedure proposed for settlement of rents in Government estates and in areas under settlement of revenue will, as heretofore, be open to private landlords if they wish to have recourse to it.

"On the point that Revenue Officers are the best agency for settling rents on a large scale the Select Committee wrote thus:—

'The questions whether a rent is open to settlement, and, if so, the amount at which it should be settled, are of a complex nature depending on two very different sets of considerations. They depend in the first place on issues, relating to such matters as the existence of the tenancy, the extent of the land, the status of the tenant, the conditions under which he holds, &c., and possibly involving points of law, which could not satisfactorily be decided without the security afforded by an ultimate appeal to the highest judicial authority. They depend in the second place on considerations of an economical nature, such as the state of prices prevailing at different periods, the effect of improvements, and so forth, which it is universally admitted cannot be adequately dealt with either in the first instance or on appeal except after local enquiry and by persons possessed of special technical knowledge.'

"The Government of Bengal undertook in 1885 (and it was the only Government in India that had up to that time done so) to settle, by the Agency of Revenue Officers, all rents in areas under settlement of revenue, because it was considered fair to the landlords that the rentals on which the revenue is based should be authoritatively settled and be capable of realisation through the Courts, for otherwise Government might arbitrarily assess its revenue at a certain percentage of arbitrarily assumed rentals when there was no real guarantee that the landlords could realise those rentals. Government also undertook to settle rents on the application of the landlords or tenants in private estates by the same agency, and following the same procedure.

"But if Government is to undertake so great a task, it is clearly necessary that it should have at its disposal workable methods and machinery for performing it. It is submitted that the judicial and the Civil Court procedure, which requires evidence to be recorded in each individual case, does not provide the requisite means for settling rents in the million of holdings of Orissa now under settlement of revenue, nor in private estates in Bihar and elsewhere, when the landlords or tenants apply for settlement of rents on a large scale.

"I have dwelt on these two points, the transference of the power of settling rents to the Revenue authorities, and the withdrawal of the trammels of judicial procedure among other reasons because, as is well known, the people of Bengal are, as I think rightly, jealous of any interference by the Executive with the powers of the Civil Courts, and it may be supposed that this Bill involves such interference.

"Sir, if there be any two things introduced by the British Government into Bengal, which are held by the people of these Provinces to be sacred and not to be touched by the irreverent hands of the Executive, they are the Permanent Settlement and the independence of the Civil Courts. Your Honour announced in one of your earliest public or quasi-public utterances that you had no intention of attempting to interfere with the privileges or to lower in any way the status and dignity of the Judiciary, and you have recently ridiculed the idea of attempting to interfere with the Permanent Settlement. If I may presume to make a remark on these subjects myself, it would be this that I think that the people of Bengal are rightly jealous of the preservation intact of these two great benefits conferred upon them by our Rule. It is, in my opinion, to the permanent settlement that the people of Bengal largely owe that superior prosperity which they enjoy, compared with the natives of some other parts of the Empire, and it is to the reign of law impartially administered that they owe the maintenance of their civil rights. It is submitted that neither the Permanent Settlement nor the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts is affected by this Bill.

"Save in the cases connected with the settlement of land revenue, the Bill does not oust or touch in any way the right of the landlords and tenants to have their rents settled by the Civil Courts if they think fit. Excluding cases connected with settlement of land revenue, it is only on the application of the landlords or tenants themselves that the machinery provided in the Bill for settlement of rents can be brought into motion. The Bill merely offers the landlords and tenants an alternative procedure and agency to that for settling rents of the Civil Courts, and if they prefer the procedure and machinery of the Civil Courts, it will be open to them, notwithstanding anything contained in this Bill, to have recourse to the Civil Courts for settlement of their rents. I fully admit that the people of Bengal, at all events, have confidence, and rightly so, in the decisions of the Civil Courts, but the fact that the rights of over five million raiyats has been determined, and the rents of one and a half million raiyats settled by Revenue Officers in Bengal, during the past ten years, as a rule by consent of the parties to their proposals, without going through the lengthened formalities of judicial procedure, shows that the people of Bengal have also confidence in decisions and orders of the Revenue Officers properly controlled and guided. Revenue Officers have in Bengal since the passing of the Tenancy Act determined the status and recorded the rents of about five times the number of agricultural tenants, and they have settled fair rents for one and a half times the number of tenants in Great Britain and Ireland, together, and this great work has been effected without disturbances or disorder of any kind, while the number of appeals preferred to the Special Judges against their orders and decisions has been infinitesimally small.

"It is hoped, then, it has been shown, firstly, that the Bill does not trench on the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts, but on the contrary enlarges it, and secondly that the Revenue Officers are in a better position to settle rents on a large scale than the Civil Courts.

"There are other minor amendments proposed in Chapter X, which are described in paragraphs 21 to 31 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons. They are chiefly explanatory of the present law, or consequent on the important changes which I have mentioned.

"As I have detained the Council already too long, and other business awaits us, I propose to pass over these minor amendments and to come at once to the third and final object of the Bill, namely, the amendments proposed in the substantive law relating to the enhancement or reduction of rent.

"To avoid trespassing longer on the time of the Council than is absolutely necessary, it will perhaps be sufficient for me to read paragraphs 14 to 20 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons, in which these amendments are stated, and the reason for them given :—

'14. The third object of this Bill is to amend the substantive provisions of the law relating to the enhancement of rent, so as to make them workable on certain points on which they are now practically inoperative.

'In suits and proceedings for enhancement of rent on the ground of prevailing rate, the Civil Courts and Revenue Officers are bound to confine their enquiries and comparisons of rates to the same village, and the definition of what is a prevailing rate is so vaguely worded that in practice it is found almost impossible to enhance rents on this ground. A revenue survey village in Bengal may contain 100 acres, or several thousand acres, or may consist of scattered blocks. In does not necessarily furnish a proper standard of comparison. As regards the meaning of the term "prevailing rate" there is only one decision of the High Court bearing on the subject, and that declares that a prevailing rate is not an average rate, but does not explain what it is. The view taken by the Special Judges generally has been that a prevailing rate is a uniform rate paid by a majority of the raiyats for lands of the same class in the village. This was the interpretation generally put on the term "prevailing rate "under Act X of 1859.

'15. The effect of the wording of section 30 of the Act, as it stands, is to give a ground of enhancement which cannot be worked.

'It is proposed to somewhat enlarge the area for comparison, while an attempt is made to define what is meant by "prevailing rate" (see sections 2 to 4 of the Bill). Whatever objections there may be to this ground of enhancement generally, it is universally admitted that when land is held at a pepper-corn rent by reason of fraud or collusion between the proprietor's amla and the raiyats, there is no other ground on which the zamindar can obtain an enhancement up to a reasonable rate, except that of the "prevailing rate," and in such cases it is just that this ground of enhancement should be made a workable one. The intention of the amendments proposed in sections 30 and 31 of the Act, and of the new sections 31A and 31B, is to effect this object, without at the same time endangering the interests of the tenants by making an average rate a prevailing rate, thus rendering it possible to level all the lower rates up to such average rate while maintaining all the higher rates, however much in excess they may be of the average rate. As under the definition now proposed a prevailing rate will always be found where rates exist at all, and the effect of the new definition will be to greatly facilitate the enhancement of rents, and as rents are known to be already too high in certain districts, power is taken by Government to withhold the operation of the new definition from any district or part of a district. In order to guard against all the rates being levelled up to the maximum rate by manipulation of new prevailing rates from time to time, it is provided in section 31B that a prevailing rate once determined shall not be liable to enhancement except on the ground of rise in prices.

'16. It is also proposed to amend section 39 of the Act by repealing the words "prepared for any year subsequnt to the passing of this Act" (see section 5 of the Bill). These words were not contained in the earlier editions of the Tenancy Bill, or in the Bill as it came in its final shape from the Select Committee, but were introduced into the Bill as passed, on the motion of Sir William Hunter, on the ground that there were no adequate safeguards for the accuracy of price-lists prepared for periods antecedent to the passing of the Tenancy Act. But though this may be so as a general rule, it is evident that there are cases in which adequate safeguards of the accuracy of price-lists, prepared for periods antecedent to the passing of the Tenancy Act, may and do exist, and in which the absence of the attachment of a presumption of correctness to lists carefully prepared causes serious injury and unnecessary inconvenience. Where, for example, a settlement of land-revenue or of rents is being made in large tracts, the Revenue Officer, after examination of traders' books of account, oral enquiry from witnesses on the spot, investigation of official price-current lists, jail registers, commissariat accounts, previous settlement records, and all other available sources of information, will, under the control of the Board of Revenue, be in a position to frame sufficiently correct price-lists for passed periods, to which the presumption of correctness may, after local publication and disposal of objections, be safely attached.

'17. It is reasonable that price-lists thus prepared should be capable of being used in evidence in all suits and proceedings for settlement of rent in such areas; but, under the law as it stands, all the information and evidence on which the Revenue Officer may have based his price-lists would, it is believed, have to be put on the record of each individual case, before an enhancement of rent could be based upon them. To remedy this state of things, it is proposed to repeal the words above quoted.

'18. The Local Government may, it is thought, be trusted not to order the preparation or publication of price-lists for past periods where there are no sufficient materials for the preparation of such lists, or no adequate safeguards for their correctness. But where such materials do exist, and there are adequate safeguards for the correctness of the lists, there is no reason why Government should be debarred from ordering the preparation of them, or refusing to attach the presumption of correctness to them when prepared. To prepare price-lists for past periods, which would have no evidential value, would be useless, and, when lists have been prepared after careful local investigation and examination of all available sources of information, to require all the evidence and information on which they have been based to be reproduced on the record of each individual tenant's case, is unnecessary waste of time and money.

'19. An addition is proposed to section 52 of the Act (see section 6 of the Bill). It has been held by some Special Judges, interpreting a decision of the High Court, that when additional rent is claimed on the ground of excess area, the landlord must indicate the precise plots or pieces of land acquired by the tenant in excess of the original holding, while section 52 itself does not provide for the assessment to rent of excess lands where there are no rates for lands of a similar description in the vicinity, but lump rentals.

'20. The section, as amended, indicates that it should not be always necessary, in order to prove excess area, to point out the particular plots that were acquired since the original letting, and provides a rule for assessment of such excess areas, when proved, where there are no rates in force. Where the original letting was at so much a bigha, and it is shown by measurement, by the same standard and under the same conditions, that the tenant is holding a larger number of bighas than he is paying rent for, it should not be necessary for the landlord to point out the particular plots which the tenant has acquired in excess of the original area comprised in his holding.'

"I have now endeavoured to explain, so far as the limits of a speech and the patience of the Council can be expected to permit, all the main provisions of the Bill which, it is hoped by Government, will be generally acceptable to all those who are interested in the land. The Bill, if passed, will facilitate the settlement of rents with a view to the settlement of revenue; it will also facilitate the settlement of rents in private permanently settled estates where the landlords or tenants apply for such settlement; and it will facilitate the enhancements of rent where rents are unduly low, and remove grievances of which the landlords now complain. It does not, it is submitted, trench on the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts, but on the contrary enlarges that jurisdiction. I now move that the Bill be read in Council. If this Motion is carried, the Bill will be circulated and opinions will be invited upon it before it is further proceeded with."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Bill was read accordingly.

RAIN-GAMBLING BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. BOLTON moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill for the suppression of rain-gambling be taken into consideration.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The HON'BLE MR. BOLTON also moved that the clauses of the Bill be considered in the form recommended by the Select Committee. He said:—

"I move, Sir, that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill for the suppression of rain-gambling be taken into consideration. When introducing the Bill, I fully explained the necessity for legislation and the very limited object for which it had been undertaken, and, with a single exception, no Member of the Council raised objection to this measure, while many Members expressed their strong and cordial approval of it. Since that date the Bill has been subjected to much opposition and criticism as groundless as it was unexpected, and it is desirable that I should again explain its precise intention and scope. I cannot but think that if its critics had taken the pains to consider carefully its brief provisions, and to read with equal care the report of the proceedings of this Council, the public would have been spared the agitation which has been set on foot, proceeding from misconception of the intention of the Government and imaginary fears. Far-reaching consequences have been attributed to this Bill, which the Government certainly never contemplated, and see now no reason to anticipate. That strenuous opposition should be offered to the measure by those Marwaris who are directly or indirectly interested in the rain-gambling establishments is natural, but it is surprising that they should have received the support of others in protesting against legislation; the more so as the leading members of the Marwari community are anxious that rain-gambling should be suppressed.

"Now, Sir, what are the simple facts of the case? The law of England, the law of India, and, I presume, the law of every country which can lay claim to a civilised and enlightened administration, prohibits the practice of gambling in public or common gaming-houses, kept for the profit or gain of the persons keeping such houses. Apart from its evil consequences, from a moral point of view, such gambling is regarded as a public nuisance, and as a measure of Police, its suppression is enforced. In Bombay public rain-gambling was found to exist, and six years ago its suppression was decreed by an Act of the Legislature of that Presidency. Rain-gambling has existed in Calcutta for many years. It was long confined to the Marwaris, but in recent years it has extended to other classes of the community, and has become a serious scandal. Three public gaming-houses are openly kept in one section of the town, complaints have been made of the evil done to many who resort to them, and of the spreading of this evil to even purdah nishin ladies of respectable families through the agency of women employed by the owners of the houses, and the Police have represented that a serious public nuisance exists. Could the Government, consistently with its action in enforcing the law against other common gaming-houses, have persisted in ignoring this state of things? But one answer can be given to the question. The Government was bound to interfere; and it decided to do so. The existing law, however, though its spirit unquestionably condemns this gambling, could not be brought into action, as the definition of common gaming-houses, framed long before rain-gambling had assumed its present character, does not cover that form of public gambling. It was necessary, therefore, to amend the law, and the present Bill was framed. Its sole and specific object, as the preamble shows, is to secure the suppression of the practice of rain-gambling, and it is inconceivable that any opposition should have been raised to the passing of such a measure, except by those whose profits will disappear with its enactment into law. Objection has been taken to the rapidity with which this Bill is being passed through the Council. The Bill had, in the ordinary course, to be submitted to His Excellency the Viceroy in Council for approval, and this necessarily involved some delay. When that approval was received, no reason whatever existed for deferring the introduction and passing of the measure to another Session. It had, therefore, to be pushed through during the remaining weeks of the present Session. Delay in proceeding with it would have been entirely uncalled for. The facts which rendered legislation necessary were fully ascertained and clear, and further inquiry was superfluous. The Associations interested had been consulted, and had, with a single exception, recommended legislation; and the immediate passing of the Bill could injure only the keepers of the gaming-houses, whose very business it is the object of the Bill to suppress. The suggestion which has been made that this Bill is the commencement of a crusade on moral grounds against all forms of betting or play for money calls for no serious notice. The Government is concerned with this Bill only, and it is designed solely for the suppression of one form of public gambling, and goes not one step beyond the existing law, which leaves other gaming untouched. I trust, then, that the Council will, by its vote to-day, bring these Burra Bazaar gambling establishments within the letter, as they are already within the spirit, of the law against public gambling.

"I confess, Sir, that the Hon'ble Mr. Wallis' object in recording his Minute of Dissent to the Report of the Select Committee is not clear to me. He observes that he disapproves of gambling in any form, and would be only too glad if it could be put a stop to by legislation or otherwise, and yet he takes exception to this Bill, which is designed to suppress one form of public gambling, and the efficacy of which for this specific purpose cannot be doubted. The Hon'ble Member might surely have been expected to receive this Bill with satisfaction and approval. He is thus, I am constrained to remark, inconsistent in his general objection to the Bill; but he is even more so in his special objection. While expressing a fear that this Bill may be the precursor of repressive legislation against all other forms of wagering, he, at the same time, condemns it as being less comprehensive than the Bombay Act, which includes wagering within the definition of 'gaming', and thus brings wagering of all kinds within the prohibition of the law.

"I must draw attention, Sir, to the notices of amendments for discussion at this meeting, which have been received from the Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen and the Hon'ble Mr. A. M. Bose. Both Hon'ble Members propose to move that section 47 of Act IV (B.C.) of 1866 and section 6 of Act II (B.C.) of 1867 be repealed. These amendments travel beyond the scope of the Bill, and would materially effect the existing law against public gaming. The Bill before us is one for the suppression of rain-gambling, and it seeks to effect that object by adding rain-gambling to the other forms of gambling which become illegal when practised in common gaming-houses. The proposal to introduce this simple change in the existing law cannot be held to invest this Council with authority to proceed to amend any of the substantive provisions of that law. An amendment of this far wider character would require the sanction of the Governor-General in Council, and that sanction has not been obtained. I must, therefore, apply to you, Sir, to disallow these amendments of the Hon'ble Members before the Select Committee's Report is discussed, and I believe that the Hon'ble the Advocate-General is with me in this matter.

"Two other amendments are proposed by the Hon'ble Mr. A. M. Bose. The first is, I conceive, in order, but it will be my duty to oppose it as entirely unwarranted. The second, which provides for a right of appeal against any conviction for rain-gambling, is both out of order and superfluous. The right of appeal is already given by the Code of Criminal Procedure, and provision for it is not needed in the present Bill. The Hon'ble Member's amendment, being in general terms, would, moreover, have the effect of withdrawing the restrictions on appeal which are laid down for all cases in sections 411 and 413 of the Code. So important a change in the law cannot be discussed in this Council without the sanction of the Governor-General in Council. I would request, therefore, that this amendment also be disallowed."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. M. S. DAS said:—"In the Select Committee we decided that the little word 'anything' should be printed as two separate words. It was the suggestion of the Hon'ble Mr. Wilkins and was approved by all the Members of the Select Committee. I suppose the Secretary will take care that it will be printed as two separate words in the Act."

The point was noted.

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN said:—"I wish to show that my amendment is in order. The section, the repeal of which I propose, stands thus in the gambling laws 'When any cards, dice, gambling-table, cloth, boards or table, instruments of gaming are found in a house, etc., etc., etc., it shall be evidence, until the contrary is made to appear that such house, etc., etc., is used as a common gaming-house, and that the persons found therein were there present for the purpose of gaming.'"

"Under the present Bill the words "instrument of gambling" as used in that section, will stand extended to include spouts, tanks, &c. To this extent the Bill enlarges the section which I wish to get repealed. Therefore my present motion is an amendment of the Bill and exactly within its scope.

"But I also claim to come under rule 21 of the rules for the conduct of business.

"I respectfully beg to submit that the rule entitles members to make original motions in respect of all matters by giving previous notice. If it is to be held that this motion can only be made by obtaining the previous sanction of the Government of India, the right comes to be nugatory, and no such restrictions exist in the rules.

"I submit further that if this Government receives a sanction from the Government of India to make a specific change in a certain law, the whole of that law comes for consideration before the Legislature, and any private member is entitled, under section 21, to bring any other section of the said law for consideration before the Council, and there are good reasons why this should be so. Government wants to enlarge the scope of a Penal Act; members say: 'You are welcome to do so, but at the same time take away a part of the stringent procedure under which this penal law is enforced. They say that if there be urgency in the one case, there is urgency in the other."

"They say that 'We cannot consent to the enlargement of a penal law without providing at the same time that the people are not unnecessarily molested by leaving the other portions of the law as it is."

"The section in the gambling law which I wish to get repealed, refers to a previous section under which search has to be made. Once this search is made and a pack of cards or innocent things like that found, the prosecution case is complete. The onus is shifted, the accused has to prove his innocence, or stand convicted as an offender contrary to all canons of criminal trials as it prevails in this country It is not that a conviction under the Act is a light matter in India. It is true that there may be a few rupee fine, but a convicted gambler is a marked man in society for all his life long. Happily this much of public opinion we have yet left amongst us.

"It is said that the Indian law is in this respect in accord with the laws of England. The circumstances of the two countries differ. In spite of what your Honour's Government and the Government of your predecessors have been doing for improving the Police, there is yet admittedly much left to improve, and this much I feel myself justified in saying from my place in the Council that the Police do not yet enjoy the full confidence of our honest people. It is true that the warrant for the search proceeds either from a Magistrate or District Superintendent of Police, who are moved only on credible information; but this credible information on which these authorities are moved, come in the back of the accused, and there is no test of its accuracy nor any punishment laid down for an illegal raid."

The Hon'ble MR. A. M. BOSE said:—"Permit me to add a few words, as the question which has been raised affects also the amendment standing in my name. The Government has submitted this Bill for the suppression of rain-gambling, not in a form complete in itself, not as a complete Bill which defines the offence and provides a procedure and a penalty. It asks the Council to amend the general gaming law that now obtains—to amend the provisions of that law only so far as to include rain-gambling within its scope. Under these circumstances I respectfully submit that it is open to the Council or to any member of it to say that, before the general gaming laws are so amended as to include this particular form of gambling, certain provisions of that law ought also to be amended, and that unless they are amended, this Bill ought not to be passed. I submit that as a matter of order it is open to us to propose such amendments. Then, with reference to the objection that the sanction of the Governor-General has not been obtained to such amendments, I beg to point out that while as a matter of administrative and executive practice Bills are and have to be submitted to the Government of India before introduction in a local legislature by the Governments concerned, there is no limitation placed upon amendments which may be proposed by any Member of the Council when the Bill has once been introduced, provided those amendments are germane to the object in hand, there is nothing in any of the 55 Rules which have been laid down for the conduct of business in this Council prohibiting the proposing of amendments unless those amendments have been previously placed before the Government of India. I submit that the proceedings of this Council are regulated by these rules, and that there is no room for doubt upon this point. If the question of order is absolutely clear to your Honour, I have nothing to say, but if there is any room for doubt, I hope your ruling will be in favour of allowing these amendments to be put so that the matter may be discussed on its merits."

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES PAUL said:—"I think that both the Hon'ble Members who have last spoken have been labouring under a very serious mistake. I would ask them to take their memories back and remember what the Hon'ble Mr. Bolton has explained very clearly this morning, that the object is to include houses for rain-gambling within the definition of common gaming-house in the existing law. They will find that we are not now amending the substantive portions of the law which is contained in the Acts of 1866 and 1867. We are only extending those provisions to a certain form of gambling, and therefore all that can be urged on the present occasion is that one particular provision shall not apply. The Hon'ble Mr. Bose has very ingeniously put forward an alternative amendment which is not open to the objection; he felt the difficulty of the situation, and hence his amendment. Now he says the law is clear and beyond doubt. As an advocate a man is allowed to assume many things; but when you come to consider the reason of the thing you will see that when we are applying the provisions of the law to other forms of gambling we have really no power to amend that law itself. Both the reasons which have been given by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill are right; first that the amendment is not within the scope of the law, and secondly that we have no power. The complaint made that the Magistrates are shut out from giving their own view of the law is really without foundation."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I entirely concur in the view which has been taken by the Hon'ble the Advocate-General. This, it must be remembered, is a subordinate Legislature. I have received no permission to amend the Gambling Acts. I have only received specific sanction to include rain-gambling-houses, a certain class of gaming-houses, within the purview of the existing law. I also agree with the Hon'ble the Advocate-General that the Hon'ble Mr. Bose's alternative amendment may be put as it is not out of order. But before formally closing the discussion of this matter, I wish to observe that there has been a good deal of misapprehension as to the scope and aim of this Bill, and especially as to the scope of the section of the law which it is now proposed to repeal. I shall therefore in disposing of this matter finally call attention to what the law really is. It has been said in a facetious article in a newspaper, and it has also been said elsewhere, that under this section of the law the Police may enter the Bengal Club or even Belvedere and seize upon any cards they may find there, and rush off with the members of the Bengal Club and with the Lieutenant-Governor himself and place them before a Magistrate as coming within the purview of this section. Nothing could be more absurd and silly than remarks of that description. Section 6 can only apply to houses which are entered and searched under the provisions of section 5, and searches can only be made under that section when the Commissioner of Police, the District Magistrate or other officer has been satisfied upon reliable information, and after such enquiry as may seem to them necessary, that a certain house, place or enclosure is kept as a common gaming-house. And what is a common gaming-house? It is a house—hell as it is ordinarily called in England—which is run for the benefit and advantage of the owner or occupier thereof. And this provision only applies to houses which have been entered into after full enquiry. And surely common sense tells us that when you have made that enquiry upon information received, if you find instruments of gaming, that is primâ facie evidence in the case. The Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen has observed that the circumstances of India and England are very different, and therefore it is no excuse to say that the provisions of the law have been borrowed from the English law on the subject. But what does the Hon'ble Member say to the fact that all the Legislatures in India have proceeded on the same lines; for that section exists in the Gaming Acts of every presidency—in the Acts passed for the North-Western Provinces, in the Punjab, Bombay, and in Madras and in Burma. And if the section has been taken from the English Act on the subject, it only shows that the Legislatures in passing that provision were guided by the long experience of the past and by the absolute necessities of the case. I rule the amendment out of order. The Hon'ble Mr. Bose's second amendment is not out of order."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT rules the following motions to be out of order:—

(1) By the Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN.

That the following section of Act II of 1867 (B.C.) and the corresponding section 47 of Act IV of 1866 (B.C.) be repealed:—

"Section 6 of Act II of 1897 (B.C.).—When any cards, dice, gaming-table, cloth, boards or other instruments of gaming are found in any house, tent, room, space or walled enclosure entered or searched under the provisions of the last preceding section, or about the person of any of those who are found therein, it shall be evidence, until the contrary is made to appear, that such house, tent, room, space or walled enclosure is used as a common gaming house, and that the persons found therein were there present for the purpose of gaming, although no play was actually seen by the Magistrate of Police Officer, or by any person acting under the authority of either of them."

(2) By the Hon'ble MR. A. M. BOSE.

That the following section be added to the Bill:—

"Section 47 of Act IV of 1866 (B.C.) and section 6 of Act II of 1867 (B.C.) are hereby repealed."

The Hon'ble MR. A. M. BOSE moved that the following section be added to the Bill:—

"The provisions of section 47 of Act IV of 1866 (B.C.) and of section 6 of Act II of 1867 (B.C.) shall not apply to any offence created by the operation of this Act."

He said:—"Before I make some observations on the amendment itself, I venture to express the hope that at any rate no objection on the merits will be taken to this amendment on the ground that it deals with a special form of gambling, while it leaves untouched the general provisions with regard to gambling. It is not the fault of my amendment if that should be the consequence of its adoption. By the ruling just given, I am limited perforce to the question of rain-gambling. And then I labour under another and an unusual disadvantage, namely, I have to follow, Sir, your exposition, partly at any rate, with regard to the merits of the amendment I have to discuss. And if I point out what I submit is the true effect of sections 5 and 6 of Act II of 1867, I do so, I need hardly say, with the utmost possible respect to what has fallen from Your Honour. I am fully aware that the provisions of section 6, for instance, of Act II of 1867 will apply only after search has been made in accordance with the provisions of the previous section 5 of the same Act. I admit that there is a complete procedure as the law stands, and I have to submit reasons why I think it is not a desirable procedure, before I ask the Council to accept my amendment in connection with this Bill for the suppression of rain-gambling. Information is received either by a Magistrate or by some other officer vested with the full powers of a Magistrate or by a District Superintendent of Police as to a certain house being a common gaming-house; he holds a secret inquiry without of course any notice to the accused, and is satisfied or believes that it is a common gaming-house. Then he empowers certain officers of police, not below such rank as the Lieutenant-Governor shall appoint on that behalf—I do not know whether any such rank has been so specified—to enter such house, by force, if necessary, and to make an exhaustive search. Then if this police officer, whoever he may be, says before a Magistrate that he found, and produces, say, a pack of cards as the result of that enquiry and search, it must be taken as evidence, until the contrary is established, that the house is a common gaining-house and every single individual found therein is a gambler. What I wish to specially point out is this, that the previous information upon which the Commissioner of Police, Magistrate of the district or the District Superintendent of Police has been acting would not be before the Court. That previous information is, no doubt, accepted an l acted upon by the police. But it is ex-parte information. And not only so; but as section 5 provides, it need not be in writing nor on oath. It is information for which nobody may be held responsible or be called to account. It may be that people are actuated by their feelings of enmity with reference to certain individuals, and make statements behind the backs of the persons whom they wish to annoy, and such statements are primâ facie accepted as sufficient by the police officer to whom they are made. If the law provided that when the matter comes before the trying Magistrate, that information will have to be repeated subject to the right of cross-examination, the position of affairs would be very different. But that is not the case. All that is necessary for the Crown case is for the police officer to state that he has proceeded on certain instruction, and that he found certain instruments of gaming—cards, dice, &c. Then what will happen is this—that will be evidence, until the contrary is made to appear, that the house or place so searched is used as a common gaming-house, and that the persons found in that house are all present there for the purpose of gaming. I regret I have not with me now an extract from the judgment of Mr. Tweedie, late a District Judge, published a few days ago in the papers, in which he pointed out how the matter stood, and how all that was necessary was, not to have the original information tested or even to give any information on that point, but that it was only necessary for the prosecution to prove the two facts I have mentioned, viz., the police searching the house under orders and finding a pack of cards. In such cases the law should not make it obligatory on the Magistrate to presume that it is a common gaming-house, and that the persons present there were present for the purpose of gaming, until the contrary is established by the accused. The law ought to leave unfettered the discretion of the Magistrate as to the amount of weight he would attach to any particular facts bearing on the case. For instance, if, as the result of a search under this Bill, a book is produced containing a record of the bets which are made in the matter of what is called rain-gambling, no doubt the Magistrate will attach the greatest possible weight to that circumstance, and if he is satisfied that the record of bets was so found, he might well hold that, unless that fact is explained away, he will act upon it. If on the other hand what is produced are a pack of cards or dice, or evidence of the existence of a clock or water-spout which are said to be instruments of gaming; if such evidence is given, it will be open to the Magistrate to hold that it does not raise a presumption that the house is a common gaming-house. In ordinary cases under the criminal law matters are left to the discretion of the trying officer who would have all the circumstances of the case before him, and I maintain that the same liberty should be left to the Magistrate in gaming cases also; or in other words, to use the language made familiar by the Evidence Act, instead of the law saying that the Magistrate shall presume guilt until the contrary is made to appear, it ought to be that the Magistrate shall act in every way in accordance with the ordinary law, without any special provision of that kind being needed. Then reference was made to the fact that this is the law in England, and no doubt Hon'ble Members will attach great importance to that fact. I trust they will attach the same importance to analogy from English Law when it makes in favour of the liberty of the subject. In the next place I will repeat what fell from my hon'ble friend, Babu Guru Proshad Sen, that in this particular respect there is an important, a vital, difference in the circumstances of England and India, namely, in the controlling influence of the public press and public opinion and in the constitution of the police force in the two countries. I would also refer to another fact which has reference to the Bill itself, namely, that in addition to Bengal Acts IV of 1866 and II of 1867, there is also an Act of the Governor-General in Council, XXI of 1857, which relates to gaming-houses in the town of Howrah; and there is this important, I was going to say significant, fact, that although it contains all the other provisions of the gaming law, the provisions of section 47 of Act IV of 1866 and section 6 of Act II of 1867 do not find a place in that Act. In Act XXI of 1857 the gaming sections are from section 10 to section 15, and section 12 corresponds to what I have been reading out as section 5 of Act II of 1867; but section 6 of Act II of 1867 is conspicuous by its absence. The important point is that in the gaming law applicable to Howrah the presumption which is contained in section 6 of Act II of 1867 [The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES PAUL said:—"There is nothing said about presumption in the Act."] I submit that it is more than presumption. I am much obliged to the learned Advocate-General for mentioning this fact, because it enables me to refer to the matter at once. What section 6 provides is more than presumption. It enacts, as I have pointed out, that when any cards, dice, gaming-table, cloth, boards or other instruments of gaming are found in any house, tent, room, space or walled enclosure, &c., it shall be evidence, until the contrary is made to appear, that such house, &c., is used as a common gaming-house, and further that the persons found therein were those present for the purpose of gaming, although no play was actually seen by the Magistrate or police officer or by any person acting under the authority of either of them. I was using the word presumption in referring to the provisions of the Act of 1857 for the sake of shortness, but returning to section 6 of Act II of 1867, unless the contrary is proved by the accused, the mere fact of the finding of any of these things upon a search made under the previous section shall be evidence of his guilt. Surely no provision could be more in violation of the rule which requires the prosecution to prove the guilt of the accused, and not the accused to prove his innocence?"

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"How do you get over this section of the Act of 1857, which provides that 'any person found in any common gaming-house during any game or playing therein, shall be presumed, until the contrary be proved, to have been there for the purpose of gaming?' Is it not possible that the Act of 1867, being 10 years older, proceeds upon more advanced principles of legislation?"

The Hon'ble MR. A. M. BOSE replied:—"The section Your Honour is referring to, is a different section; it provides for the case of people found in a place where play is proved to be actually going on. That makes all the difference. It is a different section altogether which finds a separate place both in Acts IV of 1866 and XXI of 1857."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"The same idea applies to both cases. People who put themselves into a false position have to take the consequences. I want to point out again that the law attaches a presumption against people found going to such places."

The Hon'ble MR. A. M. BOSE continued:—"The difference is this, that the provisions of section 45 of Act IV of 1866 apply to cases where play is going on, and that being so, the presence of persons there is a presumption, unless the fact is explained away, that they are there for the purpose of gaming. Then, after that comes section 46, which says that a search may be ordered by the Commissioner of Police or by a Magistrate, and then follows section 47, which is the section we are dealing with. I refer to this to show the difference between the provisions in the Howrah Act and the provisions in these two Acts. It strengthens my position in this way. If on the other side of the river it is found that the ordinary rules and practice of the criminal law are sufficient, there is no reason why in Calcutta and other parts of the Province to which those Acts refer, the provisions of the law should be different. These are the reasons why I think it desirable that these sections of Acts IV of 1866 and II of 1867 should not be extended to this Bill for the suppression of rain-gambling. I most cordially support the Bill which has been introduced in this Council; and it is because the existence of these particular provisions provokes, and I believe, justly provokes, the feeling that this law is of a very exceptional character, and also because I believe the ordinary procedure of the criminal law is sufficient for the purpose that I press my amendment for the acceptance of the Council. Moreover, I have shown that in the case of the town of Howrah these exceptional provisions have not been found necessary, and therefore there can be no necessity for their inclusion in this Bill."

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES PAUL said:—"I submit that this amendment is as indefensible as those which have been ruled by your Honour to be out of order. I have often perceived a desire on the part of certain members of this Council to put the hands of the clock back. When we have reached a certain point in legislation, when a certain principle has been adopted in reference to legislation of a certain character as a sound principle to act upon, the legislature has then a standpoint to go upon in the case of future legislation of a similar description. But as I have said, I have noticed on several occassions that when the slightest opportunity is given an attempt is made to go back from that principle. I have heard nothing from the Hon'ble Mr. Bose to justify the omission of section 47 of Act IV (B.C.) of 1866 and of section 6 of Act II (B.C.) of 1867 from their application to this Bill. It is admitted that in every case the administrators who rule over this country have adopted these measures to put down gaming houses, and every Government and every system of legislation have adopted the rule and have laid down the procedure that if any article of gaming is found in a house which has been searched under the immediately preceding sections of these Acts, the same shall be evidence. Yet without the slightest reason, except some carping reason which I shall refer to later on, the Hon'ble Member wants the legislature to go back; and he has referred to the Howrah Act, XXI of 1857, which, he says, ought to be the model for our legislation. This, I say, is a confession of weakness on his part. If he wanted to strengthen his argument, he might have done so by some thing more important than that legislation for Howrah. I have often heard it said that if you allow the police to interfere, false evidence will be brought forward. If that argument is to have any weight, then the Penal Code and the Criminal Procedure Code and all the laws by which people are brought to justice ought never to have been passed. In the particular instance before us, if false evidence is given, the person upon whose information the police acted is responsible. In one of these Acts the information upon which the police are authorised to act is sworn information; in the other Act it is credible information. I have not the slightest doubt that the Magistrates of this presidency town, who are gentlemen of honour and independence, will never allow a respectable man's house to be entered falsely without bringing malicious persons to justice; and if you have confidence in them you will not require any other safe-guards than were provided in the law. The second point is this. The Hon'ble Mr. Bose says that as you proceed on information given to the police, you ought to allow the man upon whose information the search was made to be examined and cross-examined. It should be remembered that the result of the information which will be given will be to break up the system under which fortunes are being built up, and would you allow the life of such a man to be at the mercy of the people concerned? Certainly not. The information is for the benefit of the public and therefore is guarded by a certain amount of secrecy. This is a second instance of the desire to disturb one of the principles which has been accepted in all proper forms of legislation and in all civilised administrations. The Hon'ble Member's third argument proceeds upon a misconception. He says if an instrument of gaming is found in a house that has been searched on information which has been given, it shall be a presumption that the person occupying that house at the time are engaged in gaming. The word presumption does not occur in these sections, but the Hon'ble Member explains that away by saying that the section says it shall be evidence until the contrary is proved. That means that the Magistrate shall look upon it as a piece of evidence, but if he considers that the general circumstances of the case disprove that evidence, then it is disproved. I will give an instance. Upon information given under this Bill a house is searched and a clock is found. That is an instrument of gaming under this Bill and therefore is evidence. But that evidence may be rebutted by the person being able to show that the police did not find any thing else which may be taken with the clock as an instrument of gaming; then the evidence will be rebutted. I consider that under this Bill people who come forward in the interests of philanthropy and humanity ought to be safeguarded. The liberty of men is guarded by their own conduct; an honest man does not stand in need of such protection as the Hon'ble Mr. Bose thinks he requires; the onus of proof being thrown upon him affects him but in a trivial way. Suppose a man enters the house of a gentleman upon false information and he finds a pack of cards. He can prove that he has no gambling in his house. He can prove that by his servants and by his friends. What grievance is there? The reason why this section has been introduced is this—after a particular gaming-house has been spotted, the police go there, but the moment they enter everybody disappears. How are they to prove that it is a gaming-house; if the people who were there happen to leave behind them a pack of cards or dice or other instruments of gaming, they can be produced and will be accepted as evidence. I therefore say that section 6 of Act II of 1867 is the result of necessity. It is not an arbitrary power invented by the Government to harass the poor, and I therefore submit the Hon'ble Member is utterly wrong in respect to this particular matter But I am glad to find one thing, namely, that the Hon'ble Member entirely approves of the Bill; and I may add my testimony that I am wholly in accord with the Hon'ble Mover of the Bill, and I was glad to hear from him a clear, logical and complete statement of the objects of the Bill. It is easy to find fault, if you will not read the speeches of those who bring forward a Bill. Let those who attack the views of the Hon'ble Mover of the Bill study his speeches carefully, and they will find their shafts of ridicule are pointless and their arrows of criticism discharged at the Mover blunted."

The Hon'ble MR. M. S. DAS said:—"At the last meeting of the Council I drew the attention of the Council to the difference between the two Acts with regard to the sections which provide for the initial proceedings under the Act. I did not give notice of any amendment simply because I believe that an amendment would have been out of order. At the same time I believe that if the Council is of opinion that this difference is one that ought not to exist, then, as has been done in previous instances, an amendment ought to be made, if not now, at some future time. With all possible respect to the learned Advocate-General, I must say I do not agree with the reasons he gave to show that there is no difference between the provisions on this point in the two Acts. Credible information is not so good as information on oath; because credible information is not reduced to writing, and a public officer who acts on such credible information cannot be held responsible. I repeat, with all possible respect to the learned Advocate-General, what I said at the last meeting, that if a man's house is to be searched some information should be recorded so that the informer may be held responsible should the search prove that the house is not a common gaming-house. A public servant who acts on credible information should first believe the information to be credible, but there will be nothing on record by means of which the person injured can reach the person who has started the initial proceedings. Credible information may mean information given to the District Superintendent of Police by his bearer. In the Criminal Procedure Code there is no provision which enables a Magistrate to act upon credible information, but in all cases the information is to be recorded in writing. Here you are to trust to memory, and what can you get from the memory of any public servant after a few weeks as to what he had heard from a particular person? With regard to the amendment before the Council, I wish to add that until yesterday I had not read the Act carefully, and I thought that to allow the mere fact of finding certain things in a house to be used as evidence pointing to the house being a common gaming house and to certain other things is not a reasonable provision; but on looking at the Act carefully, I found that the provision giving power to institute a search is confined to the house having been shown at the outset to be a common gaming-house. So that the Magistrate or Superintendent of Police has first to be satisfied that a certain house is a common gaming-house, and then if a search is made and instruments of gaming are found, the things so found are to be evidence, until the contrary is proved, that the house is a common gaming-house. I think that under these circumstances it is not at all unnatural or unreasonable or contrary to known principles of law to admit what is found in the search as evidence of the facts that the house is a common gaming-house, and that the persons found there were there for the purpose of gaming. As pointed out by the learned Advocate-General, there is nothing said in the law about presumption, but is it not a fact that even under the law of evidence there is a presumption—not only evidence, but presumption—raised against a man in whose house a certain thing is found which had been stolen from another man's house. The law says he must be presumed to be the thief or the receiver of stolen property, and the onus is shifted to the accused. There the law is as strong as in this case. Suppose we see a man coming out of a liquor shop with a bottle under his arm, nobody would think it unfair to presume that he had been there to have a drink. Therefore there is nothing unreasonable in these sections. They simply say that these things shall be evidence, not conclusive evidence, but they shall be evidence only. They do not go the length of specifying what will be the weight of that evidence. It may not be worth the paper upon which it is recorded when other surrounding circumstances are taken into consideration. Admitting for the sake of argument that it is a section which lays down something which is opposed to the general principles of law, I do not understand upon what ground an exception should be claimed in favor of rain-gambling only. If the principle is wrong, it ought not to apply to any sort of gambling; but, as has been pointed out by the learned Advocate-General, we have arrived at a certain stage of legislation, having gone a certain distance and laid down certain accepted principles of law, we ought not to go back; and if we ought not to go back absolutely and entirely, the Hon'ble Mover of the amendment has not made out a case why exemption should be claimed in favour of rain-gambling, unless it be on the ground that it is a new offence. If it is new to this Council it is old to this town, it having existed here for the last 60 years. Under these circumstances I do not think this amendment should be allowed. It has been said by the Hon'ble Mover of the amendment that it would have been a partial mitigation of the severity of the law if the person who gave the information were subjected to cross-examination at a subsequent stage of the proceedings, but I submit that in such a case it would be almost useless to expect information of this kind to be given. And after all what is found is only to be used as evidence; therefore, if any precautions should be taken, they should be taken before the initial proceedings are entered upon, and it is on this ground that I say that the Mufussal Act should be modified so as to put it in conformity with the Calcutta Act, which requires the information to be given on oath."

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN said:—"The hardship in the present case lies in the fact that after the search is made if anything is found there, cards and things of that kind, a clock or a register of bets, the case for the prosecution is complete against all-comers. It is true that the accused is allowed to prove the contrary, but the accused can only prove his innocence by bringing forward the persons who were present there, but those very persons are laid hold of as offenders as being present in a common gaming-house for the purpose of gaming. I think under the circumstances it is rather hard on the accused to be called upon to prove his innocence. I can well understand that there may be certain cases of emergency when a stringent law like this may be necessary. But I submit that it is not at all necessary in this case. The houses where rain-gambling is carried on are well known and probably will have to be shut up as soon as this Bill is passed. But the section no doubt will be applied to other houses. Moreover a conviction under this clause is not a very light affair. It makes a man a marked man in society for all his life to come as a juaree, a gambler, and anything that is calculated, even in the smallest degree, to make our penal laws unworkable by the stringency of their provisions ought not to be enacted. But the further question is whether this particular provision while it remains in the general law of gambling ought to be excluded from the operation of this special law for the suppression of rain-gambling. I submit that because it exists in the general law it is no reason why it should apply to this law, which we are enacting for a special purpose, and with respect to which this is the opportunity when the people should be safe-guarded from the hands of the police."

The Hon'ble RAI ESHAN CHUNDRA MITTRA BAHADUR said:—"The question is whether this clause should be added to this Bill to safeguard, as it is said, the liberties of the people. If we admit that this rain-gambling is a nuisance, and a public nuisance, I do not see why this public nuisance should be exempted from the laws relating to other kinds of gambling. Has any special case been made out in favour of rain-gambling? We are legislating on a particular subject, and the question is why the provisions of section 6 of Act II of 1867, which has existed for about 30 years, should not be made applicable to this Bill. If it is not to be put into force, we should not legislate at all on the subject of rain-gambling. If the police are not to interfere, let us drop this Bill. But if it is an offence and a nuisance, as it no doubt is, I do not see why it should be exempted from the application of a portion of the general law on the subject. The finding of certain things will only be evidence. It will be for the Magistrate to decide what weight to give to that evidence. No Magistrate would convict simply on the finding by the Police of certain instruments of gaming. I shall certainly vote against the amendment."

The Hon'ble Mr. BOLTON said:—"The Government has introduced this Bill because rain-gambling comes within the spirit of the existing law, and should be treated like other forms of gambling, when carried on in a common gaming-house. Nevertheless, this motion is brought forward in order to make an exception in favour of rain-gambling by repealing, with reference to it, two sections of the existing law against public gaming. In other words, it is proposed to establish a difference between rain-gambling and other forms of gambling, when the very reason for this Bill is that no such difference exists. On this ground alone I submit that the motion should be rejected."

The Hon'ble Mr. A. M. BOSE in reply said:—"I confess that I have now to meet the very heavy artillery of the learned Advocate-General. The first remark the learned Advocate-General made was this, that whenever a measure is introduced with reference to some previous Act of the legislature, an attempt is made to upset it [The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES PAUL said:—"I said I have observed it on many occasions; I did not say whenever."] With regard to that I say that if the occasion be such that the experience which has been gained since the time of the previous legislation seems to justify an alteration in the law, such alteration should be made. But curiously enough it so happens in the present case that instead of trying to upset early legislation on the subject, I am really asking the Council to go back to it. If my amendment is opposed to the provisions of the Bengal Council Acts of 1866 and 1867, it is in conformity, as I have pointed out, with the previous legislation of 1857, which rests on the authority of the Government of India itself. Therefore I claim that I stand in regard to this matter, so far as this Province is concerned, on ancient ways, and am further supported by high authority. Then it has been said that my amendment implies want of confidence in the Magistrates. On the contrary, my amendment is based on confidence on the trying officers; all I ask is that the Magistrates should be trusted to exercise the discretion which is vested in them unfettered by any arbitrary rule. What I seek is that it should be left to the discretion of the Magistrate to decide in each case what weight should be attached to the things found, having regard to all the features and circumstances of the case and the value of the thing found, whether it is used exclusively for purposes of gambling or for other purposes. I ask the legislature to trust the Magistrate to decide upon that question. That is the very point of my amendment. It was then said that this provision is, as it were, really the result of necessity. I submit that that has not been shown, nor has there been made even any attempt to do so. If there had been a representation from Howrah that in working their law, which has stood for the last forty years on this footing, some difficulty has been experienced owing to the absence of such a provision, that would have been some proof of the necessity for such legislation; and I submit it is incumbent upon the Government to produce such evidence before the Council is asked to apply the special provisions of section 6 of Act II of 1867 to this Bill. No doubt it may make a conviction easier. It may be said with regard to the operation of the excise laws that there are often difficulties in the way of conviction. But that cannot be helped. The liberty of the subject ought not to be imperilled because of the existence of difficulties, and some precautions ought to be taken to secure proper evidence. In this connection it is necessary again to refer to the language of the Act of 1867. I say that the insertion in that Act of the words 'until the contrary is made to appear' is not simply for the purpose of making the thing admissible in evidence, but these words at once indicate the meaning of the section to be that there shall be a presumption which is to be rebutted by the accused. Then the last objection which was urged by some Hon'ble Member, it has been said, is this, that my amendment would introduce a bit of special legislation. Has any reason been shown, why the offence of rain-gambling should be taken out of the general provisions of the law, or that it should meet with exceptional treatment? I thought that in my opening remarks I had met that objection. The reason why this amendment confines itself to rain-gambling is, as we have been told, that the question of the amendment of the gaming law is not before us; and therefore we cannot introduce an amendment which would alter any portion of the general gaming laws. This objection ought not to apply to my amendment, the form of which is due to the way in which this Bill has been framed. If a complete measure in regard to rain gambling had been introduced, it would not have been necessary for me to move that that section of the general law should not apply. It would have been enough for me to confine myself to the provisions of the Bill itself; but owing to the way in which the Bill has been prepared I cannot touch the provisions of the general gaming law, but can only move as an amendment to this Bill that this particular section shall have no application to offences created under it. With regard to the observations which have fallen from the Hon'ble Mr. Das, I agree with what he said that as the credible information depends only upon the belief of the Magistrate or Superintendent of Police, much weight cannot under the circumstances attach to such evidence.

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"Before putting this amendment I will say one word. The Hon'ble Mr. Bose has made a great deal out of the provisions of the Howrah Act which was passed in 1857, but he ignores the fact that there has not been a single Legislature that has followed the line taken in that Act, and the experience of all countries and all Legislatures shows that a provision of the kind contained in this Bill is absolutely necessary to effectually put down these gambling hells. I have not the least doubt that if this Bill was sent up to the Government of India with this amendment in it, the whole Bill would be vetoed."

The Motion was put and negatived.

The Hon'ble MR. A. M. BOSE moved that the following section be added to the Bill:—

"The accused shall have the right of appeal against any conviction for an offence created by the operation of this Act."

He said:—"I submit that this amendment is not out of order. In enacting a special law or creating a special offence, as we are doing by this Bill, it is I submit on grounds of common sense open to the Legislature creating that offence to lay down any special procedure in regard to its trial or sentence or appeal, should any such provision be deemed desirable by it. Otherwise the whole proceeding might be a mockery or involve grave injustice. And as we should expect, this power is expressly recognised by sections 5 and 404 of the Criminal Procedure Code. On every ground therefore I submit my amendment which is an important one, which seeks to provide a right of appeal in cases of conviction under this Bill, and which, I may observe in passing, is in exact accordance with the provisions of the English law on the subject, is in order and ought to be allowed to be discussed."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"We are a subordinate Legislature, and the Members of this Council are not entitled to deal with matters which do not come before them in the regular course. I have no authority to restrict the jurisdiction of the Presidency Magistrates or to deal with the law of appeal

We have only received sanction to amend the law in a specific way, and I am not going to take the risk of allowing a provision like this to be introduced. I therefore rule this amendment to be out of order."

The motion was therefore ruled out of order.

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I have an amendment to propose myself in the preamble and title of the Bill. I want to propose that the words 'in common gaming houses' be inserted after the words 'rain gambling' both in the title and preamble. There has been an extraordinary amount of misapprehension about the scope and object of this Bill. It has been said that we are going to put down rain-gambling altogether, but the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill distinctly said in his opening speech that we are not entitled to interfere with rain-gambling except so far as it is carried on in a common gaming-house. It is open to all the Marwaris in the place to remain in their own courtyards and have as many of their European friends as they please, and to sit there with all the appurtenances for gambling and bet away till midnight if they like, provided it is not a common gaming-house that is kept for the profit or gain of the persons owning or keeping the house. We do not object to this, we do not interfere with private gambling in any shape or form, nor is it intended that we should do so. It is a great mistake to suppose that the Gambling Acts are Acts passed for the purpose of enforcing morality. It is true that indirectly they are in favour of morality because they put down vice by discouraging people whose profession it is to encourage gambling. But it should be clearly understood that this Bill does not attempt to regulate people's conduct by any moral considerations whatever. It aims simply and solely at a matter of Police, and there is one strong reason why there should be prompt action because of the extent to which the evil has recently been growing. Less than a year ago there was only one such house which was almost entirely frequented by Marwaris, but now there were three of these establishments, to which great additions have been made, and if this Bill is not passed, their numbers will no doubt multiply. It pays the owners or keepers of these houses not only to employ female touts to enter zananas and induce purdah-nishin ladies to bet, but it pays them also to keep men to go to merchants and bankers' offices and induce the assistants there to gamble upon the rainfall. As I happen to know the practice is extending to great dimensions and the profits are enormous. What this Bill will do is to put a stop to the profession of rain-gambling as it is carried on for the purposes of lucre, and to make such practices illegal is the object of this Bill. I move that the words 'in common gaming-houses' be inserted after the words 'rain gambling' in the title and preamble to the Bill, so that there shall be no misconception as to the object and scope of this Bill."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. BOLTON moved that the Bill, as settled in Council, be passed.

The Hon'ble MR. WALLIS said:—"Hon'ble Members will have concluded from the note of dissent which I appended to the Report of the Select Committee that I intended to vote against the Bill in its present form. My chief reason for objecting to the Bill is the form in which it has been brought forward. I have on no occasion stated that I was opposed to the ends which are sought to be gained by the Bill, but to the way in which the legislation was being carried out. In Bombay they worked differently. When they found that rain-gambling was growing so as to become a public nuisance, they considered it desirable to consolidate and amend the law for the prevention of gambling in the Presidency of Bombay, and Bombay Act IV of 1887 was amended by Bombay Act I of 1890, as follows:—"Section 2.—In this Act the word 'gaming,' whenever it occurs, shall include wagering. In this Act the expression 'instruments of gaming' includes any article used as a subject or means of gaming." This I submit, Sir, would have been the correct way to have proceeded, instead of introducing an incomplete Act, referring to, and making certain amendments in, other Acts in order to gain the desired end. As, therefore, I have heard nothing to lead me to change my mind, I must record my vote against the Bill."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"We adopted the form which this Bill has taken for the very simple reason that we considered the term 'wagering' to be open to many of the objections which in ignorance have been taken to this Bill. Wagering is an indefinite term, and it was thought wiser and better, when we want to suppress common gaming-houses where rain-gambling is carried on, to say so."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

BENGAL FINANCIAL STATEMENT FOR 1897-98.

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY moved for the discussion of the Bengal Financial Statement of 1897-98.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said:—"I desire to make a few observations with reference to the Budget which the Members of this Council have had only one week's time to study. I regret I am not in a position to renew my felicitations to the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Financial Department in regard to this Budget. It is a difficult matter to frame a good and hopeful Budget at a time of pestilence and famine, and unfortunately the position has been somewhat complicated by the adjustments in connection with the recent Provincial Contract. The last Provincial Contract came to an end on the 31st March, 1896, and the new contract began to run from the 1st April, 1897. Under the terms of this contract, which is referred to in the Financial Statement, the Government of Bengal loses yearly a revenue to the extent of 12½ lakhs, the details of which are given in the lucid statement of the Financial Member. A most improveable source of revenue has been taken away from us. Under the last contract, the Bengal Government used to keep one-half of the net earnings of the Eastern Bengal Railway. Our share was 44 lakhs, and the whole of this revenue has been taken away from us, and we get instead one quarter of the Excise revenues. We lose 44 lakhs, we get in return 33 lakhs; therefore we lose about 11 lakhs. But we lose something more. As we get the income derived from a quarter of the Excise revenue, we have to meet the charges incidental to the administration of that quarter share, which amount to Rs. 1,78,000; therefore we lose to the extent of about 12½ lakhs a year, and prospectively more. This is a result which is doubly disastrous to the province at a time like this. We stand face to face with the terrible prospect of a great plague. I hope it may never break out here, but should it break out, I am afraid the resources of the municipalities will not suffice to cope with that calamity. If you look at the finances of the Calcutta Municipality you will find that its revenues come up to about 44 or 45 lakhs a year; the revenues of all the other municipalities in Bengal amount to 41 lakhs a year. The revenues of all the municipalities put together thus come up to about 100 lakhs, and they are burdened with multifarious charges, and it will be impossible to set free portions of the municipal reserve to meet a great plague. Therefore a subsidy will have to be made from the revenues of the Provincial Government, and that at a time when the resources of that Government are strained to the utmost.

"With regard to the Famine, I congratulate the Government upon the earnest and sympathetic efforts made to cope with it. The estimated expenses in Bengal under the head of famine are large, a little more than 100 lakhs, of which, roughly speaking, 70 lakhs are to be provided by the Imperial Government, because it has provided itself with a Famine Insurance Fund. Of the rest, 22 lakhs are to be provided by the Provincial Government, 8 lakhs by local funds, and to this must be added 25 lakhs provided by the Famine Relief Committee which are to be devoted to lessening the sufferings of those who do not come within the operations of the Government relief works.

"These are temporary visitations. But we have permanent wants which have to be met, and the most pressing of these is undoubtedly the supply of water for the rural tracts in Bengal. The Government have introduced into this Council a Bill to provide Bengal with an adequate supply of water; it has been referred to a Select Committee, but nothing has been done since. It is a measure of permissive taxation; but in order that it should prove a success, it must be supported by a powerful body of public sentiment. We have before us an instance of the failure of permissive legislation. The Drainage Bill was passed through this Council amid the unanimous protest of the non-official members. It has proved a dead letter, because public sentiment is opposed to it, and I have no hesitation in saying that public sentiment would be opposed to any scheme of permissive taxation for the supply of water, unless the people are convinced that the Imperial Government has done adequate justice to the Provincial revenues.

"It cannot be said that we have been completely taken by surprise by the new Provincial Contract. The history of the Provincial Contract in Bengal is one long story of public disappointment. It will be in the recollection of Hon'ble Members of this Council who have taken an interest in the matter that under the Provincial Contract of 1877 three most improveable sources of revenue were made over to us subject to the payment of certain specified sums, viz., Stamps, Excise, and Registration. These revenues increased from 1877 to 1882 from 185 lakhs to 213 lakhs. They improved to the extent of some thing like 48 lakhs. But these favourable conditions were associated with certain burdens. The province was made responsible for certain public works committed to its care by the Government of India. The Public Works Cess was now levied to meet the charges incidental to this arrangement. The Public Works Cess now produces about 41 lakhs a year. When the contract of 1877 expired and a fresh contract was entered into in 1882, the Public Works Cess was continued, but a change for the worse was made in the terms of the contract The three sources of revenue to which I have referred were taken away to the extent of one-half share of their proceeds. Under the contract of 1877 the proceeds of these revenues were made over to us subject to the payment of certain definite sums to the Government of India. Under the contract of 1882 a half share of these revenues was only given to the Provincial Government, the Government of India appropriating the other half. And the result of this was the contraction of administrative resources to an extent such as crippled administrative reform. Sir Rivers Thompson found himself in this situation. Schemes of improvement which he had planned had to be abandoned, one of these upon which he had set his mind being the extension of education. He wanted to give effect to the recommendations of the Education Commission, and he told the Government of India that it was his intention to devote to education an additional sum of Rs. 1,50,000 a year. But, in consequence of the narrowness of his resources, he was prevented from carrying out his policy in this respect. Then he appointed a Salaries Commission. The Resolution appointing that Commission distinctly laid down the proposition that the salaries of the ministerial servants of the Government were inadequate, and doubly inadequate, having regard to the rise on the prices of food-grains. That Commission consisted among others of the Hon'ble Mr. Grimley as President and the Hon'ble Rai Durga Gati Banerjee—two distinguished members of this Council; and they recommended that the salaries of the ministerial servants of the Government should be increased by at least 75 per cent. I am quite sure that if, instead of the contract of 1882, we had the contract of 1877, the recommendations of the Salaries Commission would have been given effect to. I desire once again to make an appeal on behalf of the ministerial servants of the Government which I have so often made from my place in Council. I cordially acknowledge that concessions have been made involving an expenditure to the extent of more than Rs. 50,000 a year, but I do not think that this is sufficient. It is hardly fair that the highly-paid officers of the Government should be given compensation allowance in consequence of a fall in the rate of exchange, but that these poor ministerial servants of the Government should be placed in positions of trust, exposed to temptations to abuse that trust and at the same time draw a miserable pay. It is not fair to them that they should be given salaries which are far below what they have a right to expect.

"Coming to the estimates in the Financial Statment, I find that the expenditure under the head of Courts of Justice has decreased by nearly Rs. 40,000. The Government—I will not say the Bengal Government—make a handsome profit out of what has been described as the sale of public justices and I think it is a matter of the highest importance that a portion of the proceeds should be devoted to the improvement and strengthening of the institution, which administer justice and which secure the gratitude and the loyalty of the people. My hon'ble friend Mr. Finucane has eloquently referred to the feeling of reverence which surrounds the Courts of this Province. I think it is a matter of the first importance that that feeling should be strengthened by strengthening the subordinate judiciary and adding to the number of Munsifs. The number of Munsifs is inadequate to cope with the work. We have been furnished with statistics by the Government and explanations have been given with regard to those statistics. They may satisfy my hon'ble friends who have given us those statistics, but I am bound to say that they do not satisfy the public. Organs of public opinion holding diametrically opposite views are at one in holding that the subordinate judiciary is undermanned. A friend of mine instituted a case before the Munsif at Sealdah about the middle of February last; to-day is the 3rd of April, and the case has not come on yet for the first hearing, and he has no idea when it will come on. There are hundreds and thousands of people who have similar grievances. I earnestly hope something will be done to strengthen the subordinate judicial staff.

"I find that the Hon'ble Member has provided Rs. 40,000 for the residences of Munsifs. I should like to know how many buildings have been taken in hand, how many have been completed, and in what parts of the country. I find at page 6 that Rs. 20,000 has been provided for building a house for the District Superintendent of Police at Noakhali. Is it customary to provide buildings for District Superintendents of Police? If not, why was this special concession made.

"I desire to point out that the grant for education has not been what it might have been. In 1896-97 the revised estimate showed that the Government were not able to spend the amount which was provided, and I find further that the estimates for 1897-98 provide less for expenditure on education than did the estimates for 1896-97; and I find the following explanation given at page 5:— 'The reduction in the revised estimate is owing to the grant for electric apparatus for the Civil Engineering College at Sibpur not having been fully utilised, and partly to savings from the grant for the Normal Training School.' May I enquire why the grant was not utilized, and why savings were made?

"I wish to refer to the circular issued by Your Honour's Government to various District Boards, enjoining upon them the propriety of devoting the whole of the proceeds of the Road Cess to the improvement of roads and communications. This is a circular which is likely to prove disastrous to the educational interests of this Province. Up to this time the proceeds of the Road Cess used to be devoted to the maintenance of roads and a portion to education; but as the Road Cess is now being exclusively spent on roads and communications, the educational grant is derived from pounds and ferries and certain Government grants which are made. I hold in my hand a Resolution of the Government on the report of the working of the District Boards in Bengal. I find from the figures in this report that for the last six or seven years the revenues from pounds and ferries have practically been inelastic and unexpansive so far as the Presidency Division is concerned, and further the grants which the Government has made to the District Boards for the purposes of education have been practically stationary. Therefore the result has been that in the Khulna district one or two schools have had to be abolished, and in Krishnagar they were saved from this situation by the timely resignation of a Sub-Inspector of Schools. I desire to refer to the reports of two Divisional Commissioners, Mr. Bourdillon and Mr. R. C. Dutt, both of whom have been Members of this Council. They are of opinion that the circular to which I have referred will prove highly injurious to the cause of education. Having regard to the sympathetic attitude of the Government in connection with the question of education, I hope and trust Your Honour will place the District Boards in such a position that they will find themselves able to foster and promote the cause of education in the rural tracts within their jurisdiction."

The Hon'ble MR. A. M. BOSE said:—"I have one observation to add to what has fallen from my hon'ble friend with regard to the Provincial Contract. Not only is it that in the place of the larger and more improvable sources of revenue have been substituted smaller and less improveable amounts; but, Sir, I cannot congratulate Your Honour's Government upon the fact that its financial prosperity and well-being, its capacity to carry out the many and much-needed works of improvement are now more intimately connected than hitherto has been the case with the growth and expansion of the excise revenue of the Province. I recognise that we meet under the shadow of a great calamity, and it is only natural to assign in the financial arrangements of the year a foremost position to the question of famine relief. I recognise also that this is not a very proper moment to press upon the attention of the Government questions of policy which will involve a large addition to the expenditure. I shall not, therefore, go over the ground that my hon'ble friend who has just spoken went over both on this and upon a previous occasion, or take up certain other matters which might otherwise have well claimed our attention in this debate. I will only join him in one expression of regret that it has been found necessary to place the grant for education at a smaller figure this year than in the last, and that it should have been found necessary, I will not say to force, but to enjoin upon District Boards a policy which will interfere with the needs of education. I rise chiefly to press upon the attention of the Government a matter, not of financial policy, but I was almost going to say of financial honesty, in regard to which some questions were asked in the course of the last session, the subject, namely, of the unfair and excessive charges which are thrown upon District Boards on account of the collection of the road-cess; and that is almost the only matter which I intend to refer to. The history of the matter, as it has been given in the replies of the Financial Secretary, is shortly this. The question was fully considered in 1878-79, when a certain principle of division as regards collection charges was adopted by the Government. The District Boards, having regard to the fact that the collections for public works cess which went to Government were rather greater than those for road-cess, wanted that half the collection charges should be met by the Government, the same agency being employed for both. But the Board of Revenue pointed out that, in addition to the collecting agency, a portion of the time of a Deputy Collector and of the Collector had to be devoted to the work; and, having regard to this fact, they recommended that one-third of the total collection charges should be borne by the Government and two-thirds by the District Boards. The Government was pleased to accept that principle, and accordingly a certain amount was then fixed as due from the Government to the District Boards for the collection of these provincial rates. In 1879, speaking in round numbers, the total amount of charges for collecting both the cesses was about Rs. 1,61,000, and instead of one-third, or about Rs. 54,000, the amount actually paid, Rs 44,000, was short by Rs. 10,000. But the strangest part of the matter is that although since then the collection charges have been steadily increasing until in 1894-95—they were Rs. 2,87,186,—yet the contribution from the Government has all along stood at the same figure of Rs. 44,000, the net result being that, whereas the Government ought to have contributed something like Rs. 96,000, it was contributing only Rs. 44,500, or less by about Rs. 51,500 than the amount which ought to have been contributed by it to the funds of the District Boards. I wish in this connection to draw the attention of the Council referring to this matter—the passage in the statement (page 5, paragraph 21) where, it is said that, "in view of the diminished resources of the Government, it is uncertain whether the change contemplated will not have to be deferred, at any rate for the present," namely, to give to the District Boards really what is due to them. I would make a strong appeal to the Government not to defer the commencement of this equitable policy. I shall not now raise any question of restitution on account of overcharge in the past—probably at some more favourable moment the Government might be pleased to make over some of the payment which is really due to the District Boards; but at any rate, as regards the commencement of a fair adjustment of charges in accordance with the admitted principle laid down by the Government itself so far back as 1878, I ask that it may not be delayed. I am sure the Members of the Council will agree with me that the present state of things ought not to be allowed to continue for a single moment. The District Boards have large demands upon their resources for water-supply, sanitation, and various other demands are constantly springing up; and if the argument derived from the present financial difficulties of the Provincial Government be urged, I venture to say that the District Boards also are in the same position. The scarcity which has injuriously affected the revenues of the Government will also affect the income of the District Boards and throw extra burden on that income; therefore I hope that an additional annual payment of about Rs. 50,000 to the District Boards, demanded a like by considerations of justice and generosity, will be made without delay. In the matter of agriculture, I beg to observe that last year reference was made in the budget to a certain allotment (Rs. 10,000) to promote the establishment of an agricultural class at Sibpur. I shall be glad now to learn what progress has been made in that direction and what is the present position of the matter. I trust we shall have a statement of a reassuring character, such as will enable the Council to see that the matter has not been slept over. The present scarcity brings into prominence the question of the establishment of agricultural classes, not only with the object of giving the people the benefit of an agricultural education, but also that they may be able by the raising of additional crops to tide over times of difficulty. I would also appeal to the Government to see what steps may be taken for the establishment of agricultural banks. I will read to the Council a passage from a letter which I have received from a gentleman occupying a high and responsible position in Chota Nagpur, earnestly advocating the establishment of such banks to save the ignorant and helpless people there from the grinding exactions of the village grain and money-lenders. (Passage read).

"It is not necessary for me to say anything with regard to the condition of the people of Chota Nagpur in the presence of the Hon'ble Mr. Grimley. I will only add that the state of things depicted in this letter is not confined to that division, but may be met with elsewhere also. I trust it will be possible for the Government to establish these banks, or at any rate to institute inquiries with the object of encouraging their establishment, so as to enable these unfortunate people to free themselves from the hands of rapacious and unscrupulous usurers. I hope the Government will earn their gratitude by helping to make lighter the burdens they have to bear and add a little brightness to their hard existence, because it is on the contentment and well-being of the people rests the surest foundation of the prosperity of the Government."

The Hon'ble Mr. Wallis said:—"Sir,—With your permission I would like to make a few remarks on the Financial Statement now under consideration. I am aware that the Members of this Council, when speaking on the Financial Statement, will have to use the greatest caution to avoid criticising the principles of the Provincial Contract on which we have just entered; but, Sir, we have been compelled to accept a revision of the Contract of 1892—97 on lines so disastrous to the financial prospects of the province over which your Honour rules, that you will perhaps treat the Members of your Council leniently should they at any point overstep the bounds of reference, and tread on the forbidden ground of criticism. The year which the Financial Statement reviews opened with the brightest prospects, the closing balance being estimated at Rs. 34,40,000, the revised estimate raising it to Rs. 41,07,000. This vast improvement, we are told, is mainly due to an increase in the provincial share of the net earnings of the Eastern Bengal State Railway, an ever-increasing source of income, now unfortunately lost to the Bengal Government; but, Sir, the Financial Secretary is also to be congratulated on being able to show an increase of nearly Rs. 16,00,000 under various other headings, all of which assisted in making up the closing balance to the amount named, Rs. 41,07,000. There are, however, two heads of receipts under which I would like to make a few remarks, and they are the excess revenue obtained from Forests and Jails. These show a net improvement during 1896-97 over the actuals of 1895-96 of Rs. 1,62,000 for the former and Rs. 50,000 for the latter. We are told that the improvement under the head of Forests is due to contracts undertaken by the Department for the supply of railway sleepers to the Rai Bareilly-Benares Railway. This is, I fear, one of those cases in which the Government step in and compete with private enterprise to the undoubted loss of the latter, for it is hopeless for the private individual, however great his resources may be, to work on the same terms as the Government, who in this particular case stands very much in the position of the producer retailing his goods, instead of working through the wholesale buyer. It may be that the contract under reference is the only one in existence at the present time, but does that justify its existence? I think not; for what the private contractor has to fear is the extent to which such transactions might be carried on by the Government. The private contractor finds a new competitor has entered the field against him, an opponent possessed of unlimited capital, who can perfectly well carry on his business, regardless of the laws which must govern his action, for the private individual has to see that each particular venture he embarks on is worked to a profit. It has been shown that the existing contract with the Rai Bareilly-Benares Railway has proved a profitable speculation to Government. I respectfully submit that the timber should be sold to the contractor direct from the forests, and he, in turn, should retail it to the Railway. This is a question which might be enlarged upon to any extent, but it is not my intention to take up the time of Hon'ble Members. I would only desire to mention that it is the principle to which I respectfully invite the attention of the Bengal Government. I now come to the question of the extra revenue obtained from jails. This is shown to be about Rs. 50,000, and is due to the supply of police clothing by the Jail Department. Here we have an excellent means for the employment of jail labour, and I would venture to suggest that the energies of those in control should be directed towards this legitimate means of increasing the revenue of jails, and in doing this I would desire to make a few remarks on the more general question of jail manufactures. In bringing this question before this Council, I am compelled to refer back to an exhaustive Resolution of the Government of India on this subject, dated 22nd September 1882. This Resolution clearly and fully restricts the production of jail manufactures to avoid their proving a hindrance to the growth of indigenous industries, or be brought into unfair competition with the products of private capital and of free labour. The history of the whole case is a very long one, and the Association to which I belong has considered it expedient on several occasions to address Government on the subject; but I trust Hon'ble Members will excuse my taking up a little of their time by making a passing reference to the question. Those who are interested in trade in India do not, for one moment, wish to deprecate the desirability of utilising convict labour, but they do respectfully protest against the production of the jails being offered retail to the public and at prices which cannot be touched by the private producer; but I will come to that point later on. I would now quote portions of the Resolution to which I have referred and which might be made to apply equally to the question of contracts for sleepers as to jail administration. [The speaker then read several quotations from the Government Resolution of the 22nd September 1882.] This, Sir, is all that can be expected. That sales of jail produce to consumers among the outside public ought to be discouraged, the jails dealing direct, as a rule, only with traders, wholesale or retail; and I may venture to add that on no account should depôts be continued for the retail sale to private individuals of articles of jail manufactures, varying from a table serviette to a rocking chair, from a foot-rug to a drawing-room carpet, at rates which defy private competition. This question I feel the greatest confidence in leaving in Your Honour's hands.

"So much for my remarks on the past year's accounts; it now remains for me to refer to the estimated accounts for the year 1897-98. This period, but for the demand on our resources for Famine Relief and the immediate loss which will accrue from the new Bengal Contract of 12½ lakhs, would have closed with a credit of about 44½ lakhs. This brings me to the question of Provincial Reserve Funds, and the undesirability of accumulating large balances. I have seen a Resolution of the Government of India, No. 318, of the 17th January 1882, which refers to this question very pointedly. It reads as follows:—

"Moreover, as a consequence of the new principles laid down in the Resolution of 30th September last, and of the separate provision in the Imperial Budget of a permanent annual allotment of one crore and-a-half of rupees for Famine Relief and Insurance, the Local Governments, while always needing a moderate reserve over and above the mere 'working balance' of sufficient amount to meet scarcity and distress not indisputably amounting to severe famine, or other temporary exigencies, will no longer find it necessary to accumulate a great Provincial Reserve Fund, out of which the demands of severe famine could, in future, be largely met. His Excellency in Council is of opinion that, subject to the moderate reserve just referred to, the provincial resources can be best utilised by being invested to the full, from year to year, in works of a productive or protective character."

Towards the middle of last year your Honour recognised that the Provincial Funds had a credit balance of 21 lakhs, and possibly with above Resolution in view, you immediately took in hand one of the most noble schemes which you could have devised to inaugurate your rule over this Province, namely, the structural needs of the European General Hospital. The Resolution No. 314T.M., of the 13th June 1896, appointing a most influential Committee, with the Honble Mr. Risley as President and Mr. W. Banks Gwyther as Secretary, to consider and report on the whole question, was hailed with the utmost satisfaction by the general public, and it is a great misfortune that the financial horizon suddenly became overcast, the Province was threatened with famine, and the Government of India enjoined the observance of the strictest economy, and the Provincial balance of 21 lakhs had to be held in reserve to meet other expenditure of an urgent character.

"Thus, Sir, the funds which, I take it, you had intended to devote to the benevolent object named, have been diverted to other channels, but we learn that you will continue to press upon the Government of India the gradual reconstruction of the Presidency General Hospital on the lines suggested by the Committee, and also that other necessary medical reforms in Calcutta will be undertaken as soon as money can be found. You also expressed a hope that the Provincial Contract, then under consideration, might possibly provide funds for the completion of a large portion of the work within the next five years. Your Honour has already commented on the disappointment which has been occasioned by the terms of the new contract; and as the conditions entail an immediate loss in the first year of some 12½ lakhs, it is to be feared that the Provincial Funds will not, for some time to come, be able to bear the strain which would be put upon them for the completion of the scheme. I am sure, Sir, every Member of this Council joins with you in the hope that the Government of India may, when more settled times come, see their way to restore to Bengal some portion of the contribution which we are now called upon to meet. We have an excellent example of this having been done in the past under a Resolution, No. 3353, of the 30th September 1881, of the Government of India, Department of Finance and Commerce, paragraph 9. This Resolution, after discussing at great length the responsibilities of Provincial Governments in times of severe famine, &c., decided that it was desirable to restore to Provincial Governments certain contributions amounting to some 67 lakhs which they had made to the Imperial Government. This was actually done under a subsequent Resolution, No. 318, of 17th January 1882, so that we may hope with some degree of confidence that at no distant date the Supreme Government may take the question into consideration and decide on making the refund."

The Hon'ble MAHARAJA BAHADUR SIR RAVANESHWAR PROSHAD SINGH, K.C.I.E. of Gidhaur said:—"I do not wish to detain the Council by any lengthy remarks. I wish with your Honour's permission to make certain observations in as few words as I possibly can. Before I proceed with my observations, I have to congratulate the Hon'ble Member the Financial Secretary to the Government for the very successful budget he has been able to produce in this year of exceptional difficulties. It is indeed a matter of great satisfaction to find that notwithstanding the heavy expenses required for the prevailing famine in Bihar, there has not been such curtailment of allotments on the education and other improvements as would retard the progress of the country. I observe with special satisfaction that an allotment of Rs. 12,000 has been made for the Bihar School of Engineering. The Government were pleased last year to announce its intention of opening an agricultural class at Sibpur. The people of Bihar would be especially thankful to the generous enlightened ruler of Bengal if he could see his way to establish an agricultural school in Bihar next year, which, I hope, would be a year of prosperity. I wish the Government could see its way not to reduce the allotment for grants-in-aid to schools. This may work to the prejudice of primary schools and schools in general. I find that out of 27 lakhs and odd budgeted for education, Rs. 3,39,000 are for inspection and Rs. 66,000 for direction, i.e., one-eighth of the entire amount to be spent on education is to be spent on inspection. The proportion seems to me a little too high. I am aware of the difficulties of making any savings here. But I cannot help wishing that the grant in-aid of Rs. 5,93,000 could be raised at least to the figure spent last year by making saving somewhere else. It is worthy of notice that the reduction of Rs. 30,000 made in the budget under education this year, as compared with the budget of last year, a reduction of Rs. 27,000 has been made only in allotments under grant-in-aid. I find that a sum of Rs. 20,000 has been allotted for the construction of a residence for the District Superintendent of Police at Noakhally. I am not aware whether the Government provides District Superintendents with residences in other districts. There must have been some special reason for making this allotment, but I cannot help observing that in my district a very good and comfortable bungalow may be made for Rs. 10,000, and I do not know why the same amount would not be sufficient at Noakhally. I also find a sum of Rs. 25,000 allotted for the construction of a parsonage. I don't find any other item of expenditure for ecclesiastical purposes in our provincial budget, and this has made me doubtful whether the item is properly there. The Subordinate Judicial Service has special reasons to be thankful to His Honour for the allotment of Rs. 40,000 for the residences of munsifs. The present Government is not one that is slow to remove a grievance when it is brought to its notice. By making the residence for munsifs, it would remove a long-standing grievance for a most deserving and hard-working class of officers and would earn their gratitude."

The Hon'ble MR. M. S. DAS said:—"During the discussions on the Budget last year, I suggested the importance and the necessity of appropriating a portion at least of the educational grant to schools where agriculture would be taught in a primary form. My suggestions had some support from His Honour the present Lieutenant-Governor, who remarked that he had seen the experiment tried satisfactorily in the Central Provinces; I therefore expected that in the present Budget some provision would be made for giving an agricultural training in primary schools, but I regret to say that I do not find any provision made for this purpose. No doubt this is a year in which the Financial Secretary must have found it very difficult to make allotments for educational purposes; in fact he ought to be congratulated for the successful manner in which he has adjusted the revenues of the Province, and provided for the monstrous calamity of famine without trenching upon the grant for education to such an extent as to be detrimental to the department. But I maintain that in a year of famine any outlay for the promotion of agriculture would not be out of place. Prevention is better than cure, and therefore by educating the people in the art of agricultural, though we shall not be able to avert famines by commanding rainfall in proper season, it will enable the people to know what crops they can grow in a season when the rainfall is scanty. This is very desirable because the peculiarity of agriculture in this country is that the people move about in the old groove and have the same crops from year to year irrespective of the vicissitudes of season. I do not wish to take up any further time; I shall therefore only express the hope that the Hon'ble the Financial Secretary will be able to find something out of the resources at his command for this most important item of expenditure."

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN said:—"In spite of the persuasive and eloquent speech of the Hon'ble Financial Secretary of the Government of Bengal to the contrary, I still maintain that the discussion on the budget in the Bengal Council is of the most academic character and perfectly useless for any practical purpose whatsoever, and I am confirmed in this opinion by what was said the other day in reply to a question of my hon'ble friend Babu Surendranath Banerjee. It was this, that "under the orders of the Government of India, the Financial Statement of a Local Government cannot be presented to, or discussed by, the Local Legislative Council, until it has received the sanction of the Government of India." Holding the opinion I do, I shall be very sorry indeed to criticise a budget for which the Bengal Government is not at all responsible, and the exceptional character of which, perhaps for the present, has been partly forced by circumstances, over which man has no control. But, Sir, on the present occasion, in connection with the Provincial Budget, we, the non-official members of this Council, have a duty to perform. It is to offer His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor our humble but heart-felt thanks and our tribute of admiration for the care he takes for the defence of the interests of our Provincial Revenues. If money, they say, is the sinews of war, it is no less true that it is the means alone by which administrative reforms are possible. The Government of Bengal, Sir, are entrusted with the care of the administration of the Government of this vast province in all its details, excepting its protection from outside and its communication inside and outside by Railways, Telegraphs and Post Offices, branches which are in the Imperial Budget called "Commercial." Therefore, Sir, in the treatment we receive in this matter, lie the progress and prosperity of the teeming millions of Bengal, comprising nearly a third of the population of this vast Indian Empire.

"Their contribution as taxes amount to more than a third of the principal Heads of General Revenues of India, if you were to give them credit for the revenue derived from opium, got out of poppy grown in their soil or more than a fourth, if no such credit were to be given.

"And the Provincial Revenue which my hon'ble friend shows on the Receipt side, and which every one will allow, he has husbanded to the best of his ability in the budget before us, comes up to only three crores and odd (i.e.) barely a fourth of what Bengal contributes in a year.

"Sir, our Stamp Revenue alone comes up to 174 lakhs. It keeps on developing by some lakhs even in this year of famine, and it would cover, with its receipts, our expenditure for Administration, for Maintaining Courts, Civil and Criminal, including the High Court, for Police, and for Jails.

Thus, Receipts—Stamps	...	174	lakhs.
Courts of law	...	8½	„
Jails	...	8½	„
Police	...	2	„
Total	...	193	„

Expenditures—Administration	...	17½	lakhs.
Courts of law	...	89½	„
Jails	...	22	„
Police	...	61	„
Total	...	190	„

"Our Excise Revenue, our Assessed Taxes, our Custom Revenues, our Provincial rates and the receipt on all our minor Heads of Revenue remain unaffected by the great calamity that has overspread the land.

"Our Land Revenue collections stand where they always stood uneffected by the vicissitudes of the season, and why, because we have here a Permanent Settlement.

"Again, Sir, of all our Railways the East Bengal State Railways paid best during the year, and why, because our Permanent Settlement renders our land system certain, and secures to our raiyats almost all the advantages of a profitable cultivation.

"But if we pay, we require our people to be educated, we require hundred and one administrative reforms to be introduced, and we want healthy checks introduced in the abnormal growths of some of our Revenue Heads, conspicuously the Excise and the Stamps, which I respectfully submit indicate growing drunkenness and litigiousness amongst my people.

"I shan't repeat what I said on these subjects last year. In 1883-84 when the outstill and distilleries contributed only 48 lakhs, it was declared in the Resolution appointing the Excise Commission that there was a serious increase in drinking, and Government in appointing that Commission declared that no consideration of Revenue can be allowed to outweigh the paramount duty of Government to prevent the spread of intemperance, so far as it may be possible to do so. The Excise Commission suggested some changes; these suggestions or at least some of them were adopted, and with their adoption the development of the Excise Revenue received a check.

"These checks have since been removed one by one, and the only recommendation now adhered to is the establishment of some distilleries, and some local option in the matter of selection of sites.

"Simultaneously with the withdrawal of the checks recommended by the Excise Commission, we have increased consumption and increased revenue.

"The outstill and distillery revenue stood at 59 lakhs last year. It is more than 60 lakhs this year.

"I was told last year that the increased Excise Revenue indicates prosperity of our people; that I should have congratulated the country and the Financial Secretary on this result. One has only to await to gather experience. This is a year of famine, and the expansion of our Excise Revenue in spite of famine is all the same, and the pet theory of explaining away increased Excise Revenue, by referring it to prosperity as its cause, must now have to be given up. If it indicates anything, it indicates that the habit is being rooted in our people, and that what used to maintain our pauper population without any Poor laws in the land, now go to the liquor-shops. It is a matter which ought to engage the attention of those who are entrusted with the care of our people.

"Then, again, I find, in the latest Excise Report in hand, that a fresh experiment is now being tried at Gaya. The department, throwing aside the recommendation of the Excise Commission, with regard to the fixing of a minimum price for outstill liquor (4 to 6 pice a bottle), is now trying to introduce a system of maximum price for distillery liquor, and that so low as 7 Gorukpuri pice, equal to 4¼ pice a bottle.

"I hope the Government will not allow this system of cheapening liquor to go on notwithstanding any report that the result was proving successful at Gaya, for the inevitable result will be to cheapen distillery liquor to a degree to which even the outstill liquors have not ever reached.

"Already in the district of Gaya country spirits brought in more money on the introduction of this rule, than has been the case for many years before this.

"I am afraid I was misunderstood last year with respect to what I said about the abnormal growth of our Stamp Revenue—what I meant to say, and I shall maintain even now, that, judging by the latest figures available, more than four-fifths of the litigation in our Courts are those in which our poor people (90 per cent. agricultural raiyats) are interested, and it were well if in the interest of these poor people Panchaiti (Conciliators') Courts were established, the panchaits to decide without charging Court-fees. A Bill to this effect could be introduced in Council at any moment, if permission was given.

"At any rate, there ought to be some system of refund of Court-fees introduced in cases where cases are decided ex-parte, compromised or withdrawn, and the process-fees reduced in some cases.

"Another little matter, on which I like to say a word, is the subject of Assessed Taxes. Sir Charles Elliott said in his last Resolution on the Income-tax, "on the question of popular feeling in regard to the Income-tax there was nothing new to be said. It is necessarily unpopular, but among the classes which are enlightened enough to appreciate the financial position and prospects of the country, the tendency is to recognise it as an unpleasant but inevitable necessity. If the minimum income could be raised to Rs. 1,000, the unpopularity of the tax would be almost entirely removed." His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor has in the present year's Resolution endorsed this view.

"The proceeds of the Income-tax up to minimum of Rs. 1,000 is not much. It is only 10 lakhs out of 49 lakhs to which it has grown, and the growth since its introduction has been about 10 lakhs. This 10 lakhs is paid by 87 thousand assessees out of the present total number of 114 thousand assessees.

"But I feel I am taking up the Council's time for nothing, when the Bengal Government begins the year with a deficit and all the surplus in hand is gone.

"Turning to the Budget figures I find that the receipts amount to 454 lakhs and the estimated expenditure to 485 lakhs for the present year, and if we get on to better times the next year, it will still leave us short of 9 lakhs to produce an equilibrium between our receipts and expenditure, and the only way out of our difficulty will be perhaps to make the utmost of the taxes, the curtailment of which I suggest. This is very disappointing, and I only make these suggestions in the hope that if better times come these subjects should not be lost sight of.

"I am glad, Sir, that, notwithstanding its difficulties, Government has not thought fit to curtail any of our current expenditures under any head: on the contrary, I find a small additional grant under the head Education in the estimate for 1897-98 over the revised estimate for the year 1896-97. The country ought to be thankful to His Honour for this, as formerly under the straitened circumstances of our finance, the expenditure on Education has always been the first to receive the shears. I hope, Sir, the Provincial revenues will come to a point when effect could be given to the recommendations of the Education Commission. It were false economy to curtail our useful expenditures.

"There are only one or two items on the expenditure side on which I like to say a few words.

"The first is head 'Irrigation,' Subject—'Interest on Debt.' The amount is 24 lakhs. This is the amount of charge I have seen for a good many years. It strikes me that with the interest of Government securities at 3 per cent. this amount ought now to be reduced to 18 lakhs.

"I like to be informed if there be any special condition of this loan, under which the loan cannot be paid off or converted. It is specially necessary to do so, as the Irrigation Works have been a heavy drag on our Provincial revenues, and here in this matter we have been spending money, something over 23 lakhs from year to year, to insure ourselves against famine, without, I am sorry, the corresponding result. Take even a circle of 10 short years, when a famine comes, we would have spent on our irrigation canals 2 crores 30 lakhs before the famine year would be reached, and we would be spending two-thirds of the amount that is now estimated for the relief of whole India for the present year, and more than double of what we shall be required to spend for Bengal.

"Another matter for look-out, when this irrigation sits so heavily on the expenditure side of our budget, is whether the working and maintenance charges cannot be reduced. A good deal has been done in this respect by the Superintending Engineer and his divisional staff, for which they have justly merited His Honour's recognition, but I like to be informed whether, when the expense per mile varies from Major Works to Major Works, and in the different divisions of the same Major Works, whether the charges are not susceptible of further reduction. The collection charges of rates are nothing compared to the maintnance and working charges.

"And here permit me to say a passing word regarding the dire calamity we are at present passing through and which has evoked such sympathy throughout the world. India cannot be too grateful for the large sums of money that have been pouring in from England and all her dependencies for charitable relief to our poor people. That calamity has greatly affected a part of His Honour's territories. In that part of the territories under His Honour, distress and scarcity is almost chronic, and it behoves those who have any information to convey to lay it before Government. To me it appears that the classes of persons who come to be affected at every season of drought and distress in Bihar are the landless classes, and amongst these the class of Nonias, who were once prosperous as manufactures of saltpetre, and the class of Jhollas, who were once prosperous weavers. Add to this the dependants on agricultural prospects, the class serving on wages in agricultural fields. I believe this number is about 3 to 4 millions.

"I can roughly calculate the Wage Fund in Bihar in prosperous times. The whole, according to my calculation with which I need not trouble the Council, come up to 60 millions of rupees. The result is appalling, for if the whole of the Wages Fund were to be distributed, it would not be more than Rs. 20 a head. In prosperous times an able-bodied man gets for unskilled labour Rs. 3-8 to Rs. 4 a month, a boy able to work Re. 1-8, and a woman Rs. 2. This has been the case as long as the memory of man runneth, and it has not much improved since the time when the Ayeen Akbari was compiled, when the pay of an ordinary groom was 170 to 100 daums= Rs. 4-4 to Rs. 2-8, 40 daums making a rupee. That everyone does not get work even at this low rate is apparent from the fact that you get lots of Umedwars to serve you when you have anything to offer.

"This for prosperous times. You can then well conceive why, with the slightest vicissitudes of season, you have to take the relief of these men in hand Doubtless it is the great populousness of Bihar that accounts for a great deal of this and some of the social habits of the people with which any Government is powerless to combat. Emigration to other and less congested parts of India would go some way to relieve the congestion, but it appears to me that the best way to insure against famine is to help and encourage the growth of manufactures in this country and to rehabilitate our once prosperous manufacturers on wage funds in their own line.

"I have submitted how we spend 23 lakhs from year to year from our Provincial revenues, to keep up our irrigation works, to insure ourselves against famine. The Bengal Government had to spend a large sum of money in the districts of Muzaffarpur and Darbhanga during the distress season 1892-93, without (I like to be corrected if I am wrong) getting anything from the Famine Insurance Fund, and we have to spend 41 lakhs for 1896-97 and 1897-98 out of the Provincial Fund. We are very grateful for the 70 lakhs we are promised for 1897-98 out of the Famine Insurance Fund; but if we have to provide even in part the famine relief expenditure out of our Provincial revenues, which are allotted for fixed and specific charges, I wonder how long the administrative machinery in Bengal can get on. But whatever views may be taken as to the liabilities of the Provincial revenues to meet relief charges, I submit local revenues raised for specific purposes ought not to be diverted to other purposes. But I am afraid I am trenching on forbidden grounds.

"I find, Sir, we had to contribute 18½ lakhs last year from the Provincial revenues for famine relief, and we are called on to contribute 22 lakhs this year for the same purpose. The local bodies contributed 4½ lakhs last year, and they are called on to contribute 8 lakhs and odds during the present year. The total amounts to something over 52 lakhs. The estimated cost of relief works in charge of Public Works Department alone is 39 lakhs, and relief works in charge of Civil Department is 21¾ lakhs. These are large sums, and if devised to excavate tanks, wells and remove silts from the beds of rivers and canals, ought to save large parts of Bengal, at least the districts affected, from water-famine in future. Early in November last year I suggested this in one of my questions, and the Hon'ble Mr. Finucane in reply in December said I understood that this is being done. The famine would leave some good behind, if, with the money now to be spent, every village in the districts affected would get its supply of drinkable water in future.

"With reference to the Local Funds I have yet to say a word. I hope, notwithstanding his difficulties, the Hon'ble Financial Secretary shall be able to make an equitable distribution of the charges of collections between the Road Cess and Public Works Cess, and the charge of re-valuations also. The amount on adjustment shall be found to be about 2 lakhs a year, and not 40 or 50 thousand as he estimates.

"Under head Stationery and Printing, the estimate of expenditure is Rs. 11,34,000 against Rs. 11,00,000 of the revised estimate for the year 1896-97. The charges are thus distributed:—Stationery Office at the Presidency, Rs. 1,54,000; Stationery purchased in the country, Rs. 70,000; Government Presses, Rs. 3,66,000; Printing at private presses, Rs. 1,000; Stationery supplied from Central Stores, Rs. 5,42,000; Refunds, Rs. 1,000. The receipt under head Stationery and Printing is Rs. 1,34,000 only. I believe Government printing offices now supply printed forms to District Boards and Municipalities at certain rates; private presses could do this cheaper, and, judging by this, I beg to ask whether it has ever been thought expedient to ask private presses to do the Government printing works, at least of forms, and whether they would not do it at cheaper rates than what it now costs Government.

"As for the stationery, the country supply is Rs. 70,000, and the stationery supplied from Central Stores is Rs. 5,42,000. I like to know what kind of things are supplied from the Central Stores, and whether these could not be had in the country. If the Government of Bengal has a free hand in the matter, will my hon'ble friend arrange for getting all his stationery from the country instead of indenting for them from the Central Stores. This will stimulate private enterprises, and I am sure lead to considerable saving under this head.

"I am glad that provision has been made for larger payments under commission to Rural Sub-Registrars and under contingent charges owing to the opening of new offices and the general expansion of the department. This is but doing justice to a department which contributes 8 lakhs to our revenue, of which we share half, and I hope the opportunity shall be taken to introduce some sort of test in the employment of these Rural Sub-Registrars.

"I am sorry not to find my old friend, the Zamindari Dâk Cess, which forms a regular impost on land, contributing about 3 lakhs in the Provincial revenues. I still hold that the reason for its imposition no longer exists, but if the impost is to exist, let at least the control of receipt and expenditure be brought under the direct supervision of Government."

But what are the savings of a few lakhs here and there compared to our wants?—and they are grave and many. They are not the fancied grievance of grievance-mongers, but well established by commissions of official experts. We want money to give effect to the recommendations of the Education Commission, the Police Commission, the Salaries Commission; we want money to increase the number of Munsiffs, to better their prospects, and we want money for the purpose of Village Sanitation, and no one knows better than His Honour that we can't pay more, and all our reliance is on our getting justice in the matter of Provincial Revenues.

The Hon'ble Rai Eshan Chundra Mittra Bahadur said:—"After all that has been said I shall only make a few remarks. From the recent Provincial Contract our province has lost 12½ lakhs of rupees, and as the Government has to make provision for the saving of the lives of many thousands of people, it will perhaps be unreasonable to ask the Government to provide for expenditure which has not been provided for in the budget. I know from the budget that our treasury is empty, and knock, as we may, at the gate of the Treasury, the Financial Secretary will say 'you must wait for a year; this is a very bad year, and when we have a better year perhaps some relief may be given.' I appeal for that class of persons for whom my hon'ble friend Babu Surendranath Banerjee has been appealing to-day and has been appealing for the last two or three years; I mean that half-famished class of men, the ministerial officers. From the year 1867 down to the present there have been enquiries and commissions, but nothing substantial has been done to increase their pay. It is not necessary that I should remind your Honour of the labors of the Salaries Commission, but I will call attention to the remarks which were made by the Hon'ble the Financial Secretary on the occasion of the discussion of the last year's Budget. He was pleased to say that the recommendations of the Salaries Commission were not reasonable, but that there was no doubt the cost of living of the ministerial officers of the civil, criminal and revenue courts had increased to the extent of from 13 to 16 per cent., and it was no doubt desirable that some provision should be made for increasing the salaries of these ministerial officers. There is a Process Fees Fund, and from a Financial circular it appears that over and above the actual cost of maintaining the establishment for the service of processes there is a saving of 4⅓ lakhs. Court-fees are levied to meet the cost of the administration of justice, and I respectully submit that the proceeds of these fees should not be diverted from expenditure under the head of the administration of justice to any other head. On the last occasion the Financial Secretary sympathised with the condition of this class of officers, but he regretted to say that even if an increase of 12½ per cent. of their salaries was given, the expenditure would amount to 3 or 4 lakhs, and therefore he could not hold out any hope of its being done. But I would remind your Honour of the moral obligation of Government to pay the ministerial officers adequately. But nothing has been given to this very over-worked class of officers since 1867. And it comes to this, that the salaries of various classes of Judicial Officers, Subordinate Judges, Munsifs, and Deputy Magistrates have been increased, and no doubt for weighty considerations some European Officers of the Government have received exchange compensation, and even the menial servants of the Government have received something; but these unfortunate men have not received a pice since 1867. There is, moreover, a class of unpaid apprentices both in the Courts of Judges and of Munsifs; they work for five years in expectation of getting employment, but if they do not get employment within that period they are turned out. A great portion of the work is done by these apprentices, and they absolutely do not get a farthing from the Government, and I need not say how they live. When a large sum is realised in the shape of court-fees, fees specially realised to meet the expenditure on account of the administration of justice, I say these men have a right to proper remuneration. I would not have risen to address the Council on this occasion on a point on which so much has been said, but for a case which has come to my personal knowledge. The other day a case was decided in Howrah, in which a poor woman sued her husband and brother to recover Rs. 800 or Rs. 900 on a mortgage bond. The defence was that the bond was a fabrication. The Munsif went through the case for several days successively, and on appeal the Subordinate Judge heard it for some days, and it was found that the real bond was taken out of Court and a false one was substituted in its place. Such things are sometimes heard of in the mufassal, though I admit they are rare, and the most important thing is that neither the Munsif nor the Subordinate Judge could find out who committed the fraud, and no sanction for prosecution could therefore be given. There are in that Court some apprentices and some half-starved amla. It is for the Council to consider who committed the fraud and whether or not in the name of justice such things should be stopped. In matters other than judicial, the back-bone of the mufassal Courts are the underpaid amla; they get but half salaries, and there are lots of temptations before them. I submit this is a matter which should not be left unconsidered, and that the Government should take some steps to prevent such things occurring. To put it from another point of view—is it dignfied on the part of a great Government of which your Honour is the responsible head, to overlook the poor condition of these officers? There is a very stringent circular of the Government against indebtedness by Government servants; the unfortunate people cannot borrow, and still they are required to act honestly and fairly. I submit that they are at least entitled to some consideration during this year. If they are given an addition to their pay of even two annas to the rupee, it will be a great boon to them, and it should be met out of savings from process fees. Then there is another point, namely, the question of water-famine. A large sum is to be spent upon people who are suffering from famine for food-grains. The Government ought also to take into consideration the question of water-famine. The people are suffering from want of water. I differ from my hon'ble friend BABU SURENDANATH BANERJEE upon the question of permissive legislation. [The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said:—"I said that the people are not likely to approve of it unless the Supreme Government on its part does what it should."] I say there is room for improvement under this head."

The Hon'ble MR. FINUCANE said:—"Sir, this seems to be a debate de omnibus rebus et quibus dem aliis. The Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen began by saying that it was of an academic character, but upon no supposition can it be said that the Hon'ble Member has tried by his speech to give it a practical bent. In my remarks, which will be brief, I shall only endeavour to answer the questions which have been put by him and by other Hon'ble Members so far as regards the matters with which I am myself concerned. The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee referred in very appreciative terms to the way in which the famine relief administration has been carried on. But he made a mistake. He said the expenditure in Bengal is larger than in other Provinces. The expenditure in the coming year will be larger, but taking the present and the past year, it is not larger than in other Provinces. Questions have been asked about an agricultural class at the Sibpur Engineering College. The position in that respect is this. We have submitted a proposal to the Government of India; sanction has not been definitely received, but the matter has not been lost sight of, and Rs. 10,000 have been provided in the Budget for this purpose. A Conference was held in the course of the year in the office of the Board of Revenue, at which the Hon'ble Mr. Stevens presided, for the purpose of considering the question of improving the system of education in the country generally, so as to make it more practical than it now is, and recommendations have been made. As to the expenditure upon Education, the difference between the amount allotted this year and last year upon Education is very trifling—about Rs. 24,000. The Lieutenant-Governor had intended to provide for a much larger expenditure on primary education,—but on account of the famine we have only been able to keep it as it was last year. The Hon'ble Mr. Bose made some remarks upon the establishment of agricultural banks by Government in Chota Nagpur; that is a large question which has often been considered in different parts of India. The difficulties in the way are exceedingly great, and nothing can, I fear, be done in this direction. [The Hon'ble Mr. Gaimley said:—"There is an old bank existing in Chota Nagpur, which was got up by the Natives."] But not a Government Bank Then with regard to Forests. The question of the supply of sleepers for Railways has formed the subject of some correspondence. The Chamber of Commerce objected to the Forest Department supplying sleepers for Government Railways. The question was referred to the Government of India, and that Government, agreeing with the Government of Bengal, ruled that the Forest Department is to be conducted in Bengal, as it is in other parts of India, on purely commercial principles, and no hope can be held out that the Government will alter that policy. Then the Hon'ble Maharaja of Gidhaur expressed the hope that agricultural schools will be established in Bihar and the Hon'ble Mr. Das referred to the same point as regards Cuttack. It is the desire of the Government to extend agricultural education and technical education as much as possible, but funds will not admit of more being done at present than is now being done. If the Hon'ble Maharaja will help to establish a school himself in Bihar, the Government will highly approve of his benevolence in this respect. A question has been asked about the expenditure of Rs. 25,000 for a residence for the Chaplain of St. John's Church. The Chaplain receives from the Government Rs. 170 a month for house rent, he asked that a Parsonage be built from the capitalised value of that allowance, and his request has been acceded to, but Government will lose nothing by this transaction. These are all the questions with which the departments under me are concerned."

The Hon'ble Mr. Bolton said :—"I rise only to answer a few of the questions asked in the course of the speeches which have been delivered. The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee referred to the Subordinate Judicial Service, and, with reference to the provision of Rs. 45,000 for Munsifs' residences, enquired what number of residences would be constructed and in what places it was intended to provide them? It is proposed to build in the course of the year eight houses at an average cost of about Rs. 5,000, and they will be constructed chiefly in districts of Eastern Bengal.

"The Hon'ble Member also spoke of the necessity of increasing the staff of the Subordinate Judicial Service. A question on this subject was asked last year, when the then Chief Secretary, Mr. Cotton, gave an answer which still applies. He showed that the staff had been increased by thirty between 1890 and 1894. Since then there has not been so large an increase, but the Government is gradually adding to the number of Munsifs where necessity for doing so is shown, and additions will be made from time to time in future. The Hon'ble Member also enquired why quarters are to be built for the District Superintendent of Police at Noakhali? There are places in Bengal where it is difficult to find residences for all the officers, and the difficulty tends to increase from year to year. The Government has, therefore, considered it advisable to undertake in some of the worst of these stations the construction of residences for its officers. One of these stations is Noakhali, where many buildings have been demolished, through the disappearance of European residents. Not only there, but also at Darbhanga it has been found necessary to construct quarters for the District Superintendent of Police. This expenditure causes no loss to the Government, because, under the standing rules, officers are required to pay a certain amount of rent, calculated upon a percentage of their salaries, and this rent represents an adequate return upon the capital, amounting to about 4 per cent. The Hon'ble Mr. Wallis drew attention to the Resolution of the Government of India on Jail manufactures recorded in 1882, and quoted the principles laid down in that Resolution. The orders now in force were issued in 1886, and Jail manufactures are being conducted in accordance with them. The manufactures supply, first, the requirements of the Jails themselves, and, secondly, the wants of the other consuming departments of the Government. But in giving employment to all classes of convicts, it is inevitable that certain articles should be manufactured which are not wanted immediately or at all by the Jail or by other departments, and these are disposed of to the Public at the full market prices. These manufactures are very small, and cannot interfere in any appreciable degree with private trade. Another matter which I have to notice is the Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen's remarks regarding the reduction of the cost of litigation to poor suitors. I have had the advantage of perusing a draft Bill which the Hon'ble Member has prepared on this subject. There are many difficulties in the way of carrying out his plan, and it is for him to move in the matter at any future time if he wishes to do so. The Government is not prepared to take any action in the direction he suggests. The Hon'ble Member also expressed a hope that a test will be introduced for the admission of Rural Sub-Registrars into the Registration Department. There is in fact a test. Candidates are in the first instance nominated by District Officers, and they are subjected to examination. The test is sufficiently effective to secure a good class of officers for these appointments."

The Hon'ble Mr. Risley said:—"I shall endeavour to cover the ground over which several Hon'ble Members have gone as shortly as I can. I have to thank the Hon'ble the Maharaja of Gidhaur and other Hon'ble gentlemen for their kindly recognition of the labours of the Financial Department, and I would like in doing so to acknowledge the admirable work done in connection with the preparation of this Budget by the Registrar of the Financial Department of this Government, Babu Surendra Nath Mitter. He has been of the greatest possible service in every way, not only to myself, but to a series of Financial Secretaries going back to the time when the present Lieutenant-Governor himself held that office.

"Now as to the budget itself. The first thing I have to say about it is that it is essentially an emergency budget. Famine has upset everything, and has involved us in very great expenditure. Last year when we took stock of our resources, we thought everything was going on well, and that we should be able to carry out many useful works, but since then we have lost over 40 lakhs of accumulated balance, and besides that we lose 13 lakhs of normal and recurrent revenue by reason of the readjustment of the Provincial Contract. This is a question of fact, and not a matter of opinion; and having this loss of revenue, the only thing we can do is to make the best of it. If you look at the budget in a general way, you will find that the ordinary heads remain very much the same. There are salaries to be paid and services to be kept up, and at no time is there any great opportunity of effecting large improvements from year to year; but there are three heads under which people look for an extension of benefits, and those three heads are—Education, Irrigation and Public Works. It, however, so happens that these expansive heads of expenditure had to be reduced by reason of famine. The figures in the budget do not represent the proposals of the Government. We had to reduce 2 lakhs under the head of Education, 3 lakhs under Irrigation and 10 lakhs under Public Works. Notwithstanding this, on finding ourselves left with nothing but a choice of evils, we have managed, as the Hon'ble Mr. Finucane has told you, to provide for some extension of education. We have not done all we desired to do, but at any rate we have managed not to cut down the existing scale of expenditure unduly. Under Irrigation, the next important head, the improvement and repair of the great irrigation works have been kept up, and there is reason to hope that the tendency of the Department is to extend the distributaries over a far larger area than these works at present cover. During this year there will be completed an important work which was commenced last year. We shall spend upon it nearly four lakhs this year, and we hope to complete it. I allude to the canalisation of the Bhangore khal, a very important chain of communication between Calcutta, the eastern districts of Bengal and places on the Brahmaputra and Assam. Owing to some tidal complications, the channel is extremely liable to be silted up, and boats have to go round by the Sunderbuns. There will now be a regular canal with a lock at either end, and the boat traffic over it, when the work is completed, will be very greatly facilitated. I have shown in the Financial statement the chief items of expenditure on original civil works. Some of these have been already referred to and I shall mention others later on.

"I now turn to the remarks which have been made by Hon'ble Members, but their range is so wide that I shall not undertake to reply to all that has been said. First, my friend the Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee referred to the great strain the plague is putting upon municipal revenues. There is no doubt that is so, and that plague expenditure affects the municipal revenues here in Calcutta, as well as in Dacca. Calcutta needed a great deal of cleaning, and considerable progress has, I am assured, been made; but Dacca is in a most appalling condition of filth, and most likely if the plague came round in this direction, it would settle upon Dacca, and it is reasonable and right that that Municipality should be required to repair the effects of its own disgraceful administration. Dacca has to my knowledge neglected its sanitary requirements for the last five years, and it is only fair that they should be made to pay for that which they have neglected to do. If they are not able to find the money themselves, I shall certainly demur to the proposition that because they have not done what they ought to have done, the Government should now make them a grant. On the contrary, I think the want should be supplied by their being compelled to apply for an emergency loan under the provisions of the Act which has recently been passed. They should borrow in this way whatever may be necessary to make up for their past errors.

"Then with regard to the question of water-supply, the Hon'ble Member referred to the system of permissive taxation legalised under the provisions of the Drainage Bill. As to that, I wish to explain that it was not intended at any time to force any scheme of drainage upon the people. The Bill was meant to provide legal machinery by which people who are dying with fever and want to get their district drained, should apply to the Government for a scheme and offer to be assessed for a term of years to meet the cost of carrying out the scheme. Practically, the same principle applies to the question of water-supply. The financial condition of the District Boards is such that it is out of the question for them to afford any large expenditure upon any general scheme of water-supply; their wants can only be met through some form of local permissive taxation. There is such a scheme now before the Government, and it would have been further proceeded with but for the advent of the famine. I am certain that something of the kind will have to be adopted in the interests of Local Funds, and I gather from the Hon'ble Sir James Westland's speech the other day that this will be one of the conditions on which the Government of India will be prepared to carry out a larger measure of financial decentralisation and make the term of the settlement longer.

"Then my Hon'ble friend compared the contracts of 1877 and 1882, but there was a slight misunderstanding on his part. Take the question of Excise. In 1876-77 the proceeds from Excise were estimated at 63 lakhs. The Government of India said,—'You got 63 lakhs last year; we will make over the Excise

Revenue to you, and will put it at an increase of a lakh a year for the five years, so that you will get 68 lakhs in the last year of the contract.' Primâ facie that was not a good bargain for the Provincial Government. It happened, however, that it was a period of tremendous expansion in the Excise Revenue. The Provincial share of that revenue went up from 68 lakhs to 93 lakhs; and for that reason in 1882, when a different principle was adopted, the Government of India said,—'We will give you half of the increase in the Excise Revenue, and we will take the other half.' Therefore whereas in the settlement of 1877 the share of the Government of India being fixed and only liable to enhancement by one lakh a year, when that revenue increased by, say, six lakhs, the Provincial Government got five lakhs out of the six, and the Government of India took one; but, under the subsequent contract of 1882, the Government of India got three lakhs, and we got three. In order to understand which of these two systems is the more favourable to the Provincial Government, you will have to go into detailed calculations.

"The question of the Salaries Commission I shall touch upon later on when I come to refer to what the Hon'ble Member for Hooghly said. My Hon'ble friend Babu Surendranath Banerjee then referred to a point of considerable difficulty. He said a part of the proceeds of the Road Cess had for some years been devoted to the furtherance of education, and that the result of the circular which was issued in March last, to the effect that District Boards must spend upon roads and communications an amount at least equal to the proceeds of Road Cess, was that the cause of education suffered. The circular to which the Hon'ble Member referred was an executive order. Under the law the proceeds of the Road Cess may be spent on any purpose for which the District Board can spend their funds, but it was considered desirable as a matter of policy, not as a question of right or law, that they should spend upon roads and communications an amount equivalent to the proceeds of the Road Cess. No doubt education was likely to suffer by such an order, and also from the fact that the income from pounds and ferries had fallen off. The reason for the income from pounds falling off is this, that within the last five years there has been a disposition to look more closely into the system of farming pounds, and it has been felt that this system, which has been extremely lucrative, does not come within the four corners of the Cattle Trespass Act. This Government has always accepted the farming principle, because it is so successful; but when we began to tie up the farming of pounds by rules, and inspection became more careful, such high bids were not received as before.

"I now come to the remarks made by the Hon'ble Mr. Bose upon the charge made upon District Funds for the collection of the Public Works Cess. Two cesses are collected together by the same establishment, and the question arises, in what proportion are you going to allot the charges? This point was gone into carefully by the Board of Revenue in 1879, and what Mr. Dampier then said was that it is desirable to avoid even the appearance of treating Local Funds with any sort of harshness. I have no doubt that the proportion of one-third and two-thirds is a fair proportion, and nobody would come to any other conclusion. The Hon'ble Member is mistaken in saying that the one-third was incorrectly calculated. The amount which he mentioned is only the sum paid in Board districts, and does not include the sum paid in Cess Committee districts. The actual third comes to Rs. 46,800—Rs. 44,500 from the former districts and Rs. 2,300 from the latter. Here, as a matter of convenience, the sum was fixed at the amount that happened to stand in that year, simply as a matter of account, in order to avoid calculating every year what the one-third really is. When it was brought to notice that that sum worked out now to the disadvantage of District Boards, we recognised as reasonable the contention that it should stand at about Rs. 90,000, and we provided for this as part of the standard scale of expenditure for the Province. The provision has been disallowed, and we are now obliged to meet this demand from Provincial Revenues. I cannot give any undertaking as to the time when we shall be in a position to readjust the charge.

"The Hon'ble Mr. Wallis spoke about the General Hospital. I am sure he must know that I am as anxious as he can be to get the work carried out as soon as possible Last year we took up a piece of land on the side of the hospital which was required to complete the Committee's scheme. This year we have made provision for one lakh, and hope to be able to spend 1½ lakhs on the subsidiary buildings which are a part of the Committee's scheme. These will fit into the existing blocks and will tend to greater comfort and convenience in the hospital. Another Committee is now about to be appointed for the purpose of examining and reporting on the working arrangements of the hospital, the hours of attendance of doctors and nurses, the cooking arrangements, the supply of stores and the whole question of the administration of the hospital; and a set of rules will be drawn up dealing with these matters. I am glad to say that Mr. Arthur the President of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Ashton, the Honorary Secretary of the Canning Home, have kindly consented to serve on the Committee.

"I shall now proceed to consider the remarks made by the Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen, and in doing so I may mention that I found great difficulty in following what he said. Under the head of Stamp Revenue, the Hon'ble Member plunged into a scheme of fancy finance, and constructed an ideal budget on a basis which is entirely unintelligible. Under the head of Excise he repeated what he said last year, with only one addition. I am unable to conceive a less appropriate occasion than the present for criticising the Excise Revenue and complaining that we get more than we ought to get just at the very time when the Government of India have increased the proportion of Excise Revenue from one-fourth to one-half, in order to make some compensation to the Province for the loss of a great source of expansive revenue. I have no hesitation in saying that the Hon'ble Member's attitude as regards Stamps and Excise is something very much like disloyalty to the Province. He has taken up the rôle of a financial Jonah, and I can imagine other members feeling that it is high time for the whale to appear on the scene. I cannot repeat here all that I said last year on the subject of the Excise Revenue. There is one point only about the minimum and maximum price of certain drinks to which I shall refer. The Excise Commission had an idea that for outstill liquor you could fix a minimum price, and that it would do good in two ways: that it would counteract the competition for cheapening liquor, and would lead to the manufacture of more wholesome liquor: but I may add that subsequent experience showed that the Excise Commission were totally mistaken. For none of those consequences followed, and the result was that the proposal as to a minimum price was rightly abandoned. Now as to the question of a maximum price, I may explain that in the district of Gaya a condition is inserted in the licenses of distillery retail shops, that khasia or weak liquor, which has the largest sale in the district, should be sold at not more than 7 Gorokhpuri pice (1¼ annas) a bottle. The measure was reported by Mr. Macpherson, the late Collector, to have worked well on the ground that it reduced smuggling by equalizing the retail prices of distillery and outstill liquor, improved the distillery revenue, and placed distillery liquor within the reach of the majority of the drinking population. Mr. Savage, the present Collector, while of opinion that it was the introduction of new vendors and competition among them, rather than the system of maximum prices, that brought about a reduction of prices and increased sales, still suggests that the system should be retained to serve as a useful weapon in future cases of combination among vendors. Mr. Gupta, the Excise Commissioner, is also in favour of fixing a maximum, but the Board discourage it as an interference with free trade and in itself difficult to enforce. Finally it was decided that the whole question should be discussed at length by the Board of Revenue, whose report has not yet been received.

"Both the Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen and Babu Eshan Chundra Mittra remarked upon the question of process-fees. I believe there are no charges more readily paid than charges connected with litigation. Litigation in this country occupies quite an exceptional position. It takes the place of Monte Carlo, the Stock Exchange, and the race course all combined, and I would object to any attempt to surrender one pice of the proceeds of process-fees and court-fees.

"Under the head of Income-tax, no doubt, Sir Charles Elliott suggested that the minimum assessable income should be raised, but this was merely a pious opinion, and any proposal of that kind would require the consent of the Government of India. It raises a large question of Imperial Finance, which would be most carefully considered and most jealously guarded.

"The next point which was referred to is Irrigation. My Hon'ble friend Babu Guru Proshad Sen objects to the charge of Rs. 24,65,000 for interest on irrigation works. That is a charge on the Provincial Revenues, and it is quite legitimate that the interest upon the capital expended for the construction of canals for irrigation should be borne out of those revenues.

"Incidentally, in connection with a general dissertation on the condition of the people, my Hon'ble friend Babu Guru Proshad Sen wandered into a commentary on the condition of the Nunias and Jolahas. Considering that the name of the latter is a typical word for a fool, and that vernacular literature is full of stories to their disadvantage, I doubt whether they can ever have been as prosperous as my friend makes out. However that may be, Manchester cloth has no doubt affected the condition of the Jolaha as Liverpool salt has that of the Nunia. But if you compare the loss to these classes with the enormous gain to the general body of the population, no one will hesitate to say where the balance of advantage lies.

"There is a small point about the profits from printing. Both this Government and other Governments have introduced a number of forms which are a weariness to most people who come into contact with them. But they are a necessity, and you should print them as cheaply as possible. Some years ago a Committee was formed to enquire into this question, and we started an establishment for printing these forms at the Presidency Jail Press. That scheme saved a lakh of rupees in the first year, and has gone on flourishing ever since. I am certain no private press would do the work as cheaply, and I hold that it is quite legitimate that this work should be done in the jail.

"As to the supply of stationery, it is well known to everybody who looks at the reports of the Stationery Department that an enormous amount of country-made stationery is used. Within the last ten years, certainly the last five years, the effort has been everywhere to substitute country stationery for the stationery formerly procured from England, and at the present moment there is not an item of the most insignificant description which can possibly be obtained in this country that is imported from England.

"Lastly, as to the salaries of ministerial officers. I need hardly add anything to what I said on this subject last year. It is a class for whom it is impossible not to have a great deal of sympathy, and in considering our contract we included in our standard scale of expenditure a sufficient sum to enable the salaries of the ministerial officers to be raised to the extent I stated last year, but the Government of India were unable to admit the charge. The Hon'ble Eshan Chundra Mittra said a good deal about unpaid apprentices and told us a pathetic story about the loss of a document. Well, I believe that if you raise the pay of the amlah and increase their number, the custom of taking apprentices is so ingrained in this country that they will only have apprentices in larger numbers. I do not think you can get rid of unpaid apprentices, and it is not my experience of Bengal that the practice of stealing inconvenient documents is wholly confined to the poorer classes."

The Council adjourned sine die.

GIFT BY HIS HIGHNESS THE RAJA OF HILL TIPPERA OF A PHOTO-GRAVURE AND COLLOTYPE APPARATUS TO THE SCHOOL OF ART IN CALCUTTA.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—EDUCATION.

RESOLUTION—No. 89T.G.

READ—

The correspondence regarding the gift by His Highness the Raja of Hill Tippera of a Photogravure and Collotype apparatus to the School of Art in Calcutta.

His Highness the late Maharaja of Hill Tippera lately brought out a set of photogravure and collotype apparatus from England at a cost of Rs. 30,000, and his son, the present Raja, has offered to hand it over to Government with a view to securing some improvement in the technical education imparted in the School of Art.

2. His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor has had the advantage of the advice of Sir Alfred Croft and of two specialists—Mr. A. W. Turner, of the Survey of India, and Mr. E. B. Havell, Principal of the School of Art—as to the means of utilising the apparatus. There are now nearly 300 pupils in the School of Art, and many of these might learn the processes of photogravure, collotype and (photographic) mechanical printing, which are widely distinct, but can all be carried out with little addition to the apparatus now in hand. There are now in England above ten thousand pupils at the various poly-technic and art schools learning these processes, and they seem particularly adapted to the conditions of Indian youth and society. The pupils of the School of Art might, while learning these processes, produce under direction copies of master-pieces of Indian Art, which are greatly needed for Art instruction in the Calcutta School and in Indian Art Schools generally: such works are the Buddhist frescoes in the Ajanta Caves and the interior decorations of palaces, mosques and public buildings in Northern India. The pupils might also assist in illustrating various Government publications.

3. Government by employing this apparatus in the School of Art will supply a supplementary means of technical instruction and will afford to many young men the prospect of gaining a livelihood. The Lieutenant-Governor has much pleasure in accepting the Raja's gift, and tenders his cordial thanks to His Highness for his generosity. The Director of Public Instruction will be requested to submit definite proposals how best to utilise the apparatus now presented to the School of Art.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and that a copy of it be forwarded to the Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, for information. Also that the Political Department of this Government be requested to forward a copy of the Resolution to His Highness the Raja of Hill Tippera.

WATER-SUPPLY.

No. 2475L.S.-G.—The 3rd May 1897.—The following report of the progress made in the district of Cuttack in collecting and placing on record the chief facts regarding water-supply is published for general information.

H. H. RISLEY,
Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

No. 1108.-G., dated Cuttack, the 9th April 1897.

Memo. by—H. G. COOKE, Esq., Commissioner of the Orissa Division.

COPY with that of its enclosures forwarded to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, in the Municipal Department, for information, in continuation of this office memorandum No. 87S.-G., dated the 30th March 1897.

No. 508, dated Cuttack, the 2nd April 1897.

From—E. F. GROWSE, Esq., Magistrate of Cuttack,
To—The Commissioner of the Orissa Division.

WITH reference to your No. 3978.-G., dated 17th December last, forwarding copy of Government Circular No. 58L.S.-G., of the 12th idem, calling for a report on the progress made in collecting and placing on record the chief sources of water-supply in this district, I have the honour to state that the registers of water-supply in the forms prescribed in the Government Circular No. 7T.M., dated 15th May 1896, have been opened in all the Municipalities in this district. The Chairman of the District Board states that the lists of tanks and wells have been received through the agency of the Kanungoes and the registers prescribed in Circular No. 8T.M. of the 15th May last, are being prepared and will be complete this month.

2. As regards steps taken by the District Board and municipalities to improve the existing sources of water-supply and to open new ones, I beg to forward herewith extracts from the letters received from those bodies on the subject.

3. Babu Joggeswar Chandra Chunder, Zamindar and Vice-Chairman, District Board, has offered Rs. 1,000 for the excavation of a tank in his zamindari, and the Board, in their meeting of the 1st February last, accepted the offer with thanks.

Extract from the Chairman of the Cuttack Municipality's No. 160, dated 17th March 1897.

The water-supply is quite sufficient and more wells and tanks are excavated according as necessity arises. The chief supply of drinking water and for ordinary purposes is drawn from the rivers Kathjuri and Mahanadi, which flow on the south and north of this municipality. The water of the Peyton Sahee tank is also used by people for the aforesaid purposes, and the water of this tank, as well as that of the rivers mentioned above, stood first in the chemical analysis, as will appear from the Sanitary Commissioner's last Inspection Report of this municipality. The waters of other tanks and wells, excepting a very few, are wholesome, though they are not so pure as the above three waters. There was no check as to the use of the water of the tanks before, and stringent measures have been taken not to allow washing of clothes by washermen and other people. The water in the Mahanadi is too abundant to require any sanitary measures, and particular care is taken to preserve the purity of the water of the Kathjuri, which has become very scanty, though the river has not yet been included within the limits of this municipality. Special care is also taken against pollution of the water of the Peyton Sahee tank, though it is not a public tank but belongs to private persons. Most of the wells—147 in number—of this municipality have been disinfected with permanganate of potash, an abundant quantity of which has been kept by us for disinfection purposes from time to time. The municipality being too poor to entertain any scheme of filtered water-supply, or even a supply of the river water by means of pipes, as was lately proposed, every effort is made to preserve the purity of the existing sources of supply.

C. A. W. MEADOWS,
Chairman, Cuttack Municipality.

Extract from the Vice-Chairman of District Board's letter No. 402, dated 30th March 1897.

* * * * *

Estimates for 51 tanks amounting to Rs. 64,775 have been submitted by the District Engineer and works of four tanks have been undertaken.

The work of clearing one old tank at Jagannathpur of which the estimate had been previously passed, has been completed.

* * * * *

I may here mention that in regard to the Vice-Chairman's estimates for the 51 tanks referred to above, the District Board, by their Resolution of the 1st instant, passed them provisionally on condition that no work on any tank was to be started, except when the Chairman considered it necessary, of which the Board was to be informed. The list includes a large number of tanks which would only be dug if it was necessary to open relief works, whereas others are useful as ordinary works merely for the purposes of improving the water-supply.

J. C. CHUNDER,
Vice-Chairman, District Board, Cuttack.

Extract from the Chairman, Kendrapara Municipality's letter No. 4, dated 2nd January 1897.

THE water-supply of the town is fair and sufficient. The Gobri river and the Gobri canal are the principal sources of water-supply which run through the heart of the town. Besides there are a large number of public and private wells and tanks. All the information required in Government Circular No. 7T.M., dated 15th May last, has been collected, and printed forms for the preparation of the registers have been received. The subjoined statement is extract from the statistics.

Total number of villages.	Total number of houses.	Total population.	Tanks.				Wells.
			Government.	Municipal.	Private.	Total.	Government.	Municipal.	Private.	Total.

69	3,328	17,047	...	1	99	100	14	31	1,235	1,280

The tank water is not used for drinking purposes. Under section 200 of the Act, the following tanks were re-excavated in the course of the last two years :—

		Rs.	A.	P.
1.	Oriang tank belonging to Babu Nagendra Nath Roy Chowdhury, zamindar	1,400	0	0
2.	Birswati belonging to Babu Nagendra Nath Roy Chowdhury, zamindar	250	0	0
3.	Kaniya Jore belonging to Sheikh Wahed Ullah and others	469	14	6

A well with pucka platform and a drain was excavated by the Municipality near the public slaughter-house newly constructed.

All the Municipal Commissioners have in contemplation to excavate a tank and dig a few more wells this year.

TARA PRASANNA ACHERJEE,
Chairman.

Extract from the Chairman, Jajpur Municipality's No. 4, dated 9th January 1897.

Besides tanks and wells, the river Baitarani and its branch, Gargati, which flow past the town on the north side, and the Jajpur canal, with its distributary No. 1, supply water for all purposes to a large number of the residents.

2. The Municipal Commissioners have fourteen wells under their charge, and these wells will be cleared carefully in April or May next. Several of the tanks are reported to be in a bad state. Notices have been issued on the owners of two tanks to cleanse them under section 200, Municipal Act, and on the owner of another either to cleanse it or fill it up with suitable materials. On the failure of the owners, the Municipal Commissioners will take steps to have them cleansed or filled from their own funds. These undertakings will, however, be costly enough.

M. M. CHAKRAVERTY,
Chairman.

RESULT OF THE EXAMINATION FOR ADMISSION TO THE EXECUTIVE BRANCH OF THE PROVINCIAL CIVIL SERVICE AND THE SUBORDINATE CIVIL SERVICE.

No. 75A—D.

RESOLUTION.

APPOINTMENT.

Dated Darjeeling, the 3rd May 1897.

READ—

The Resolution of the 20th April 1896, reviewing the result of the examination held in March of that year, and appointing candidates to be probationers in the Executive Branch of the Provincial and Subordinate Civil Service.

The Notification of the 18th September 1896, publishing rules for the examination of 1897 for admission to the Executive Branch of the Provincial and Subordinate Civil Service.

The Reports of the Examiners at the examination held on the 29th, 30th, 31st March and 1st April 1897.

The seven Probationary Deputy Collectors and seventeen Probationary Sub-Deputy Collectors appointed on the result of the examination held in March 1896 have all been absorbed into officiating or substantive pro tempore appointments. The policy of promoting deserving Sub-Deputy Collectors to officiate as Deputy Collectors has been adhered to.

2. In September last it was notified in the same way as had been done in previous years that at an examination to be held in 1897 seven candidates would be selected for Probationary Deputy Collectorships on a subsistence allowance of Rs. 50 a month, and seven for Probationary Sub-Deputy Collectorships on a subsistence allowance of Rs. 30 a month respectively. It was announced that four Probationary Deputy Collectorships would be given to the first four candidates on the list in order of merit, that three would be selected by the Lieutenant-Governor from amongst those who had obtained a minimum of one-third of the total marks, and that from the remainder of those qualified by obtaining one-third of the total marks, the Lieutenant-Governor would select seven more candidates as probationers for Sub-Deputy Collectorships.

3. The examination was held on the 29th, 30th, 31st of March and 1st April 1897. No fewer than 164 applicants, or one less than the number of last year, obtained permission to compete, and of these 157 (all of whom except six were graduates) actually appeared and sent in papers. Of these 157, only 26 were Muhammadans, 7 Behari Hindus, and 3 Uriyas. In 1896 the corresponding figures were 29, 6, and 6. The total number of candidates who obtained one-third marks was 146 against 131 in 1896.

4. Last year seven Probationary Deputy Collectors and seventeen Probationary Sub-Deputy Collectors were appointed. The same number of the former is appointed this year; but in view of the great number of officers already in the Subordinate Civil Service and of the necessity of curtailing recruitment, in order to prevent a great block of promotion hereafter, only seven candidates are selected for appointment as Probationary Sub-Deputy Collectors, as advertised.

5. The following four gentlemen who stood first in order of merit are entitled to appointments as Probationary Deputy Collectors:—

	Number of marks.
Babu Anath Bandhu De, B.A.	587
„ Ashutosh Datta, B.A.	548
„ Jyotish Chandra Acharjya, B.L.	540
„ Surendra Nath Chakrabarti, M.A., B.A.	533

6. The following three candidates have been selected by the Lieutenant-Governor for appointment as Probationary Deputy Collectors after careful consideration of the number of marks obtained, the claims upon Government of members of the candidates' family, the interests of the different classes of the community, and the requirements of the public service:—

Mr. J. S. Mackay. | Piyara Meerza.
Maulvi Abdul Majid (II), M.A.

7. All these probationary officers will receive a subsistence allowance of Rs. 50 per mensem, and if the report from the districts in which they are stationed is favourable, they will, after such period of probation as may seem advisable, be appointed to be Officiating Deputy Magistrates and Deputy Collectors as vacancies occur. They will not ordinarily be vested with magisterial powers until they are so appointed. Separate orders will now be passed posting all the officers above named to districts.

8. The following are the seven candidates selected by the Lieutenant-Governor, from among those who have obtained one-third marks, to be Probationary Sub-Deputy Collectors:—

Babu Jogindra Nath Pal, B.A. | Babu Uma Charan Roy Chowdhry, B.A.
„ Mohit Chandra Ghose, B.A. | Maulvi Muhammad Abdul Momen, B.A.
„ Gour Syam Mahanti, B.A. | Babu Baijnath Sahai, B.A.
Babu Jyotish Chandra Chatterjee, B.A.

9. These probationary officers will receive a subsistence allowance of Rs. 30 per mensem at present, and will, if they are satisfactorily reported on, be gradually absorbed in the fourth grade of Sub-Deputy Collectors as vacancies occur. Separate orders will at once be passed posting them to districts.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the above Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

Imports.—The total imports of rice during the week ending 21st April 1897 amounted to 104,508 cwts., against 20,360 cwts. in the corresponding period in 1896. Of the former quantity, Burma contributed nearly the whole, viz. 103,891 cwts. There were no imports from Balasore, which supplied 20,360 cwts. in the week ending 21st April 1896. The entire supply of 23,627 cwts. of paddy received during the week ending 21st April 1897 was from Burma. Balasore, which sent 10,390 cwts. in the week ending 21st April 1896, contributed nothing during the week under report. Owing chiefly to there being no supplies of gram and pulse from Chandballi, which sent 1,478 cwts. in the week ending 21st April 1896, the trade under that head fell from 2,342 cwts. to 1,521 cwts.

Exports.—In the following statement the total quantity of each kind of food-grain exported by sea during the third week of April 1897 is compared with the figures for the corresponding period of 1896 :—

Foreign Ports.

The shipments of rice to foreign ports amounted to 104,319 cwts. in the week ending 21st April 1897, against 64,037 cwts. in the corresponding week in 1896. The chief fluctuations were an increase of 16,665 cwts. in the exports to Aden: Mauritius took 33,363 cwts. and States in Arabia other than Muscat 30,688 cwts., against nothing in the week ending 21st April 1896; the largest decreases were in the supplies sent to Ceylon (27,751 cwts.), United Kingdom (14,995 cwts.), and to Natal (8,885 cwts.). The falling off in the exports of wheat from 6,531 cwts. to only 252 cwts. was practically confined to the despatches to the United Kingdom, to which nothing was sent during the week ending 21st April 1897, against 6,275 cwts. in the week ending 21st April 1896. The trade in gram and pulse aggregated 2,669 cwts., against 4,735 cwts. in the week ending 21st April 1896, the decrease being chiefly due to diminished exports to the United Kingdom (807 cwts., against 2,021 cwts) and to Ceylon (nil against 1,588 cwts.), while Mauritius took 1,711 cwts., against nothing in the week ending 21st April 1896.

Indian Ports.

There was again no trade in rice with the coast ports. The exports fell from 29,605 cwts. in the week ending 21st April 1896 to only 681 cwts. in the week ending 21st April 1897, the decline being due to nothing having been sent to Bombay and the Madras ports during the period under report, against 18,022 cwts. and 10,317 cwts. respectively in the corresponding period in 1896. Owing chiefly to absence of exports to Bombay, which received 11,108 cwts. in the week ending 21st April 1896, the trade in gram and pulse fell from 16,533 cwts. to 3,914 cwts. The variations in the other heads are unimportant and call for no remarks.

Detailed statements showing the sources of supply and the places of destination, both as regards Foreign and Indian ports, are given below.

Imports. The rise of 20,564 cwts. in the import trade of Chittagong, which amounted to 21,433 cwts., was chiefly due to the receipts of rice and paddy from Burma and Nilla. Balasore also showed an improvement of 263 cwts. on account of larger supplies of wheat, gram and pulse and other food-grains from Calcutta.

Exports. The export trade of Chittagong and Narayanganj, which fell off by 2,927 cwts. and 51 cwts. respectively, was attributed to the cessation of exports to Indian ports. Owing to smaller despatches of rice, paddy and gram and pulse to Calcutta, Balasore also showed a decline of 55,463 cwts. There having been no shipments to the Indian ports, Cuttack too had a falling off of 3,185 cwts., although Foreign ports received 6,971 cwts. in excess of last year. Mainly in consequence of smaller consignments of rice to Columbo, the export trade of Puri also declined by 8,606 cwts.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed, open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

PRESENT:

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas by Order in Council made in pursuance of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, and dated the fourteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, Her Majesty, on the joint recommendation of the Admiralty and the Board of Trade, was pleased to direct that on and after the first day of September, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, the Regulations for preventing Collisions at Sea contained in an Order in Council dated the ninth day of January, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, and the additions by an Order in Council dated the thirteenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, made thereto, should be annulled, and that there should be substituted therefor the new Regulations contained in the first schedule to the said first-named Order in Council, and that the same should from and after the first day of September, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, apply to ships of the countries mentioned in the said second schedule thereto, whether within British jurisdiction or not.

And whereas by the Orders in Council dated respectively the twenty-fourth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, the twenty-sixth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one, the eighteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two, the twenty-third day of August, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three, and the second day of February, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, Her Majesty was pleased to direct that the operation of the Article numbered 10 of the New Regulations contained in the first schedule of the said Order in Council of the fourteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, should be suspended from time to time.

And whereas the Admiralty and the Board of Trade have jointly recommended to Her Majesty that, so far as regards British ships and Boats, the regulations hereinafter set forth shall be substituted for the regulations contained in the first schedule to the said Order in Council of the fourteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine.

Now, therefore, Her Majesty, by virtue of the powers vested in Her by the said recited Act, and by and with the advice of Her Privy Council is pleased to direct that, on and after the first day of September, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four the regulations contained in the schedule, hereto shall, so far as regards British ships and boats, be substituted for the regulations contained in the first schedule to the said Order in Council of the fourteenth day of August one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine.

SCHEDULE REFERRED TO IN THIS ORDER.

Regulations for preventing Collisions at Sea.

Article 1.—In the following rules every steam ship which is under sail and not under steam is to be considered a sailing ship; and every steam ship which is under steam, whether under sail or not, is to be considered a ship under steam.

Rules concerning Lights.

Article 2.—The lights mentioned in the following Articles numbered 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11, and no others, shall be carried in all weathers, from sunset to sunrise.

Article 3.—A seagoing steam ship when under way shall carry:—

(a) On or in front of the foremast, at a height above the hull of not less than 20 feet, and if the breadth of the ship exceeds 20 feet, then at a height above the hull not less than such breadth, a bright white light, so constructed as to show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 20 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light 10 points on each side of the ship, viz., from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on either side, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night, with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least five miles.

(b) On the starboard side a green light, so constructed as to show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the starboard side, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least two miles.

(c) On the port side a red light, so constructed as to show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the port side, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night, with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least two miles.

(d) The said green and red side lights shall be fitted with inboard screens projecting at least 3 feet forward from the light, so as to prevent these lights from being seen across the bow.

Article 4.—A steam ship, when towing another ship shall, in addition to her side lights, carry two bright white lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 3 feet apart, so as to distinguish her from other steam ships. Each of these lights shall be of the same construction and character, and shall be carried in the same position, as the white light which other steam ships are required to carry.

Article 5 (a).—A ship, whether a steam ship or a sailing ship, which from any accident is not under command, shall at night carry in the same position as the white light which steam ships are required to carry, and, if a steam ship, in place of that light, three red lights in globular lanterns, each not less than 10 inches in diameter, in a vertical line one over the other not less than three feet apart, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere at a distance of at least two miles; and shall by day carry in a vertical line one over the other, not less than three feet apart, in front of but not lower than her foremast head, three black balls or shapes, each two feet in diameter.

(b) A ship, whether a steam ship or sailing ship employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable, shall at night carry in the same position as the white light which steam ships are required to carry, and if a steam ship, in place of that light, three lights in globular lanterns each not less than 10 inches in diameter, in vertical line over one another, not less than 6 feet apart; the highest and lowest of these lights shall be red, and the middle light shall be white, and they shall be of such a character that the red lights shall be visible at the same distance as the white light. By day she shall carry in a vertical line one over the other not less than six feet apart, in front of but not lower than her foremast head, three shapes not less than two feet in diameter, of which the top and bottom shall be globular in shape and red in colour, and the middle one diamond in shape and white.

(c) The ships referred to in this Article, when not making any way through the water, shall not carry the side lights, but when making way shall carry them.

(d) The lights and shapes required to be shown by this Article are to be taken by other ships as signals that the ship showing them is not under command, and cannot therefore get out of the way. The signals to be made by ships in distress and requiring assistance are contained in Article 27.

Article 6.—A sailing ship under way or being towed shall carry the same lights as are provided by Article 3 for a steam ship under way, with the exception of the white light, which she shall never carry.

Article 7.—Whenever, as in the case of small vessels during bad weather, the green and red side lights cannot be fixed, these lights shall be kept on deck, on their respective sides of the vessel, ready for use; and shall, on the approach of or to other vessels, be exhibited on their respective sides in sufficient time to prevent collision, in such manner as to make them most visible, and so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

To make the use of these portable lights more certain and easy, the lanterns containing them shall each be painted outside with the colour of the light they respectively contain, and shall be provided with proper screens.

Article 8.—A ship, whether a steam ship or a sailing ship, when at anchor, shall carry, where it can best be seen, but at a height not exceeding 20 feet above the hull, a white light, in a globular lantern of not less than 8 inches in diameter, and so constructed as to show a clear uniform and unbroken light visible all round the horizon, at a distance of at least one mile.

Article 9.—A pilot vessel, when engaged on her station on pilotage duty, shall not carry the light required for other vessels, but shall carry a white light at the masthead, visible all round the horizon, and shall also exhibit a flare-up light or flare-up lights at short intervals, which shall never exceed fifteen minutes.

A pilot vessel, when not engaged on her station on pilotage duty, shall carry lights similar to those of other ships.

Article 10.—Open boats and fishing vessels of less than 20 tons net registered tonnage, when under way and when not having their nets, trawls, dredges, or lines in the water, shall not be obliged to carry the coloured side lights; but every such boat and vessel shall in lieu thereof have ready at hand a lantern with a green glass on the one side, and a red glass on the other side, and on approaching to or being approached by another vessel such lantern shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision, so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

The following portion of this Article applies only to fishing vessels and boats when in the sea off the coast of Europe lying north of Cape Finisterre:—

(a) All fishing vessels and fishing boats of 20 tons net registered tonnage, or upward, when under way and when not required by the following regulations in this Article to carry and show the lights therein named shall carry and show the same lights as other vessels under way.

(b) All vessels when engaged in fishing with drift nets shall exibit two white lights from any part of the vessel where they can be best seen. Such lights shall be placed so that the vertical distance between them shall be not less than 6 feet and not more than 10 feet; and so that the horizontal distance between them measured in a line with the keel of the vessel shall be not less than 5 feet and not more than 10 feet. The lower of these two lights shall be the more forward, and both of them shall be of such a character, and contained in lanterns of such construction as to show all round the horizon, on a dark night with a clear atmosphere, for a distance of not less than three miles.

(c) A vessel employed in line fishing with her lines out shall carry the same lights as a vessel when engaged in fishing with drift nets.

(d) If a vessel when fishing becomes stationary in consequence of her gear getting fast to a rock or other obstruction, she shall show the light and make the fog signal for a vessel at anchor.

(e) Fishing vessels and open boats may at any time use a flare-up in addition to the lights which they are by this Article required, to carry and show. All flare-up lights exhibited by a vessel when trawling dredging, or fishing with any kind of drag net shall be shown at the after part of the vessel, expecting that if the vessel is hanging by the stern to her trawl, dredge, or drag net, they shall be exhibited from the bow.

(f) Every fishing vessel and every open boat when at anchor between sunset and sunrise shall exhibit a white light visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least one mile.

(g) In fog, mist, or falling snow, a drift net vessel attached to her nets and a vessel when trawling, dredging or fishing with any kind of drag net, and a vessel employed in line fishing with her lines out, shall at intervals of not more than two minutes make a blast with her fog horn and ring her bell alternately.

Article 11. A ship which is being overtaken by another shall show from her stern to such last-mentioned ship a white light or a flare-up light.

Sound signals for fog, &c.

Article 12. A steam ship shall be provided with a steam whistle or other efficient steam sound signal, so placed that the sound may not be intercepted by any obstructions, and with an efficient fog horn to be sounded by a bellows or other mechanical means, and also with an efficient bell.* A sailing ship shall be provided with a similar fog horn and bell.

In fog, mist, or falling snow, whether by day or night, the signals described in this Article shall be used as follows; that is to say,—

(a) A steam ship under way shall make with her steam whistle, or other steam sound signal, at intervals of not more than two minutes, a prolonged blast.

(b) A sailing ship under way shall make with her fog horn, at intervals of not more than two minutes, when on the starboard tack one blast, when on the port tack two blasts in succession, and when with the wind abaft the beam three blasts in succession.

(c) A steam ship and a sailing ship, when not under way, shall at intervals of not more than two minutes ring the bell.

Speed of ships to be moderate in fog, &c.

Steering and Sailing Rules.

Article 14. When two sailing ships are approaching one another, so as to involve risk of collision, one of them shall keep out of the way of the other, as follows, viz.:—

(a) A ship which is running free shall keep out of the way of a ship which is close-hauled.

(b) A ship which is close-hauled on the port tack shall keep out of the way of a ship which is close-hauled on the starboard tack.

(c) When both are running free with the wind on different sides, the ship which has the wind on the port side shall keep out of the way of the other.

(d) When both are running free with the wind on the same side, the ship which is to windward shall keep out of the way of the ship which is to leeward.

(e) A ship which has the wind aft shall keep out of the way of the other ship.

Article 15. If two ships under steam are meeting end on, or nearly end on, so as to involve risk of collision, each shall alter her course to starboard, so that each may pass on the port side of the other.

This Article only applies to cases where ships are meeting end on, or nearly end on, in such a manner as to involve risk of collision, and does not apply to two ships which must, if both keep on their respective courses, pass clear of each other.

* In allcases where the Regulations require a bell to be used, a drum will be substituted on board Turkish vessels.

The only cases to which it does apply are, when each of the two ships is end on, or nearly end on, to the other; in other words, to cases in which, by day, each ship sees the masts of the other in a line, or nearly in a line with her own; and by night, to cases in which each ship is in such a position as to see both the side lights of the other.

It does not apply by day to cases in which a ship sees another ahead crossing her own course or by night to cases where the red light of one ship is opposed to the red light of the other or where the green light of one ship is opposed to the green light of the other, or where a red light without a green light, or a green light without a red light, is seen ahead, or where both green and red lights are seen anywhere but ahead.

Article 16. If two ships under steam are crossing so as to involve risk of collision, the ship which has the other on her own starboard side shall keep out of the way of the other.

Article 17. If two ships, one of which is a sailing ship and the other a steam ship, are proceeding in such directions as to involve risk of collision, the steam ship shall keep out of the way of the sailing ship.

Article 18. Every steam ship, when approaching another ship, so as to involve risk of collision, shall slacken her speed or stop and reverse, if necessary.

Article 19. In taking any course authorised or required by these regulations, a steam ship under way may indicate that course to any other ship which she has in sight by the following signals on her steam whistle, viz.—

One short blast to mean "I am directing my course to starboard."
Two short blasts to mean "I am directing my course to port."
Three short blasts to mean "I am going full speed astern."

The use of these signals is optional, but if they are used the course of the ship must be in accordance with the signal made.

Article 20. Notwithstanding anything contained in any preceding Article, every ship, whether a sailing ship or a steam ship, overtaking any other, shall keep out of the way of the overtaken ship.

Article 21. In narrow channels every steam ship shall, when it is safe and practicable, keep to that side of the fairway or mid-channel which lies on the starboard side of such ship.

Article 22.—Where by the above rules one of two ships is to keep out of the way, the other shall keep her course.

Article 23. In obeying and construing these rules due regard shall be had to all dangers of navigation, and to any special circumstances which may render a departure from the above rules necessary in order to avoid immediate danger.

No ship under any circumstances to neglect proper precautions.

Article 24. Nothing in these rules shall exonerate any ship, or the owner, or master, or crew thereof, from the consequences of any neglect to carry lights or signals, or of any neglect to keep a proper look out, or of the neglect of any precaution which may be required by the ordinary practice of seamen, or by the special circumstances of the case.

Reservation of Rules for Harbours and Inland Navigation.

Article 25. Nothing in these rules shall interfere with the operation of a special rule, duly made by local authority, relative to the navigation of any harbour, river, or inland navigation.

Special lights for Squadrons and Convoys.

Article 26. Nothing in these rules shall interfere with the operation of any special rules made by the Government of any nation with respect to additional station and signal lights for two or more ships of war or for ships sailing under convoy.

Article 27. When a ship is in distress and requires assistance from other ships or from the shore, the following shall be the signals to be used or displayed by her, either together or separately, that is to say:

In the day time—

1. A gun fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. The International Code signal of distress indicated by N C;
3. The distant signal, consisting of a square flag, having either above or below it a ball, or anything resembling a ball.

At night—

1. A gun fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. Flames on the ship (as from a burning tar barrel, oil barrel, &c.);
3. Rockets or shells, throwing stars of any colour or description, fired one at a time, at short intervals.

SCHEDULE I.

Preliminary.

These Rules shall be followed by all vessels upon the high seas and in all waters connected therewith, navigable by sea-going vessels.

In the following rules every steam vessel which is under sail and not under steam is to be considered a sailing vessel, and every vessel under steam, whether under sail or not, is to be considered a steam vessel.

The word "steam vessel" shall include any vessel propelled by machinery.

A vessel is "under way" within the meaning of these Rules, when she is not at anchor, or made fast to the shore or aground.

Rules concerning Lights, &c.

The word "visible" in these Rules, when applied to lights, shall mean visible on a dark night with clear atmosphere.

Article 1.—The Rules concerning lights shall be complied with in all weathers from sunset to sunrise and during such time no other lights which may be mistaken for the prescribed lights shall be exhibited.

Article 2.—A steam vessel when under way shall carry—

(a) On or in front of the foremast, or if a vessel without a foremast, then in the fore part of the vessel, at a height above the hull of not less than 20 feet, and if the breadth of the vessel exceeds 20 feet, then at a height above the hull not less than such breadth, so, however, that the light need not be carried at a greater height above the hull than 40 feet, a bright white light, so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 20 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light 10 points on each side of the vessel, viz., from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on either side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 5 miles.

(b) On the starboard side a green light so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the starboard side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(c) On the port side a red light so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on the port side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(d) The said green and red side-lights shall be fitted with inboard screens projecting at least 3 feet forward from the light, so as to prevent these lights from being seen across the bow.

(e) A steam vessel when under way may carry an additional white light similar in construction to the light mentioned in subdivision (a). These two lights shall be so placed in line with the keel that one shall be at least 15 feet higher than the other, and in such a position with reference to each other that the lower light shall be forward of the upper one. The vertical distance between these lights shall be less than the horizontal distance.

Article 3.—A steam vessel when towing another vessel shall, in addition to her side-lights, carry two bright white lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, and when towing more than one vessel shall carry an additional bright white light 6 feet above or below such lights, if the length of the tow, measuring from the stern of the towing vessel to the stern of the last vessel towed exceeds 600 feet. Each of these lights shall be of the same construction and character, and shall be carried in the same position as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), except the additional light, which may be carried at a height of not less than 14 feet above the hull.

Such steam vessel may carry a small white light abaft the funnel or aftermast for the vessel towed to steer by, but such light shall not be visible forward of the beam.

Article 4 (a).—A vessel which from any accident is not under command shall carry at the same height as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), where they can best be seen, and, if a steam vessel, in lieu of that light two red lights, in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, and of such a character as to be visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least 2 miles, and shall by day carry in a vertical line one over the other not less than 6 feet apart, where they can best be seen, two black balls or shapes each 2 feet in diameter.

(b) A vessel employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable shall carry in the same position as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), and if a steam vessel, in lieu of that light, three lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart. The highest and lowest of these lights shall be red, and the middle light shall be white, and they shall be of such a character as to be visible all round the horizon, at a distance of at least 2 miles. By day she shall carry in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, where they can best be seen, three shapes not less than 2 feet in diameter, of which the highest and lowest shall be globular in shape and red in colour, and the middle one diamond in shape and white.

(c) The vessels referred to in this Article, when not making way through the water, shall not carry the side lights, but when making way shall carry them.

(d) The lights and shapes required to be shown by this Article are to be taken by other vessels as signal that the vessel showing them is not under command and cannot therefore get out of the way.

These signals are not signals of vessels in distress and requiring assistance. Such signals are contained in Article 31.

Article 5.—A sailing vessel under way, and any vessel being towed, shall carry the same lights as are prescribed by Article 2 for a steam vessel under way, with the exception of the white lights mentioned therein which they shall never carry.

Article 6.—Whenever, as in the case of small vessels under way during bad weather, the green and red side-lights cannot be fixed, these lights shall be kept at hand lighted and ready for use; and shall, on the approach of or to other vessels, be exhibited on their respective sides in sufficient time to prevent collision, in such manner as to make them most visible, and so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side, nor, if practicable, more than 2 points abaft the beam on their respective sides.

To make the use of these portable lights more certain and easy, the lanterns containing them shall each be painted outside with the colour of the light they respectively contain, and shall be provided with proper screens.

Article 7.—Steam vessels of less than 40, and vessels under oars or sails of less than 20, tons gross tonnage, respectively, and rowing boats, when underway, shall not be obliged to carry the lights mentioned in Article 2 (a) (b) and (c), but if they do not carry them, they shall be provided with the following lights:—

1. Steam vessels of less than 40 tons shall carry:

(a) In the fore part of the vessel, or on or in front of the funnel where it can best be seen, and at a height above the gunwale of not less than 9 feet, a bright white light constructed and fixed as prescribed in Article 2 (a), and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(b) Green and red side-lights constructed and fixed as prescribed in Article 2 (b) and (c), and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 1 mile, or a combined lantern showing a green light and a red light from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on their respective sides. Such lantern shall be carried not less than 3 feet below the white light.

2. Small steamboats, such as are carried by sea-going vessels, may carry the white light at a less height than 9 feet above the gunwale, but it shall be carried above the combined lantern, mentioned in subdivision 1 (b).

3. Vessels under oars or sails, of less than 20 tons, shall have ready at hand a lantern with a green glass on one side and a red glass on the other, which, on the approach of or two other vessels, shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision, so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

4. Rowing boats, whether under oars, or sail, shall have ready at hand a lantern showing a white light, which shall be temporarily exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision.

The vessels referred to in this Article shall not be obliged to carry the lights prescribed by Article 4 (a) and Article 11, last paragraph.

Article 8.—Pilot vessels, when engaged on their station on pilotage duty shall not show the lights required for other vessels, but shall carry a white light at the masthead, visible all round the horizon, and shall also exhibit a flare-up light or flare-up lights at short intervals, which shall never exceed 15 minutes.

On the near approach of or to other vessels they shall have their side-lights lighted, ready for use, and shall flash or show them at short intervals, to indicate the direction in which they are heading, but the green light shall not be shown on the port side, nor the red light on the starboard side.

A pilot-vessel of such a class as to be obliged to go alongside of a vessel to put a pilot on board, may show the white light instead of carrying it at the masthead, and may, instead of the coloured lights above mentioned, have at hand ready for use a lantern with a green glass on the one side and a red glass on the other, to be used as prescribed above.

Pilot vessels, when not engaged on their station on pilotage duty, shall carry lights similar to those of other vessels of their tonnage.

*Article 9.

Article 10.—A vessel which is being overtaken by another shall show from her stern to such last-mentioned vessel a white light or a flare-up light.

The white light required to be shown by this Article may be fixed and carried in a lantern, but in such case the lantern shall be so constructed, fitted, and screened that it shall throw an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 12 points of the compass, viz., for 6 points from right aft on each side of the vessel, so as to be visible at a distance of at least 1 mile. Such light shall be carried as nearly as practicable on the same level as the side-lights.

Article 11.—A vessel under 150 feet in lenght, when at anchor, shall carry forward, where it can best be seen, but at a height not exceeding 20 feet above the hull, a white light in a lantern as constructed as to show a clear uniform and unbroken light visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least 1 mile.

A vessel of 150 feet or upwards in length, when at anchor, shall carry in the forward part of the vessel, at a height of not less than 20, and not exceeding 40 feet above the hull, one such light and at or near the stern of the vessel, and at such a height that it shall be not less than 15 feet lower than the forward light, another such light.

The length of a vessel shall be deemed to be the length appearing in her certificate of registry.

A vessel aground in or near a fairway shall carry the above light or lights and the two red lights prescribed by Article 4 (a).

Article 12.—Every vessel may, if necessary in order to attract attention, in addition to the lights which she is by these Rules required to carry, show a flare-up light or use any detonating signal that cannot be mistaken for a distress signal.

Article 13.—Nothing in these Rules shall interfere with the operation of any special rules made by the Government of any nation with respect to additional station and signal lights for two or more ships of war or for vessels sailing under convoy, or with the exhibition of recognition signals adopted by shipowners, which have been authorized by their respective Governments and duly registered and published.

* This Article will deal with regulations affecting fishing boats, and will be the subject of another Order, which will be submitted to Her Majesty for approval at a later date.

Article 14.—A steam vessel proceeding under sail only, but having her funnel up, shall carry in daytime, forward, where it can best be seen, one black ball or shape 2 feet in diameter.

Sound-Signals for Fog, etc.

Article 15.—All signals prescribed by this Article for vessels under way shall be given :

1. By "steam vessels" on the whistle or siren.
2. By "sailing vessels and vessels towed" on the fog-horn.

The words "prolonged blast" used in this Article, shall mean a blast of from 4 to 6 seconds' duration.

A steam vessel shall be provided with an efficient whistle or siren, sounded by steam or some substitute for steam, so placed that the sound may not be intercepted by any obstruction, and with an efficient fog-horn,to be sounded by mechanical means, and also with an efficient bell.* A sailing vessel of 20 tons gross tonnage or upwards shall be provided with a similar fog-horn and bell.

In fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain storms, whether by day or night, the signals described in this Article shall be used as follows, viz. :—

(a) A steam vessel having way upon her, shall sound, at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, a prolonged blast.

(b) A steam vessel under way, but stopped and having no way upon her, shall sound at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, 2 prolonged blasts, with an interval of about 1 second between them.

(c) A sailing vessel under way shall sound, at intervals of not more than 1 minute, when on the starboard tack one blast, when on the port tack two blasts in succession, and when with the wind abaft the beam three blasts in succession.

(d) A vessel, when at anchor, shall, at intervals of not more than 1 minute, ring the bell rapidly for about 5 seconds.

(e) A vessel, when towing a vessel employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable, and a vessel under way, which is unable to get out of the way of an approaching vessel through being not under command, or unable to manœuvre as required by these Rules, shall, instead of the signals prescribed in sub-divisions (a) and (c) of the Article, at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, sound three blasts in succession, viz., one prolonged blast followed by two short blasts. A vessel towed may give this signal and she shall not give any other.

Sailing-vessels and boats of less than 20 tons gross tonnage shall not be obliged to give the above-mentioned signals, but if they do not, they shall make some other efficient sound-signal at intervals of not more than 1 minute.

Speed of Ships to be Moderate in Fog, etc.

Article 16.—Every vessel shall, in a fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain-storms, go at a moderate speed having careful regard to the existing circumstances and conditions.

A steam vessel hearing, apparently forward of her beam, the fog-signal of a vessel the position of which is not ascertained, shall, so far as the circumstances of the case admit, stop her engines, and then navigate with caution until danger of collision is over.

Steering and Sailing Rules.

Preliminary—Risk of Collision.

Risk of collision can, when circumstances permit, be ascertained by carefully watching the compass bearing of an approaching vessel. If the bearing does not appreciably change, such risk should be deemed to exist.

Article 17.—When two sailing vessels are approching one another, so as to involve risk of collision, one of them shall keep out of the way of the other, as follows, viz :—

(a) A vessel which is running free shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is close-hauled.

(b) A vessel which is close hauled on the port tack shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is close-hauled on the starboard tack.

(c) When both are running free, with the wind on different sides, the vessel which has the wind on the port side shall keep out of the way of the other.

(d) When both are running free, with the wind on the same side, the vessel which is to windward shall keep out of the way of the vessel which is to leeward.

(e) A vessel which has the wind aft shall keep out of the way of the other vessel.

Article 18.—When two steam vessels are meeting end on, or nearly end on, so as to involve risk of collision, each shall alter her course to starboard, so that each may pass on the port side of the other.

This Article only applies to cases where vessels are meeting end on, or nearly end on, in such a manner as to involve risk of collision, and does not apply to two vessels which must, if both keep on their respective courses, pass clear of each other.

* In all cases where the Rules require a bell to be used, a drum may be substituted on board Turkish vessels, or a gong where such articles are used on board shall sea-going vessels.

The only cases to which it does apply are when each of the two vessels is end on, or nearly end on, to the other; in other words to cases in which, by day, each vessel sees the masts of the other in a line, or nearly in a line, with her own; and, by night, to cases in which each vessel is in such a position as to see both the side-lights of the other.

It does not apply, by day, to cases in which a vessel sees another ahead crossing her own course; or by night to cases where the red light of one vessel is opposed to the red light of the other, or where the green light of one vessel is opposed to the green light of the other, or where a red light without a green light, or a green light without a red light, is seen ahead, or where both green and red lights are seen any where but ahead.

Article 19.—When two steam vessels are crossing, so as to involve risk of collision, the vessel which has the other on her own starboard side shall keep out of the way of the other.

Article 20.—When a steam vessel and a sailing vessel are proceeding in such directions as to involve risk of collision, the steam vessel shall keep out of the way of the sailing vessel.

Article 21.—Where by any of the Rules one of two vessels is to keep out of the way, the other shall keep her course and speed.

Note.—When, in consequence of thick weather or other causes, such vessel finds herself so close that collision cannot be avoided by the action of the giving-way vessel alone, she also shall take such action as will best aid to avert collision. (See articles 27 and 29.)

Article 22.—Every vessel which is directed by these Rules to keep out of the way of another vessel shall, if the circumstances of the case admit, avoid crossing ahead of the other.

Article 23.—Every steam vessel, which is directed by these Rules to keep out of the way of another vessel shall on approaching her, if necessary, slacken her speed or stop or reverse.

Article 24.—Notwithstanding anything contained in these Rules, every vessel, overtaking any other, shall keep out of the way of the overtaken vessel.

Every vessel coming up with another vessel from any direction more than two points abaft, her beam, i.e., in such a position, with reference to the vessel which she is overtaking, that at night she would be unable to see either of that vessel's side-lights, shall be deemed to be an overtaking vessel; and no subsequent alteration of the bearing between the two vessels shall make the overtaking vessel a crossing vessel within the meaning of these Rules, or relieve her of the duty of keeping clear of the overtaken vessel until she is finally past and clear.

As by day the overtaking vessel cannot always know with certainty whether she is forwarded of or abaft this direction from the other vessel, she should, if in doubt, assume that she is an overtaking vessel and keep out of the way.

Article 25.—In narrow channels every steam vessel shall, when it is safe and practicable, keep to that side of fair-way or mid channel which lies on the starboard side of such vessel.

Article 26.—Sailing vessels under way shall keep out of the way of sailing vessels or boats fishing with nets or lines, or trawls. This Rule shall not give to any vessel or boat engaged in fishing the right of obstructing a fairway used by vessels other than fishing-vessels or boats.

Article 27.—In obeying and construing these Rules, due regard shall be had to all dangers of navigation and collision, and to any special circumstances which may render a departure from the above rules necessary in order to avoid immediate danger,

Sound Signals for Vessels in Sight of one another.

Article 28.—The words "short blast" used in this Article shall mean a blast of about one seconds duration

When vessels are in sight of one another, a steam vessel under way, in taking any course authorized or required by these Rules, shall indicate that course by the following signals on her whistle or siren, viz.:—

One short blast to mean, "I am directing my course to starboard."
Two short blasts to mean, "I am directing my course to port."
Three short blasts to mean, "My engines are going full speed astern."

No Vessel under any Circumstances to neglect proper Precautions.

Article 29.—Nothing in these Rules shall exonerate any vessel, or the owner, or master, or crew, thereof, from the consequences of any neglect to carry lights or signals, or of any neglect to keep a proper look-out, or of the neglect of any precaution which may be required by the ordinary practice of seamen, or by the special circumstances of the case.

Reservation of Rules for Harbours and Inland Navigation.

Article 30.—Nothing in these Rules shall interfere with the operation of a special rule, duly made by local authority, relative to the navigation of any harbour, river, or inland waters.

SCHEDULE II.

Distress Signals.

Article 31.—When a vessel is in distress and requires assistance from other vessels or from the shore, the following shall be the signals to be used or displayed by her, either together or separately, viz.:—

In the day time—

1. A gun or other explosive signal fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. The International Code signal of distress indicated by N C;
3. The distance signal, consisting of a square flag, having either above or below it a ball or anything resembling a ball;
4. A continuous sounding with any fog-signal apparatus.

A night—

1. A gun or other explosive signal fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. Flames on the vessel (as from a burning tar-barrel, oil-barrel, etc.);
3. Rockets or shells, throwing stars of any colour or description, fired one at a time, at short intervals;
4. A continuous sounding with any fog-signal apparatus.

SENATE HOUSE;

NOTIFICATION.

Calcutta, the 11th May 1897.

It is expected that orders will shortly be issued by Government regarding those officers who have been placed in the new list of the Subordinate Educational Service on pay lower than what they were or might have been entitled to under the former system. Pending the issue of these orders, this office is not in a position to answer the representations which are constantly being made on this score, beyond to say that it is a main principle of the reorganization scheme that no officer is to suffer by it.

C. A. MARTIN,
Director of Public Instruction, Bengal.

EDUCATIONAL PROSPECTUS.

THE Calcutta Medical College Session, 1897-98, will commence on the 14th June next. Students who may be desirous of commencing their studies are requested to apply to the Principal between the hours of 11 A.M. and 4 P M. on or before 1st June.

Those students who may be selected are expected to enter formally and commence attendance at the College upon the 14th.

2. No person shall be enrolled as a matriculated student who has not previously passed the First Arts examination of the Calcutta or an Indian University, or a preliminary Arts examination of the United Kingdom recognised by the British General Medical Council.

3. All matriculated students of the College shall pay Rs 15 on entrance, Rs. 35 on the 1st June, and Rs. 35 on 1st November of each year. Rupees 6 extra will be required from each student for each course of dissections. Fees once paid cannot be refunded.

Muhammadan students are required to pay Rs. 15 on entrance and half fee, i.e. Rs. 17-8, per session. The remaining half fees are charged to the Mohsin Fund.

4. No free presentations will be awarded at the beginning of the session, but the fees shall be refunded to the 10 students who passed highest in all subjects at the end of their first year of study.

5. Any matriculated student of the College may, with the permission of the Principal and the Professor of the subject, attend courses of lectures or departments of hospital practice in addition to the full curriculum for the year, and shall be entitled to certificates of attendance at such extra lectures, if the Professor is satisfied that he or she has really studied the subject. The fees payable in advance for such additional courses are the following:—

	Rs.
For a single course of lectures on each subject in one year ...	40
For six months' attendance in each department of hospital practice ...	60

6. Any matriculated student who leaves the College before completing his University course, with the object of continuing his studies at a medical school in Europe, may receive certificates of attendance of lectures on payment of fees at the rate fixed in the foregoing rule. But in calculating the sum to be so paid, the amount of the fees already paid by him as a regular student, or, in the case of a free student, the amount which would have been paid by him had he been a paying student, shall be deducted.

7. Any person not being a matriculated student of the College who wishes to attend any course of lectures, or any department of hospital practice, may do so with the permission of the Principal and Professor of the subject on payment, in advance, of fees at the rates fixed in paragraph 5. If he has passed the Entrance examination of the University, he shall receive certificates of attendance at lectures. If he has not passed the Entrance examination, he shall receive no class certificates.

8 At the end of their first year, students will be required to pass a College test examination in Anatomy, Chemistry, and Botany. Those who gain not less than 20 per cent. in two subjects, and not less than 15 per cent. in a third, will be eligible for promotion to the second-year class. Those who fail to gain the aforesaid percentage of marks will not be eligible for promotion, but will go through the first-year class again

9 Students of the second year will be required to pass a College test examination in Anatomy, Physiology, and Materia Medica. Those who pass the examination with 20 per cent. in two subjects and 15 per cent. in a third will be entitled to go up in the following March or April for the Preliminary Scientific Examination of the Calcutta University, the subjects of which are Chemistry and Botany. Those who (after passing the College test) fail at the University examination will be entitled, equally with those who pass it, to join the third-year class, at the end of which the former will have to present themselves, as at present, for the combined Preliminary Scientific and 1st L M S (or 1st M.B) examination.

10. Those students who fail at the College test examination of the second year will not be debarred from going up for the Preliminary Scientific examination, but will be encouraged to do so in order to get that stage over; but whether they pass or fail at the University examination, they will be relegated for a further year to the second-year class, provided that those who pass the University examination will not be required to attend the courses in those subjects in which they have passed.

11. Students of the third year will present themselves for the 1st L.M.S. or 1st M.B. examination of the Calcutta University. Those who fail at this examination will be relegated for a further year to the third-year class.

12. Students of the first or second-year class who fail a second time, at the same stage, to gain promotion to the next higher class, will be removed from the College and will not be entitled to re-admission. Third-year students who fail a second time will be liable to removal from the College; but if they are specially recommended by the Principal, they may again be relegated to the third-year class, on payment of the fees laid down in Rule 16, and re-admitted to the 1st L M.S. or 1st M B. examination, and this concession may be allowed for any number of years at the discretion of the Principal.

13. Students of the fourth-year class will be required to pass a College test examination in Surgery, Medicine, Midwifery, and Medical Jurisprudence. Those who pass the examination with 20 per cent. of the marks in three subjects, and 15 per cent. in a fourth, will be eligible for promotion to the fifth year class Those who fail will be relegated to the fourth-year class for a further year. The examination in Surgery and Medicine will be both theoretical and clinical; but those students who can obtain from the Visiting Surgeon or Physician, to whose wards they have been attached, a certificate that they have really profited by their instruction in either subject, will be excused the clinical examination in that subject.

14. Students who fail at the 2nd L.M.S or 2nd M.B. examination will have to attend a further course of lectures in the subject or subjects in which they have failed, in accordance with the regulations of the University.

15. The Principal will determine the maximum number that may be admitted to the first-year class. Students who have failed at the test examination of the first-year will have a prior claim to re-admission over new students.

16. Students re-admitted to a class after failure at the test examination will be required to pay half the regular fee for the session (Rs. 35), but extra fees as for dissection (Rs. 6) in full. The half fee must be paid at the commencement of the session in June. Those, however, who, after failing either at the Preliminary Scientific Examination or at the final examination, have to attend a further course of lectures in the subject or subjects in which they failed, shall be required to pay for such lectures a fee of Rs. 20 for one subject, Rs. 30 for two, and Rs. 35 for three. Sections 279—286, 295 and 297 of the Bengal Municipal Act, III of 1884, as amended by Acts IV of 1894 and II of 1896, as adapted to the Cantonment of Dum-Dum.

279. (1) It shall be lawful for the Cantonment Committee at a meeting to impose a water-rate not exceeding seven and-a-half per centum on the annual value of holdings when the houses and lands are situated in any road supplied with water, and not exceeding six per centum when the houses and lands are situated in any road not so supplied.

(1*a*) With the sanction of the Local Government, the amount of the water-rate imposed under this section may vary with the distance of houses or lands from the nearest stand-pipe or other source of water-supply, and the amount may be higher in the case of premises to which communication pipes are attached than in the case of other premises.

(2) In fixing the amount of the rate, regard shall be had to the principle that the total net proceeds of the tax, together with the estimated income from payments for water supplied from the works under special contract or otherwise, shall not exceed the amount required for carrying out the purposes of these provisions.

(3) The water-rate shall be paid by the occupiers of the holdings by quarterly instalments in advance.

Provided that such water-rate shall not be levied upon—

(a) any house or land, no part of which is within a radius of 1,000 feet from the nearest stand-pipe or other supply of water available to the public; or

Provided also that nothing in this section shall prevent the Cantonment Committee from making any special arrangement consistent with this Act with persons residing beyond the radius fixed in clause (a) above.

280. The annual value of holdings shall be the value determined by the Cantonment Committee for the imposition of the rate on holdings which is now levied in the Cantonment.

282. Whenever any house or land has been unoccupied during an entire quarter, the owner of the said house or land shall pay to the Cantonment Committee one-fourth of the sum which would have been payable as water-rate by the occupier if such house or land had been occupied.

The sum payable by the owner under this section shall be deemed to be due on the first day of the quarter following that in respect of which the said sum is payable.

283. Whenever any quarterly instalment of the water-rate shall have been paid in respect of any house or land and such house or land shall, during the quarter for which such instalment shall have been paid, cease to be occupied, the person who shall have paid such water-rate shall be entitled to be repaid by the Cantonment Committee three-fourths of such sum as shall bear to the amount paid by him the same proportion which the residue of the quarter bears to the entire quarter:

Provided that notice shall have been given in writing to the Cantonment Committee of such house or land being unoccupied, and that the application for refund be made within six months next after the date on which the house or land ceased to be occupied.

The date on which the said notice is delivered at the office of the Cantonment Committee shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to be the date on which the house or land ceased to be occupied.

284. Whenever any house or land which shall have been unoccupied shall begin to be occupied during any quarter, there shall be forthwith payable by the occupier in respect of such house or land a sum calculated at one-fourth of the rate that would have been payable if the house or land had been occupied during the entire quarter for the period during which the house or land was not occupied, and the full rate for the residue of the quarter.

And such occupier shall be entitled to deduct from the rent, or otherwise recover from the owner, one-fourth of the water-rate that would have been payable if the house or land had been occupied during the entire quarter.

295. The Cantonment Committee at a meeting may determine what quantity of water shall be supplied to the occupier of every house free of further charge, for every rupee paid to the Committee as water rate on account of such house.

297. NOTICE TO MARINERS—No. 93.

[First Publication.]

BAY OF BENGAL,—Burma coast.

Non-existence of shoal south-west of Krishna shoal light-vessel.

With reference to Notice to Mariners No. 293, dated 19th December 1893, issued by this office, on a report by the Master of the steam-vessel Vita that he obtained a sounding of 11 feet at low water springs, in a position with Krishna shoal light-vessel bearing N.E. ½ N., distant 6 miles; or approximately in lat. 15° 31½′ N., long. 95° 30½′ E., the British Admiralty has given notice (No. 191 of 1896) that a close examination of the locality, extending upwards of 4 miles in every direction from the above position, has recently been made by Commander C. F. Oldham, R.N., in charge of Marine Survey of India, with the result that a very even bottom was found, gradually deepening seaward, and no indication whatever of a shoal.

The shoal reported by the Vita has consequently been expunged from the Admiralty charts.

The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 176 of 1897) that the undermentioned two pairs of beacons have been erected on either side of the entrance to Birikau river to facilitate the navigation over the bar:—

Each beacon consists of an iron framework, 8 or 9 feet high, surmounted by a white triangle.

Approximate position, lat. 1° 13′ 20″ S., long. 41° 51′ 10″ E.
The rear beacon bears N. 27° W., distant 110 yards from the front beacon.

2. Birikau beacons.—The front beacon is situated with Birikau flagstaff bearing S. 20° W., distant about half a cable; and Yunda point S. 55° E.

CAUTION.—It is not known whether proper supervision over these beacons can be carried out.

Amended positions of islet and rocks eastward of Awang bay.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 183 of 1897) that the islet and rocks above water, shown on the charts eastward of Awang bay, south coast of Lombok, are situated more to the eastward; and they have been placed in the undermentioned positions on the Admiralty chart:—

1. A rock above water in lat. 8° 55′ 30″ S., long. 116° 29′ 30″ E.
2. A cluster of an islet and three rocks above water, included between lats. 8° 55′ 10″ S. and 8° 55′ 50″ S., and longs. 116° 30′ 15″ E. and 116° 30′ 45″ E.

As there is some doubt as to whether any rocks exist immediately eastward of Awang bay, the letters E.D. have been written against those shown on the charts in that position.

Bribie island beacon discontinued and amendment to Chart No 1670a.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 186 of 1897) that the beacon, formerly standing on the east coast of Bribie island, about 4¾ miles southward of Caloundra head, has been taken down; and the leading line "Beacon on with slope of Glasshouse mount," &c., has consequently been expunged from the charts.

Approximate position, lat. 26° 53′ 15″ S., long. 153° 9′ 10″ E.

Additional lights, Little Woody island.

THE Port Master, Brisbane, has given notice (No. 4 of 1897) that two pairs of white leading lights will be exhibited from Little Woody Island on and after the 31st March. The pair of lights showing to the northward are 450 feet apart, bearing when in line S. 43° E., and lead about two cables clear of the Long Middle Bank buoy. The second pair showing to the southward are 350 feet apart, they bear when in line N. 3° E., and lead about midway between the red beacon and black buoy shown on chart, intersecting the line of leading lights shown from White Cliffs nearly midway between the White Cliffs and the red buoy.

Directions.—Vessels leaving the Mary River or bound North through Sandy Strait will run down the White Cliffs lead as hitherto until the white leading lights on Little Woody Island bearing N. 3° E. come in line. Keep the latter in line until about half-a-mile distant from the island when haul up N. W. by N. ½ N. passing it at a distance of three cables, and continue until the white leading lights on the north end of the island are in line astern bearing S. 43° E. Keep the last-named pair in line until the Woody Island lights change from red to white, when proceed as before.

Shoal in North Channel.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 167 of 1897) that information has been received that, on 2nd February 1897, the British steam-vessel Choang Chew grounded in a position with Horsburgh lighthouse bearing S. 41° E., distant 5½ miles; and Large island, Lima islands, S. 55° W.

Approximate position, lat. 1° 24′ 15″ N., long. 104° 21′ 0″ E.

A depth of 3 fathoms has been placed in the above position on the Admiralty Charts, and a note written against the words North channel, "Should not be used for sea navigation."

NOTE.—Mariners are warned that the North channel should not be used for navigation, as no advantage is gained by passing through it, and it is possible that more shoals exist there than are shown on the Chart, as already stated in China Sea Directory, vol. I, 1896, page 238.

(12) Government of India, Revenue and Agricultural Department's Circular No. $\frac{20}{61-4}$ F., dated 19th April 1897, forwarding a copy of a Resolution of the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. $\frac{753}{8-73}$, dated the 16th March 1897.

In the enclosures to the Government of India's Circular No. $\frac{16}{101-1}$, dated the 13th February 1897, the leading principles that regulate expenditure on public works in time of famine were succinctly described. It was explained that where acute distress or famine prevails, so that the general population is affected and it is necessary to provide employment not only for the able-bodied labourers, but also for a large proportion of inefficient labour, task-work must be rigorously enforced, nobody being allowed either to do more than the fixed task, or to earn more than the fixed maximum wage; but that when distress, though present, is not so acute as to drive on to the works a large proportion of inefficient labour or of persons unaccustomed to work, payment by results is more economical than task-work; for so long as an able-bodied labourer can earn enough to enable those of his family, who do not work, to live at home, he will support himself and them more cheaply than Government can do. Payment by results, it was pointed out by the Government of India, might either take the form of an expansion of ordinary works under the usual system of petty contracts, or of the intermediate or gang piece-work system of the North-Western Provinces The former was deemed to be sufficient when distress is slight, but as scarcity becomes more acute and threatens to deepen into famine, the latter should, it was said, be substituted, since it secures proper remuneration to the individual workman, which, under the urgency of distress, the latter fails to do.

2. The rates offered for the system of piece-work were to be so regulated as not to attract labour for which there is existing employment elsewhere. It was left to Local Governments to judge of the local conditions and to justify to themselves or to the Government of India, as the case may be, the action to be taken under the principles laid down. The Government of India's circular orders, with enclosures, were forwarded to all Commissioners for report on the question how far either of the systems described above was applicable to tracts affected by, or threatened with, scarcity in their respective divisions. At a Conference held at Darbhanga on 4th March 1897, it was pointed out by the Lieutenant-Governor that the intermediate piece-work system of the North-Western Provinces, as then in force, was a system of petty contracts, pure and simple, and it was indicated that if the piece-work system was to be introduced in any tract, His Honour would prefer payments to be made, according to results, by the paid agents of Government, or by gang mates without the intervention of contractors. It was also remarked by His Honour that the task-work and piece-work systems could not be advantageously worked side by side in the same neighbourhood, since all the able-bodied members of families would resort to works conducted on the piece-work system, and earn on them more than enough for their own subsistence, while the weaker members of families would go on to works conducted on the task-work system, and earn enough to keep themselves in health and strength. The piece-work system then suggested has since been modified by the North-Western Provinces Resolution No. $\frac{753}{8\ 73}$, dated 16th March 1897. Under the modified system no contractor or middleman is employed, the work is laid out, supervised and measured, and payments are made by Government officials. No dependents are recognised, and payments are made in accordance with the amount of work actually done.

3. The reports of the Commissioners on the system described in the first circular of the Government of India, quoted in the preamble, which have now been received, are summarised below, and the Lieutenant-Governor's observations and orders are recorded upon them.

4. PATNA DIVISION.—The Commissioner reports that the Samastipur subdivision of the Darbhanga district is not so severely affected by distress as the other parts of that district, and recommends that the test of modified piece-work be tried in that subdivision. The Collector suggests giving out piece-work contracts to small gangs of from 20 to 50 persons at the rate of Re. 1-8 per 1,000 cubic feet of ordinary soil with 50 feet lead or 3 feet lift, an addition of 3 annas per 1,000 cubic feet being giving for each additional 50 feet of lead or 3 feet of lift. The Commissioner proposes to try piece-work in this subdivision at 33 per cent above the ordinary contract rates for earthwork.

At a meeting held in Calcutta on the 10th April, at which Messrs. Bourdillon, Glass, Finucane and Vincent were present, the question was considered of introducing the piece-work system on the following major works in the Patna Division :—

The Tribeni and Bhagmati	Canals.
Sakri-Jaynagar	Railway lines.
Bettiah-Bagaha
Raksaul-Ramnagar

The conclusion come to was that the system should be at once introduced on these works, that a zone of five miles should be left clear of all other relief works on either side of the lines of rail or canal, and that the initial rate to be offered should not be more than 40 per cent. in excess of the rates ordinarily current for work of this kind in the locality. Save to the extent indicated above, the Commissioner does not think it advisable to introduce the piece-work system in the Patna Division, where distress has deepened into famine.

5. BHAGALPUR DIVISION.—The Collector of Bhagalpur (Mr. McIntosh) reports that there is considerable demand for employment in certain tracts of North Bhagalpur, but so far little acute distress. The existing circumstances are such that by giving advances under the Agriculturists' Loans and Land Improvement Loans Acts to high-caste agriculturists, by affording employment to the labouring classes where needed, and by distributing a little gratuitous relief to the helpless and indigent, acute distress may, he thinks, be escaped. He writes—

"The stringent and at the same time rather complicated provisions of the Bengal Famine Code, although no doubt well adapted to areas where actual famine exists, seem unsuited to the requirements of North Bhagalpur, where only scarcity in a modified form has appeared. In order to apply the provisions of the Code effectually, a very large petty establishment has to be kept on the works, and this in itself is an item of considerable expense. The Code system also, I think, attracts a number of persons to the relief works who on the piece-work system would not come, and the wage earned by the family is much greater than what would otherwise be earned If the head of the family were able to earn a good wage by ordinary piece-work labour, he would not require to bring his wife and children on to relief works. In North Bhagalpur there is at present a tendency to work up to the minimum or even the penal rate only—a sure sign, I think, that distress is not acute. This evil, and the well-known evil of appearing on Saturday to earn the Sunday wage, would be entirely obviated by the piece-work system."

"I would strongly recommend that the change to the piece-work system be introduced on the Bhagalpur relief works, both roads and tanks, while gratuitous relief for special and comparatively few cases is separately administered. I would give piece-work to gangs numbering from 25 upwards to 50, who select their own headman, fixing the rate per 1,000 cubic feet of earthwork on the basis of Mr. Glass's tables 1A, 2A, 3A, as applied to a class B male worker according to lead and lift, and on the allowance of 16 chitaks (say) of the standard grain. I would not employ as headmen the ordinary class of every-day piece-workers, who usually do the Board's work, and would do away with all muster-rolls, but simply have a daily count of the men, women, and children on each work for the information of the authorities and of Government. The labourers would be told what is the rate per 1,000 cubic feet that they are to get, and the headman would receive, besides, from the officer in charge, a commission of 5 per cent. on the earnings of his gang. Payment to be made once or twice a week to headman, and on the spot after measurement. No Sunday labour and no Sunday wage. The Famine Code Form No. 18, with the then useless columns left vacant, would thus be all the field accounts, besides an ordinary measurement-book, vouchers, cash-book and daily report post-card of mere numbers."

Gratuitous relief for those who, according to the Famine Code, are fit recipients of such relief. H. J. M.

I would pay three times a week. H. J. M.

Mr. Carstairs, Deputy Commissioner of the Sonthal Parganas, is also of opinion that the modified piece-work system is suited to his district.

The Commissioner (Mr. Oldham) agrees with these views.

6. CHOTA NAGPUR DIVISION.—Mr. Forbes, Commissioner of the Chota Nagpur Division, writes—

"The population, generally, of Chota Nagpur have means at their disposal, both direct (use of forest edible products and indirect (e.g., from the trade in lac and tusser, &c.), for supplementing their food-supply, which are not to be found in distressed areas (such as North Bihar), where the country is densely populated and every available acre of ground is under cultivation; and I have often felt of late that the provisions of the Famine Code require modification in the direction now proposed to meet the more favourable circumstances in which the people of these districts are placed in the above respects.

"The difficulty I have felt is that throughout the Famine Code the principle insisted upon is task-work (with a number of unnecessarily troublesome qualifications), even in respect to test-works; instead of being, as I think it should be, in all but the most extreme cases, a system of piece-work, pure and simple."

"Officers are enjoined on the one hand to exact the full task, while on the other hand they are told that they are not to allow any worker to leave without giving him a certain fixed wage. It is not a matter for surprise that under such mixed orders results vary with the idiosyncrasies of the officers in charge."

* * * * * *

"The idea apparently was that the wage under the Famine Code is pitched so low as to be unattractive to any but people really in want of food. The fact, however, is that the wage, being based upon the market rate of food, is, in affected tracts, very often, if not usually, higher than the ordinary market rate for labour. Test-works opened on such principles of course offer an incentive to every man, woman and child in the land to flock to work, whether in need or not, and there is no feeling of the pulse at all. The result must necessarily be entirely misleading, to say nothing of the almost certain overcrowding and consequent confusion on the works at the outset."

* * * * * *

"The misleading and mischievous prominence given in the rules to the amount of daily wage of each separate man, woman and child should give place to considerations of the rates to be given, under varying circumstances, for piece-work. I think that every one concerned, both workers and especially relief officers, would find their duties very much simplified in this way, and we should certainly not witness the very anomalous results we at present so often meet with. Test-works will open on such a low rate per 1,000 cubic feet as will not attract workers unless really in want."

7. RAJSHAHI DIVISION.—The Commissioner of Rajshahi (Mr. Nolan) says—

"In this Division there are at present no famine works; test-works have been opened in Rajshahi and Pabna. I have insisted on their being conducted from the first on the precise system laid down by the Code, and they have proved most valuable by enabling me to conclude that in those districts matters were not so bad as they were in some quarters represented to be. Should they hereafter lead to the inference that there is really a demand for labour on famine terms, the intermediate system under discussion may prove useful, but at present I would deprecate its adoption. It does not lead up to the immediate object, which is not to relieve, but to test The expense of establishments and the labour of supervision is re-paid many times over by preventing an unnecessary outlay on extensive works."

Mr. Bose, Collector of Rajshahi, is in favour of the introduction of the system in his district; he writes—

"The ordinary rates of earthwork in this district vary from Rs. 2 to Rs. 3 per 1,000 cubic feet with a lead of 50 feet and under and a lift of 3 feet and under. The District Board rates with contractors are Rs. 2-8 per 1,000 cubic feet for soft and medium soil and Rs. 3 for hard soil. The Local Boards, when they deal directly with the labourers, sometimes pay Rs 2 per 1,000 cubic feet. If the rates are fixed at the following figures, I do not think the relief works will attract labour for which there is existing employment elsewhere, viz., Re. 1-8 for soft soil, Re. 1-12 for medium soil, and Rs. 2 for hard soil with 50 feet lead and 3 feet lift, and 3 annas added for every 50 feet lead or 3 feet lift (or depth). As a matter of fact, we are paying at these rates at our test relief works."

The Collector of Pabna (Mr. Maude) remarks—

"I was not at first in favour of the scheme of piece-work by small local contractors, but in deference to the fact that it seems to have been worked successfully here in 1891, I am willing that it should be tried again in this district. One great gain would be that it would enable us to scatter work more widely throughout the district than can be done under the system of fixed relief at centres under a sub-overseer in particular charge. I would still keep this system at Dawuria on the Sara road, where there are now over 100 workers, and where the number seems likely to increase."

"The rate of Re. 1-9 per thousand cubic feet would give only the bare famine wages to the workers, and allow nothing over. I think we should have to allow a slightly higher rate, say Re. 1-11, which is well below the ordinary contract rate here of Re. 1-14 for soft soil. Higher rate would of course have to be allowed for heavy soils."

8. PRESIDENCY DIVISION.—The Commissioner's report has not yet been received, but Mr. Finucane recently visited some of the relief works in progress in the Khulna, Nadia and Murshidabad districts, and having discussed the subject with District Officers on the spot, recommended that the system should be adopted in the Khulna and Murshidabad districts, and also at the Commissioner's discretion in the Nadia district. The Lieutenant-Governor has accepted that recommendation.

9. CHITTAGONG, BURDWAN, DACCA AND ORISSA DIVISIONS.—There are no relief works open in the Chittagong, Burdwan and Dacca Divisions, and no report on the subject has been received from the Commissioner of the Orissa Division, in which there is some distress in certain tracts bording on the Chilka Lake in the district of Puri.

10. After careful consideration of the reports received on this subject, Sir Alexander Mackenzie thinks that the piece-work system should be substituted for the task-work system, as prescribed in the Code, in the Samastipur subdivision of the Darbhanga district, and on the major works of the Patna Division mentioned in paragraph 4 above, in the Chota Nagpur Division, in the Khulna and Murshidabad districts, and at the Commissioner's discretion in the Nadia district of the Presidency Division, in the Bhagalpur and Orissa Divisions, in parts of which there is distress not amounting to actual famine, and also in the Rajshahi Division as soon as the test-work stage has been passed. His Honour is also of opinion that the system might be introduced at the Commissioner's discretion on the larger works in the Saran district.

11. The advantages of adopting the piece-work system where there is scarcity not amounting to acute and widespread famine are these, namely,—

1st.—That the system obviates the necessity for the large establishment requisite for the enforcement of the task-work system with its complications of maxima, minima and penal wages. When distress is not acute, relief works are scattered and labourers comparatively few, and under those conditions the cost of the establishment necessary for enforcement of the Code system of tasks is out of proportion to the expenditure on actual wages that reach the labourers relieved.

2nd.—That it enables the male able-bodied members of families to earn enough to support their females and children. This consideration is of particular importance in the districts of Lower Bengal, where women cannot be induced to work publicly on relief works. As the maximum wage is calculated on the principle of its affording a subsistence to the actual worker and no more, it follows that it leaves nothing for the support of female members of families, who, when they will not work on relief works, must either be put on the gratuitous relief lists or left to starve.

3rd.—In tracts in which distress is not acute, the piece-work system will probably afford all the relief that is necessary, more cheaply than the task-work system prescribed by the Famine Code.

The drawbacks of the system, on the other hand, are that, if the rates are not very carefully regulated, professional labourers accustomed to work and the stronger able-bodied labourers not accustomed to work may earn more than is sufficient to keep them in health and strength, which is all that Government undertakes to do, while the weaker people of the non-professional class may not be able to earn enough to give them and their families a bare subsistence.

12. Having regard to these considerations, the question of fixing the rates for piece-work is a difficult one, and the Lieutenant Governor thinks that in deciding it a large discretion must be left to local officers.

A cardinal principle to be borne in mind is that the rates should be so fixed as not to attract labour for which there is a demand by private individuals or companies who are willing to pay a reasonable wage; but here it must be remarked that cases have come to the knowledge of Government in which private persons and companies taking advantage of the present necessities of the people have offered to employ famine labour, but only at rates that were inadequate at current prices to yield a bare subsistence to the labourers, thus leaving nothing for their women and children. In such cases the private individuals or companies concerned should be asked to raise their rates to what are deemed to be reasonable and sufficient to provide the labourers with at least a bare subsistence. When the wage offered by private persons or companies is sufficient to give the labourers a bare subsistence or more, care must be taken that Government relief works do not compete with them.

13. It has been suggested that the piece-work rates might be fixed at a certain percentage over the ordinary Public Works contract rates of the district, but this would obviously be a wrong way of fixing rates, and it would lead to anomalous results. For example, 50 per cent. over the ordinary contract rates for medium soil would, in Raj-hahi, result in Rs. 4 per 1,000 cubic feet, and would enable an able-bodied man performing Mr. Glass's task to earn 4½ annas a day, while in Bihar the rate fixed on the same principle would be Rs. 2, and a labourers would earn only annas 2½.

As the price of food-grain is nearly the same in Rajshahi and the Bihar districts, it would follow that a labourer would, if the rates were fixed with reference to contract rates, receive twice as much in wages in the former as in the latter districts for the same amount of work, and the cost to Government of relieving any given number of persons would, in Rajshahi, be double what it would be in the Bihar districts.

The Lieutenant-Governor therefore thinks that the rates should be fixed, not with reference to the contract rates of the Public Works Department, but with reference to the price of food, the quantity of it required in order to keep the labourers and their dependents in health and strength, and the quantity of earth that a famine labourer may be expected to be able to excavate and carry. The price of good-grain being the same in any two districts, the piece-work rates should also be the same, whatever the Public Works Department contract rates of the districts may be.

With rice selling at about 9 seers the rupee, as it now is, the Code wage of an able-bodied man performing the task prescribed in Mr. Glass's tables would be about ... 2½ annas.

of a woman	...	2 annas and 1 pie.
,, big child	...	1 anna and 2 pies.

To enable labourers to earn the above wage on performing the tasks laid down in Mr. Glass's tables, the piece-work rates for earthwork with a lead of 50 feet and lift of 3 feet would be—

			Rs.	A.
Soft soil	...	...	1	12	per 1,000	cubic feet.
Medium	...	...	2	4	ditto	ditto.
Hard	...	...	2	12	ditto	ditto.

The effect of the adoption of the piece-work system at these rates will be to enable labourers to earn more than they now do by working harder, thus providing a surplus for their dependents, while there will be no danger that even the weakest of them will not be able to earn enough to purchase the Code ration which is deemed to be sufficient for their own subsistence.

The above rates are accordingly sanctioned as the standards, but discretion is left to local officers to increase or reduce them, having regard to local conditions and especially to rise or fall in prices. An additional 3 annas per 1,000 cubic feet may be allowed for every additional 50 feet of lead or 3 feet of lift.

14. The Lieutenant-Governor now sanctions the introduction of the system after the test stage has been passed, where it has not been already introduced, and its continuance where it has been introduced, in the following Divisions and local areas:—

Chota Nagpur	...	...	...	whole Division.
Bhagalpur	...	...	...
Rajshahi	...	...	...
Orissa	...	...	...

Samastipur subdivision of Darbhanga, and major works mentioned in paragraph 4 above, and in other major works at the Commissioner's discretion ... ... and at the Commissioner's discretion in the Bhabhua subdivision of Shahabad, and the district of Saran	in the Patna Division.
In the Khulna and Murshidabad districts and at the Commissioner's discretion in the Nadia district	in the Presidency Division.

Where the piece-work system is adopted, the following instructions are to be observed:—

(1) For every work carried out under this system an estimate of the quantity of work to be done should be framed before the work is actually started, so as to admit of the measurements on which payments are made being readily checked. The cost of the work based on the rates at which it is to be carried out should also be estimated.

(2) Piece-work should in every case be carried out without the intervention of contractors. The people should be encouraged to form themselves into gangs of as large a number as possible, and each gang should select one of its members to receive and distribute the amount earned. In fact, the man so selected will take the place of the petty contractor who is ordinarily employed under the piece-work system. There will be no maximum or minimum or penal wage, as the earnings of the people will depend entirely on the amount of work done by them.

(3) Payments should at first be made daily. This can be arranged for by making a rough measurement of the work executed, and paying on account, care being taken that the amount paid on any day is not more than the aggregate wage which the gang would receive if working on the daily wage system. At the end of each week or oftener the work of each gang should be accurately measured up and the amount earned paid, after deducting the payments made on account. It will probably be found, when the people have got into the swing of the work and understood the arrangements, that it will be sufficient to measure up and make payments once a week.

(4) There will ordinarily be no allowances given to dependents of relief-workers on works carried out under the piece-work system, as the working members of families will be generally able to earn enough to support their dependents.

(5) The names of labourers employed on the works should be entered in registers to be kept for the purpose once for all on their joining the works, and copies of the nominal rolls thus prepared should be sent to the Circle Officers so as to enable the latter to see that the dependents of relief-workers do not receive gratuitous relief, or at least that they do not receive more of it than is necessary.

(6) Care should be taken by Circle Officers, when labourers on relief works earn enough to support their dependents, that the latter do not receive gratuitous relief also when such relief is not necessary. Gratuitous relief to dependents will only be necessary and should only be given by Circle Officers when the dependents are so numerous as to render it impracticable for the working members of the family to earn enough to support all of them.

(7) When a relief work is open on the piece-work system in any locality, no relief-work on the task-work system should be opened within a distance of at least five miles.

(8) For the purposes of the weekly and fortnightly returns, daily muster rolls need not be prepared. It will be sufficient to count the number of persons daily employed.

(9) Such of the forms prescribed in the Famine Code as are required under the system now sanctioned should be used with the term "piece-work" substituted for "task-work," and columns not required may be left blank.

ORDER.—Ordered that this Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and that copies of it be forwarded to all Commissioners of Divisions and to the Public Works Department of this Government.

WATER-SUPPLY.

No. 2618L.S.-G.—The 11th May 1897.—The following report of the progress made in the district of Burdwan in collecting and placing on record the chief facts regarding water-supply is published for general information.

H. H. RISLEY,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

No. 251L.S.-G., dated Chinsura, the April 1897.

From—G. STEVENSON, Esq., Officiating Commissioner of the Burdwan Division,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department.

IN continuation of this office letter No. 24L.S.-G., dated 9th January 1897, I have the honour to submit herewith a further report in connection with the progress made in collecting information regarding the water-supply of the district of Burdwan.

No. 859G., dated Burdwan, the 13th April 1897.

From—C. FISHER, Esq., Officiating Magistrate, Burdwan,
To—The Commissioner of the Burdwan Division.

IN continuation of this office No. 2286G., dated the 28th December last, in connection with the progress made in collecting information regarding the water-supply of this district, I have the honour to state as follows.

2. As regards the Kalna subdivision the water-supply registers of thana Kalna have been completely written up, and those of the Purbusthali and Montesser thanas have also been written up, except for five and nine villages, respectively, which have not been traced.

3. For the Raniganj subdivision the registers have been written up in respect of 63 villages in thana Raniganj, 4 villages in thana Asansol, and 9 in thana Kaksa. This leaves 35, 67, and 12 villages, repectively, for which statistics have still to be collected.

4. As regards Katwa subdivision the prescribed registers have been written up for the whole subdivision, except for 11 villages which have not been traced. I have asked the Subdivisional Officer to make further enquiry in respect of those villages and supply details as soon as possible.

5. As regards the Sadar subdivision the registers have been written up in full for thanas Burdwan, Sahebganj, and Raina, while in thanas Budbud, Ausgram, and Khandoghosh, there remain only 2, 4, and 1 villages, respectively, in respect of which statistics have yet to be collected. The registers in respect of the villages in thanas Satgachia and Jamalpur have only been partially written up. The statistics for the remaining villages of these thanas are being collected.

6. I beg to note below the sources of water-supply, their sufficiency or otherwise and other details in connection thereof in the municipalities of this district.

7. In the Burdwan Municipality the water-works supply a greater portion of the municipal area with filtered water. Those that live in quarters situated at some distance from the street hydrants resort to the neighbouring tanks for supply of water. The Banka river and the Eden Canal form the sources of supply of drinking water to a large number of the people living in the southern portion of the Municipality. There are also some wells for the use of the public.

8. In the Kalna Municipality 30 out of 83 perennial tanks have run dry, and the Municipal Commissioners propose to excavate "chowkas" in the bed of dry tanks where necessary; four such wells have been made up to date. The Bhagirathi river supplies drinking water to the residents of the north part of the town. The Commissioners also contemplate sinking a tube well in a suitable locality, and are negotiating with Messrs. Leslie and Company, Calcutta, for the same. A copy of the general abstract of the sources of water-supply, submitted by the Chairman, is submitted herewith.

9. The town of Katwa is situated at the confluence of the rivers Bhagirathi and Ajai, which form the main sources of the water-supply. There are also several tanks from which the people draw water. The Municipal Commissioners do not think it necessary therefore to take steps for improving the existing sources of water-supply of the town.

10. In the Dainhat Municipality the Chairman reports that the existing sources of water-supply are sufficient for the requirements of the people. The people get their drinking water from the Ganges and the adjacent "bawars," that is back-waters left by the floods of the river Bhagirathi; these are annually flushed by the floods. A few people use the water of tanks for drinking purposes.

The Municipal Commissioners excavated a good tank last year near the Municipal office in Ward No. 3 at a cost of more than Rs. 1,000. They also propose to spend Rs. 500 this year in re-excavating two private tanks in Wards Nos. 1 and 2, where scarcity of water is felt.

11. The following table shows the present sources of water-supply in the Raniganj Municipality:—

Wards.	Tanks, wholesome.	Tanks, unwholesome.	Wells, wholesome.	Wells, unwholesome.
I	6	12	80	37
III	...	...	25	15

Mr. Walmsley, Chairman of the Municipality, reports that a sum of Rs. 2,456 has been provided in the budget estimates for 1897-98 for improvement of water-supply in the Municipality. The present supply is not exactly satisfactory, but there is no reason to fear that it will be exhausted

12. Lastly, in the newly-constituted Municipality of Asansol, a large well in the bazar has been deepened, and a well is being sunk by some Marwaris in the middle of the bazar. The East Indian Railway Company's hydrants are expected to supply the bazar throughout the hot weather. The District Board is also deepening an old well on the Grand Trunk Road.

13. A tabular statement showing the progress made in filling in the water-supply registers in the District Board office during the quarter ending 31st March last is herewith submitted.

Imports.—Of the total import of 340,081 cwts. of rice from Indian ports, Burma contributed 284,244 cwts. or 83·58 per cent, against 103,891 cwts. in the preceding week. Balasore sent 21,002 cwts., against nil in the corresponding 9 days in April 1896, and Chandbali the remainder, viz. 34,835 cwts., against 20,021 cwts. in the last 9 days of April 1896. The whole of the import of 9,993 cwts. under the head Foreign ports was received from the Straits Settlements, which sent nothing in the period ending 30th April 1896. The imports of paddy from Burma amounted to 60,736 cwts. or 99 55 per cent. of the total supply, viz. 63,562 cwts. Balasore sent 1,946 cwts. against nil, while nothing was received from Chandbali against 9,798 cwts. in the 9 days ending 30th April 1896. The rise in the trade under gram and pulse from 2,606 cwts. in the last 9 days of April 1896 to 9,091 cwts. in the corresponding period in 1897 was almost entirely due to the supplies from the Madras ports having risen from 470 cwts. to 3,357 cwts., and to those from Chandbali from 2,136 cwts. to 5,251 cwts.

Exports.—In the following statement the total quantity of each kind of food-grain exported by sea during the last 9 days of April 1897 is compared with the figures for the corresponding period of 1896 :—

Foreign Ports.

There was a large falling off in the exports of rice to foreign ports, viz. from 287,866 cwts. in the last 9 days of April 1896 to 23,182 cwts. in the same period in 1897. The decline was chiefly due to absence in 1897 of shipments to "Other States" (besides Maskat) in Arabia, Mauritius, Abyssinia, Bremen, and Aden, to which ports 52,383 cwts., 31,442 cwts., 29,794 cwts., 26,026 cwts, and 24,107 cwts. respectively were exported in the 9 days ending 30th April 1896; the despatches to Ceylon also diminished by 26,891 cwts. and to the United Kingdom by 19,228 cwts. The exports of wheat to the United Kingdom during the 9 days ending 30th April 1896 aggregated 4,004 cwts., while in the period under review nothing was sent, and this is the chief cause of the fall in the total shipments to foreign ports from 4,758 cwts. to only 279 cwts. The shipments of gram and pulse during the 9 days ending 30th April 1897 were only 3,782 cwts. against 28,646 cwts. in the corresponding period in 1896, owing chiefly to there being no exports to Mauritius, which received 16,167 cwts. in the 9 days ending 30th April 1896; the exports to the United Kingdom also declined by 3,637 cwts. and to Natal by 3,144 cwts.

Indian Ports.

The exports of rice to Indian ports fell from 33,883 cwts. to only 1,227 cwts. in the period under review, the decline being chiefly due to the Madras ports having received only 1 cwt., against 20,045 cwts. in the last 9 days of April 1896, and to the shipments to Bombay having diminished from 11,756 cwts. to only 499 cwts. The decline of 28,211 cwts. in the supplies of gram and pulse was chiefly due to the exports to Bombay having fallen off by 18,803 cwts., and to the Madras ports by 5,293 cwts.

Detailed statements showing the sources of supply and the places of destination, both as regards Foreign and Indian ports, are given below.

Imports.

The import trade of Chittagong, which amounted to 11,903 cwts., showed a rise of 11,210 cwts. chiefly on account of larger receipts of rice and paddy from Burma, while the imports into Narayanganj and Balasore fell off by 2,571 cwts. and 172 cwts. respectively.

Exports.

Owing to the absence of despatches to Foreign and Indian ports, the export trade of Chittagong and Puri declined by 2,538 cwts. and 1,345 cwts. respectively. Narayanganj and Balasore also showed a falling off of 809 cwts. and 33,981 cwts., respectively, in consequence of smaller shipments from Chittagong and Calcutta, while the trade of Cuttack, which was limited to Foreign ports only, improved by 5,933 cwts.

General Summary.—There was good general rain over the whole of Bengal proper, and slight local showers are reported from Bihar, Orissa and Chota Nagpur. The present agricultural prospects are generally favourable. Ploughing and sowing are everywhere in full swing. Early rice and jute are for the most part sown and are coming up well. Sugarcane, indigo and other standing crops are promising. The harvesting of spring rice is still proceeding. The rain has improved the water-supply to some extent, but want of good drinking-water is still felt in parts. Cattle-disease is prevalent in Palamau, and is also reported from some other districts. The price of rice is reported to have risen in several districts. In the distressed districts the prices of the staple food-grain on which the famine wage is based are—Nadia (common rice) 7½ seers, Murshidabad (common rice) 8½ seers, Khulna (common rice) 9 seers, Rajshahi (rice) 8 seers, Pabna (rice) 7 to 9 seers, Patna (rice) 9½ seers, Shahabad (rice at Bhabua) 8 seers, Saran (barley) 12 to 13 seers, Champaran (rice) 8½ seers and (maize) 9½ seers, Muzaffarpur (barley) 12 seers and (rahar) 13 seers, Darbhanga (rice) 7½ seers and (makai) 9 seers, Bhagalpur (common rice) 8 seers and (marua) 12½ and 13 seers, Sonthal Parganas (rice at Jamtara) 8 seers, Puri (common rice) 10 to 12 seers, Hazaribagh (rice) 6 to 8½ seers, Palamau (rice) 5 to 8 seers, Manbhum (common rice) 8 seers.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 0·2° lower; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF APRIL 1897.

THE more noticeable features of the weather during April are—

(1) The rainfall when compared with the normal was heavier in the west than in the east of the province.

Bihar, Chota Nagpur and South-West Bengal all received more than the usual amount, while in East and North Bengal there was a large defect, in the former 2·42 and in the latter 1·18 inches. In Orissa the average fall was practically normal.

This arrangement is similar to what has obtained since the middle of February with a modification as regards Orissa. The shallow depressions which gave rise to the unsettled conditions usual when thunderstorms occur in the early part of the hot weather received a southerly displacement, which led to much heavier rainfall in Orissa than is usual at that time of the year. The effect of this displacement was shown as regards Chota Nagpur and South-West Bengal also. But during April the depressions, though receiving a check to their eastward movement, failed to reach the north of the Bay as in the previous months. The rainfall in Orissa is, therefore, lighter, while in East and North Bengal there is even less rain than in February and March.

(2) The alternations of temperature have been larger than usual, there having been three periods of comparatively cool weather and two during which the heat was much more severe than usual. The times of great heat were just after the middle and towards the end of the month, preceding the occurrence of disturbed weather with general thunderstorms and rain. The difference from the normal means for the month in the large divisions is not very great. In Bihar, North and East Bengal and Assam there was excess of 1°, and in Orissa and Chota Nagpur defect of little more than half a degree.

At the beginning of the month the pressure distribution was more uniform than usual, and fine calm weather with light south-westerly winds and low temperature prevailed, except in the north of the province, where wind directions were east or north-east. Pressure was slightly below the normal in the south of the Bay and above over the province by amounts increasing somewhat towards the north. Mean temperature was from 3° to 6° in defect, the latter in Bihar and Chota Nagpur. On the 2nd there were signs of the approach of a shallow depression from the west, temperature rose rapidly, the winds became more easterly and irregular, and on the following day thunderstorms occurred over almost the whole of Lower Bengal and Orissa. There were a few scattered showers in Chota Nagpur, but rainfall was almost entirely absent in North Bengal and Bihar. The changes of pressure on the 3rd gave an almost uniform distribution over the whole of the Bay and the province with a very shallow depression shown over the central districts of Bengal. The rise continued on the 4th most quickly over Orissa and a high pressure area developed. The arrangement then was unusual and was not accompanied by altogether settled weather, as scattered showers were falling in many districts and temperature was considerably below the normal, especially in the south-west of the province. The showers were more frequent on the 6th and 7th; but as westerly winds were becoming general and more regular, rainfall had ceased entirely on the 8th.

Throughout the first week of the month pressure changes were much more irregular than usual and at times of moderate amount, but the general distribution retained the same features as were noticed at the beginning. There was excess in the west and defect in the east; so that the distribution was much more uniform than is usual in the early part of April. From the 8th the peculiarity became less marked owing to a brisk fall which set in over the north of the province and extended southwards. On the 10th the distribution was very nearly normal, but a rapid rise over Bengal on the following day to a large extent restored the old arrangement. But these changes were only the oscillations which occur in the most settled weather and caused no disturbance, readings being again all but normal on the 16th.

The weather remained settled till towards the 20th, when the second and a more general series of thunderstorms began. A few days previously temperature began to rise, and from the 16th to the 19th more or less severe heat prevailed in all districts, the greatest excess being from 6° to 10° on the 18th. The approach of the slight depression was not well shown till the 18th, when the cyclonic circulation of winds was fairly regular with a centre in Chota Nagpur. The changes of pressure on the subsequent days were so irregular that the appearance of a depression was almost lost, but the cyclonic circulation remained, and it was probably owing to the interaction of the variable winds on the 20th and 21st that almost general rain fell in all parts of the province except Orissa, Chota Nagpur and the west of Bihar. Rainfall continued in East and North Bengal on the 23rd, but by that time settled weather was again almost general.

The fall of temperature caused by the thunderstorms of the 21st and 22nd was large, and on the latter date daily means were from 10° to 12° below the normal in all the central districts.

From the 20th to the 27th fine calm weather prevailed with steadily increasing temperature, excess on the 27th and 28th being generally between 4° and 7°. A short period of disturbed weather followed, beginning on the 28th when a few scattered showers fell in Chota Nagpur and South-West Bengal. Rainfall was more general on the 29th, but was in almost all cases light and confined to the south of the province. On the 30th there was very little rain except in part of South-West Bengal and the east of Bihar.

Pressure.—The mean values for April are above the normal at all stations and in most cases by moderate amounts. Excess is about ·07 inch for Chota Nagpur, ·05 inch for Orissa and the greater part of Bihar, and from ·02 to ·04 inch elsewhere. The distribution which generally prevailed was more uniform than usual in April, and this was due to the high readings over the province as compared with those at coast stations, especially in the extreme south where there was a small defect.

On the three occasions of disturbed weather when rain was general over a great part of the province, pressure changes were never large, and on the last of the three towards the close of the month pressure was rising during the first two of the three days of unsettled weather.

The peculiarity, noticed in previous reports, that rapid rise of pressure began in the north or north-east of the province and forced the shallow depressions southwards over Orissa and the north-west angle of the Bay, was noticeable on only one occasion—about the 20th. Its effect was not so great, as it appeared only to prevent the unsettled weather passing eastwards over East and North Bengal which were in consequence deprived of a portion of the rainfall due in this month.

Temperature was very high about the middle and towards the end of the month, that is immediately before the commencement of the second and third of the disturbed periods. After the occurrence of thunderstorms there was a equally large defect, greatest on the 23rd, when defect in mean temperature varied from 2° in Orissa and the west of Bihar to 13° at Krishnagar and Burdwan.

Neither mean day nor night readings differed much from the normal. The difference in the former varied from defect of 2° in Orissa and part of Chota Nagpur to excess of 3° in East Bengal and Bihar: in the latter from defect of 1° in Orissa and South-West Bengal to excess of 1° in the west of Bihar.

Rainfall has been normal or slightly in excess in the western half of the province, the greatest difference being in Bihar, which received about 1 inch as compared with a normal fall of rather more than half an inch. There was a slight excess in South-West Bengal and Chota Nagpur and very nearly the normal fall in Orissa. In East Bengal and North Bengal there was a large defect—2·42 inches in the former and 1·18 in the latter. East Bengal received 1·91 instead of 4·33 and North Bengal 2 instead of 3·18 inches.

Thunderstorms with rain occurred on three occasions—the first near the beginning of the month, the second between the 19th and 21st and the last at the end. The showers were usually rather scattered, and the 21st was the only day on which most of the measuring stations reported rain. Even on that day a few districts were practically rainless, viz., Gaya, Shahabad, Orissa and the greater part of Chota Nagpur.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province for the month of April 1897:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

The Executive Engineer of the Gandak Division is, as Canal Officer under the Irrigation Act [III (B.C.) of 1876], charged with the proper maintenance and management of the canals, and with the control of the supply of water in them. All orders passed by him, or by the Subdivisional Canal Officer, are under the terms of that Act subject to correction on appeal to the Collector of Saran.

3. The following rules will be applicable to all irrigation effected from the Saran Canals in the kharif season of 1897-98.

4. Any person who wishes to make bunds in the canals must obtain the written permission of the Canal Subdivisional Officer before doing so.

5. Any person who constructs bunds in the canals, who interferes with the supply of water in them, or who takes water from them without the written permission of a duly authorised person, will render himself liable to the penalties defined in the Irrigation Act.

6. Any person who requires water from the channels of the Saran Canals must apply either to (a) the Patrol, (b) the Sectional Officer, or (c) the Subdivisional Canal Officer, who will take his signature on the Form A attached. If the application is approved, the Canal Subdivisional or Sectional Officer (all of whom are hereby empowered in that behalf) will grant a permit for irrigation in Form B.

7. Any person who holds a permit in Form B will be allowed to take canal water for irrigation, and he will be charged for it at the rates detailed in the following schedule:—

Schedule of rates for irrigation.

	Rs. A. P.
For bhadoi or rice crops irrigated between the 1st June and 25th of October	1 8 0

These rates apply equally to irrigation by lift and flow.

8. Persons who take water from any of the river channels named in rule I, without a permit in Form B, and persons who waste the water, are liable to be charged water-rates, under sections 79 and 80 of the Irrigation Act, at rates which shall be fixed by the Subdivisional Canal Officer, but which shall not be greater than twice the rate which would have been payable for licensed irrigation.

9. All water-rates assessed under rule 7 will be due on the 15th of December.

Water-rates assessed under rule 8 will be due as soon as the demand statement has been prepared.

10. The demand statements for water-rates due will be sent to the Collector as soon as possible after the irrigation in any village is completed, and a parcha, showing the area and amount assessed against each cultivator, will be sent to the rate-payer as soon as possible.

11. Any claim for remission of water-rates under section 76 (b), or for compensation under section 76 (c) of the Irrigation Act, must be presented in writing to the Subdivisional Canal Officer at least twenty days before the crop is cut. The Subdivisional Canal Officer shall, after such enquiry as he may consider necessary, pass orders on the application. Any application for remission presented direct to the Collector must be forwarded for the orders of the Canal Officer.

12. Objections to the demand statements must be presented within thirty days of the date on which the parcha is issued by the Subdivisional Canal Officer. He will pass orders on such objections.

13. Any person who is not satisfied with an order passed by the Subdivisional Canal Officer may appeal to the Collector under section 91 of the Irrigation Act. Such appeal must be accompanied by a copy of the order appealed against, and it must be submitted to the Collector within thirty days of the date of the order.

14. Remission statements must be signed by the Divisional Canal Officer. Any statement so signed shall be sufficient authority for a refund by the Collector.

15. No guarantee can be given either as to the volume or duration of the supply or of the delivery of any quantity of water at any particular point of any canal.

16. The Canal Officer will regulate the water passing into, and along, any canal to the best of his ability to meet requirements. If there is any difficulty in supplying all the channels, the Canal Officer will endeavour to divide the available supply as fairly as possible. The Canal Officer shall have complete control of the distibution of water.

At the Court at Osborne House, Isle of Wight, the 11th day of August 1884.

PRESENT:

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas by Order in Council made in pursuance of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, and dated the fourteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, Her Majesty, on the joint recommendation of the Admiralty and the Board of Trade, was pleased to direct that on and after the first day of September, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, the Regulations for preventing Collisions at Sea contained in an Order in Council dated the ninth day of January, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, and the additions by an Order in Council dated the thirteenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, made thereto, should be annulled, and that there should be substituted therefor the new Regulations contained in the first schedule to the said first-named Order in Council, and that the same should from and after the first day of September, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, apply to ships of the countries mentioned in the said second schedule thereto, whether within British jurisdiction or not.

And whereas by the Orders in Council dated respectively the twenty-fourth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, the twenty-sixth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one, the eighteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two, the twenty-third day of August, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three, and the second day of February, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, Her Majesty was pleased to direct that the operation of the Article numbered 10 of the New Regulations contained in the first schedule of the said Order in Council of the fourteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, should be suspended from time to time.

And whereas the Admiralty and the Board of Trade have jointly recommended to Her Majesty that, so far as regards British ships and Boats, the regulations hereinafter set forth shall be substituted for the regulations contained in the first schedule to the said Order in Council of the fourteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine.

Now, therefore, Her Majesty, by virtue of the powers vested in Her by the said recited Act, and by and with the advice of Her Privy Council is pleased to direct that, on and after the first day of September, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four the regulations contained in the schedule, hereto shall, so far as regards British ships and boats, be substituted for the regulations contained in the first schedule to the said Order in Council of the fourteenth day of August one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine.

SCHEDULE REFERRED TO IN THIS ORDER.

Regulations for preventing Collisions at Sea.

Article 1.—In the following rules every steam ship which is under sail and not under steam is to be considered a sailing ship; and every steam ship which is under steam, whether under sail or not, is to be considered a ship under steam.

Rules concerning Lights.

Article 2.—The lights mentioned in the following Articles numbered 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11, and no others, shall be carried in all weathers, from sunset to sunrise.

Article 3.—A seagoing steam ship when under way shall carry:—

(a) On or in front of the foremast, at a height above the hull of not less than 20 feet, and if the breadth of the ship exceeds 20 feet, then at a height above the hull not less than such breadth, a bright white light, so constructed as to show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 20 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light 10 points on each side of the ship, viz., from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on either side, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night, with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least five miles.

(b) On the starboard side a green light, so constructed as to show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the starboard side, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least two miles.

(c) On the port side a red light, so constructed as to show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the port side, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night, with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least two miles.

(d) The said green and red side lights shall be fitted with inboard screens projecting at least 3 feet forward from the light, so as to prevent these lights from being seen across the bow.

Article 4.—A steam ship, when towing another ship shall, in addition to her side lights, carry two bright white lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 3 feet apart, so as to distinguish her from other steam ships. Each of these lights shall be of the same construction and character, and shall be carried in the same position, as the white light which other steam ships are required to carry.

Article 5 (a).—A ship, whether a steam ship or a sailing ship, which from any accident is not under command, shall at night carry in the same position as the white light which steam ships are required to carry, and, if a steam ship, in place of that light, three red lights in globular lanterns, each not less than 10 inches in diameter, in a vertical line one over the other not less than three feet apart, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere at a distance of at least two miles; and shall by day carry in a vertical line one over the other, not less than three feet apart, in front of but not lower than her foremast head, three black balls or shapes, each two feet in diameter.

(b) A ship, whether a steam ship or sailing ship employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable, shall at night carry in the same position as the white light which steam ships are required to carry, and if a steam ship, in place of that light, three lights in globular lanterns each not less than 10 inches in diameter, in vertical line over one another, not less than 6 feet apart; the highest and lowest of these lights shall be red, and the middle light shall be white, and they shall be of such a character that the red lights shall be visible at the same distance as the white light. By day she shall carry in a vertical line one over the other not less than six feet apart, in front of but not lower than her foremast head, three shapes not less than two feet in diameter, of which the top and bottom shall be globular in shape and red in colour, and the middle one diamond in shape and white.

(c) The ships referred to in this Article, when not making any way through the water, shall not carry the side lights, but when making way shall carry them.

(d) The lights and shapes required to be shown by this Article are to be taken by other ships as signals that the ship showing them is not under command, and cannot therefore get out of the way. The signals to be made by ships in distress and requiring assistance are contained in Article 27.

Article 6.—A sailing ship under way or being towed shall carry the same lights as are provided by Article 3 for a steam ship under way, with the exception of the white light, which she shall never carry.

Article 7.—Whenever, as in the case of small vessels during bad weather, the green and red side lights cannot be fixed, these lights shall be kept on deck, on their respective sides of the vessel, ready for use; and shall, on the approach of or to other vessels, be exhibited on their respective sides in sufficient time to prevent collision, in such manner as to make them most visible, and so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

To make the use of these portable lights more certain and easy, the lanterns containing them shall each be painted outside with the colour of the light they respectively contain, and shall be provided with proper screens.

Article 8.—A ship, whether a steam ship or a sailing ship, when at anchor, shall carry, where it can best be seen, but at a height not exceeding 20 feet above the hull, a white light, in a globular lantern of not less than 8 inches in diameter, and so constructed as to show a clear uniform and unbroken light visible all round the horizon, at a distance of at least one mile.

Article 9.—A pilot vessel, when engaged on her station on pilotage duty, shall not carry the light required for other vessels, but shall carry a white light at the masthead, visible all round the horizon, and shall also exhibit a flare-up light or flare-up lights at short intervals, which shall never exceed fifteen minutes.

A pilot vessel, when not engaged on her station on pilotage duty, shall carry lights similar to those of other ships.

Article 10.—Open boats and fishing vessels of less than 20 tons net registered tonnage, when under way and when not having their nets, trawls, dredges, or lines in the water, shall not be obliged to carry the coloured side lights; but every such boat and vessel shall in lieu thereof have ready at hand a lantern with a green glass on the one side, and a red glass on the other side, and on approaching to or being approached by another vessel such lantern shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision, so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

The following portion of this Article applies only to fishing vessels and boats when in the sea off the coast of Europe lying north of Cape Finisterre:—

(a) All fishing vessels and fishing boats of 20 tons net registered tonnage, or upward, when under way and when not required by the following regulations in this Article to carry and show the lights therein named shall carry and show the same lights as other vessels under way.

(b) All vessels when engaged in fishing with drift nets shall exibit two white lights from any part of the vessel where they can be best seen. Such lights shall be placed so that the vertical distance between them shall be not less than 6 feet and not more than 10 feet; and so that the horizontal distance between them measured in a line with the keel of the vessel shall be not less than 5 feet and not more than 10 feet. The lower of these two lights shall be the more forward, and both of them shall be of such a character, and contained in lanterns of such construction as to show all round the horizon, on a dark night with a clear atmosphere, for a distance of not less than three miles.

(c) A vessel employed in line fishing with her lines out shall carry the same lights as a vessel when engaged in fishing with drift nets.

(d) If a vessel when fishing becomes stationary in consequence of her gear getting fast to a rock or other obstruction, she shall show the light and make the fog signal for a vessel at anchor.

(e) Fishing vessels and open boats may at any time use a flare-up in addition to the lights which they are by this Article required, to carry and show. All flare-up lights exhibited by a vessel when trawling dredging, or fishing with any kind of drag net shall be shown at the after part of the vessel, expecting that if the vessel is hanging by the stern to her trawl, dredge, or drag net, they shall be exhibited from the bow.

(f) Every fishing vessel and every open boat when at anchor between sunset and sunrise shall exhibit a white light visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least one mile.

(g) In fog, mist, or falling snow, a drift net vessel attached to her nets and a vessel when trawling, dredging or fishing with any kind of drag net, and a vessel employed in line fishing with her lines out, shall at intervals of not more than two minutes make a blast with her fog horn and ring her bell alternately.

Article 11. A ship which is being overtaken by another shall show from her stern to such last-mentioned ship a white light or a flare-up light.

Sound signals for fog, &c.

Article 12. A steam ship shall be provided with a steam whistle or other efficient steam sound signal, so placed that the sound may not be intercepted by any obstructions, and with an efficient fog horn to be sounded by a bellows or other mechanical means, and also with an efficient bell.* A sailing ship shall be provided with a similar fog horn and bell.

In fog, mist, or falling snow, whether by day or night, the signals described in this Article shall be used as follows; that is to say,—

(a) A steam ship under way shall make with her steam whistle, or other steam sound signal, at intervals of not more than two minutes, a prolonged blast.

(b) A sailing ship under way shall make with her fog horn, at intervals of not more than two minutes, when on the starboard tack one blast, when on the port tack two blasts in succession, and when with the wind abaft the beam three blasts in succession.

(c) A steam ship and a sailing ship, when not under way, shall at intervals of not more than two minutes ring the bell.

Speed of ships to be moderate in fog, &c.

Steering and Sailing Rules.

Article 14. When two sailing ships are approaching one another, so as to involve risk of collision, one of them shall keep out of the way of the other, as follows, viz.:—

(a) A ship which is running free shall keep out of the way of a ship which is close-hauled.

(b) A ship which is close-hauled on the port tack shall keep out of the way of a ship which is close-hauled on the starboard tack.

(c) When both are running free with the wind on different sides, the ship which has the wind on the port side shall keep out of the way of the other.

(d) When both are running free with the wind on the same side, the ship which is to windward shall keep out of the way of the ship which is to leeward.

(e) A ship which has the wind aft shall keep out of the way of the other ship.

Article 15. If two ships under steam are meeting end on, or nearly end on, so as to involve risk of collision, each shall alter her course to starboard, so that each may pass on the port side of the other.

This Article only applies to cases where ships are meeting end on, or nearly end on, in such a manner as to involve risk of collision, and does not apply to two ships which must, if both keep on their respective courses, pass clear of each other.

* In all cases where the Regulations require a bell to be used, a drum will be substituted on board Turkish vessels.

The only cases to which it does apply are, when each of the two ships is end on, or nearly end on, to the other; in other words, to cases in which, by day, each ship sees the masts of the other in a line, or nearly in a line with her own; and by night, to cases in which each ship is in such a position as to see both the side lights of the other.

It does not apply by day to cases in which a ship sees another ahead crossing her own course or by night to cases where the red light of one ship is opposed to the red light of the other or where the green light of one ship is opposed to the green light of the other, or where a red light without a green light, or a green light without a red light, is seen ahead, or where both green and red lights are seen anywhere but ahead.

Article 16. If two ships under steam are crossing so as to involve risk of collision, the ship which has the other on her own starboard side shall keep out of the way of the other.

Article 17. If two ships, one of which is a sailing ship and the other a steam ship, are proceeding in such directions as to involve risk of collision, the steam ship shall keep out of the way of the sailing ship.

Article 18. Every steam ship, when approaching another ship, so as to involve risk of collision, shall slacken her speed or stop and reverse, if necessary.

Article 19. In taking any course authorised or required by these regulations, a steam ship under way may indicate that course to any other ship which she has in sight by the following signals on her steam whistle, viz.—

One short blast to mean "I am directing my course to starboard."
Two short blasts to mean "I am directing my course to port."
Three short blasts to mean "I am going full speed astern."

The use of these signals is optional, but if they are used the course of the ship must be in accordance with the signal made.

Article 20. Notwithstanding anything contained in any preceding Article, every ship, whether a sailing ship or a steam ship, overtaking any other, shall keep out of the way of the overtaken ship.

Article 21. In narrow channels every steam ship shall, when it is safe and practicable, keep to that side of the fairway or mid-channel which lies on the starboard side of such ship.

Article 22. Where by the above rules one of two ships is to keep out of the way, the other shall keep her course.

Article 23. In obeying and construing these rules due regard shall be had to all dangers of navigation, and to any special circumstances which may render a departure from the above rules necessary in order to avoid immediate danger.

No ship under any circumstances to neglect proper precautions.

Article 24. Nothing in these rules shall exonerate any ship, or the owner, or master, or crew thereof, from the consequences of any neglect to carry lights or signals, or of any neglect to keep a proper look out, or of the neglect of any precaution which may be required by the ordinary practice of seamen, or by the special circumstances of the case.

Reservation of Rules for Harbours and Inland Navigation.

Article 25. Nothing in these rules shall interfere with the operation of a special rule, duly made by local authority, relative to the navigation of any harbour, river, or inland navigation.

Special lights for Squadrons and Convoys.

Article 26. Nothing in these rules shall interfere with the operation of any special rules made by the Government of any nation with respect to additional station and signal lights for two or more ships of war or for ships sailing under convoy.

Article 27. When a ship is in distress and requires assistance from other ships or from the shore, the following shall be the signals to be used or displayed by her, either together or separately, that is to say:

In the day time—

1. A gun fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. The International Code signal of distress indicated by N C;
3. The distant signal, consisting of a square flag, having either above or below it a ball, or anything resembling a ball.

At night—

1. A gun fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. Flames on the ship (as from a burning tar barrel, oil barrel, &c.);
3. Rockets or shells, throwing stars of any colour or description, fired one at a time, at short intervals.

AT THE COURT AT WINDSOR.

The 27th day of November 1896.

PRESENT:

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by Section 418 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, Her Majesty is empowered from time to time, on the joint recommendation of the Admiralty and the Board of Trade by Order in Council, to make regulations for preventing collisions at sea:

And whereas by Section 434 of the said Act Her Majesty is empowered from time to time by Order in Council to make rules as to signals of distress:

And whereas by an Order in Council dated the 11th day of August 1884, and expressed to be made in pursuance of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, and on the joint recommendation of the Admiralty and the Board of Trade, Her Majesty was pleased to direct that, on and after the first day of September 1884, the regulations contained in the Schedule thereto (being regulations for preventing collisions at sea and as to signals of distress) should be substituted for the regulations contained in the First Schedule to an Order in Council made under the same Act and on such joint recommendations as aforesaid and dated the 14th day of August 1879:

And whereas the Admiralty and the Board of Trade have jointly recommended to Her Majesty that the Regulations for preventing collisions at sea contained in the Schedule to the said Order in Council, dated the 11th day of August 1884, except the Article numbered 10 in such Regulations, should, on and after the 1st day of July 1897, be annulled, and that the Regulations for Preventing Collisions at Sea contained in Schedule I hereto annexed should, on and after the last-mentioned date, be substituted therefor, with the exception aforesaid and come into operation as regards British ships and boats:

And whereas it has been made to appear to Her Majesty that it is expedient that the Regulations or Rules as to signals of distress contained in the Schedule to the said Order in Council, dated the 11th day of August 1884, should, on and after the said first day of July 1897, be annulled, and that the rules as to signals of distress contained in Schedule II hereto annexed should, on and after the last-mentioned date, be substituted therefor and come into operation as regards British ships and boats:

And whereas the provisions of section one of the Rules Publication Act, 1893, have been complied with:

C. L. PEEL.

Preliminary.

These Rules shall be followed by all vessels upon the high seas and in all waters connected therewith, navigable by sea-going vessels.

In the following rules every steam vessel which is under sail and not under steam is to be considered a sailing vessel, and every vessel under steam, whether under sail or not, is to be considered a steam vessel.

The word "steam vessel" shall include any vessel propelled by machinery.

A vessel is "under way" within the meaning of these Rules, when she is not at anchor, or made fast to the shore or aground.

Rules concerning Lights, &c.

The word "visible" in these Rules, when applied to lights, shall mean visible on a dark night with clear atmosphere.

Article 1.—The Rules concerning lights shall be complied with in all weathers from sunset to sunrise and during such time no other lights which may be mistaken for the prescribed lights shall be exhibited.

Article 2.—A steam vessel when under way shall carry—

(a) On or in front of the foremast, or if a vessel without a foremast, then in the fore part of the vessel, at a height above the hull of not less than 20 feet, and if the breadth of the vessel exceeds 20 feet, then at a height above the hull not less than such breadth, so, however, that the light need not be carried at a greater height above the hull than 40 feet, a bright white light, so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 20 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light 10 points on each side of the vessel, viz., from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on either side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 5 miles.

(b) On the starboard side a green light so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the starboard side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(c) On the port side a red light so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on the port side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles

(d) The said green and red side-lights shall be fitted with inboard screens projecting at least 3 feet forward from the light, so as to prevent these lights from being seen across the bow.

(e) A steam vessel when under way may carry an additional white light similar in construction to the light mentioned in subdivision (a). These two lights shall be so placed in line with the keel that one shall be at least 15 feet higher than the other, and in such a position with reference to each other that the lower light shall be forward of the upper one. The vertical distance between these lights shall be less than the horizontal distance.

Article 3.—A steam vessel when towing another vessel shall, in addition to her side-lights, carry two bright white lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, and when towing more than one vessel shall carry an additional bright white light 6 feet above or below such lights, if the length of the tow, measuring from the stern of the towing vessel to the stern of the last vessel towed exceeds 600 feet. Each of these lights shall be of the same construction and character, and shall be carried in the same position as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), except the additional light, which may be carried at a height of not less than 14 feet above the hull.

Such steam vessel may carry a small white light abaft the funnel or aftermast for the vessel towed to steer by, but such light shall not be visible forward of the beam.

Article 4 (a).—A vessel which from any accident is not under command shall carry at the same height as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), where they can best be seen, and, if a steam vessel, in lieu of that light two red lights, in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, and of such a character as to be visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least 2 miles, and shall by day carry in a vertical line one over the other not less than 6 feet apart, where they can best be seen, two black balls or shapes each 2 feet in diameter.

(b) A vessel employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable shall carry in the same position as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), and if a steam vessel, in lieu of that light, three lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart. The highest and lowest of these lights shall be red, and the middle light shall be white, and they shall be of such a character as to be visible all round the horizon, at a distance of at least 2 miles. By day she shall carry in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, where they can best be seen, three shapes not less than 2 feet in diameter, of which the highest and lowest shall be globular in shape and red in colour, and the middle one diamond in shape and white.

(c) The vessels referred to in this Article, when not making way through the water, shall not carry the side lights, but when making way shall carry them.

(d) The lights and shapes required to be shown by this Article are to be taken by other vessels as signal that the vessel showing them is not under command and cannot therefore get out of the way.

These signals are not signals of vessels in distress and requiring assistance. Such signals are contained in Article 31.

Article 5.—A sailing vessel under way, and any vessel being towed, shall carry the same lights as are prescribed by Article 2 for a steam vessel under way, with the exception of the white lights mentioned therein which they shall never carry.

Article 6.—Whenever, as in the case of small vessels under way during bad weather, the green and red side-lights cannot be fixed, these lights shall be kept at hand lighted and ready for use; and shall, on the approach of or to other vessels, be exhibited on their respective sides in sufficient time to prevent collision, in such manner as to make them most visible, and so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side, nor, as practicable, more than 2 points abaft the beam on their respective sides.

To make the use of these portable lights more certain and easy, the lanterns containing them shall each be painted outside with the colour of the light they respectively contain, and shall be provided with proper screens.

Article 7.—Steam vessels of less than 40, and vessels under oars or sails of less than 20, tons gross tonnage, respectively, and rowing boats, when underway, shall not be obliged to carry the lights mentioned in Article 2 (a) (b) and (c), but if they do not carry them, they shall be provided with the following lights :—

1. Steam vessels of less than 40 tons shall carry :

(a) In the fore part of the vessel, or on or in front of the funnel where it can best be seen, and at a height above the gunwale of not less than 9 feet, a bright white light constructed and fixed as prescribed in Article 2 (a), and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(b) Green and red side-lights constructed and fixed as prescribed in Article 2 (b) and (c), and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 1 mile, or a combined lantern showing a green light and a red light from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on their respective sides. Such lantern shall be carried not less than 3 feet below the white light.

2. Small steamboats, such as are carried by sea-going vessels, may carry the white light at a less height than 9 feet above the gunwale, but it shall be carried above the combined lantern, mentioned in subdivision 1 (b).

3. Vessels under oars or sails, of less than 20 tons, shall have ready at hand a lantern with a green glass on one side and a red glass on the other, which, on the approach of or two other vessels, shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision, so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

4. Rowing boats, whether under oars, or sail, shall have ready at hand a lantern showing a white light, which shall be temporarily exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision.

The vessels referred to in this Article shall not be obliged to carry the lights prescribed by Article 4 (a) and Article 11, last paragraph.

Article 8.—Pilot vessels, when engaged on their station on pilotage duty shall not show the lights required for other vessels, but shall carry a white light at the masthead, visible all round the horizon, and shall also exhibit a flare-up light or flare-up lights at short intervals, which shall never exceed 15 minutes.

On the near approach of or to other vessels they shall have their side-lights lighted, ready for use, and shall flash or show them at short intervals, to indicate the direction in which they are heading, but the green light shall not be shown on the port side, nor the red light on the starboard side.

A pilot-vessel of such a class as to be obliged to go alongside of a vessel to put a pilot on board, may show the white light instead of carrying it at the masthead, and may, instead of the coloured lights above mentioned, have at hand ready for use a lantern with a green glass on the one side and a red glass on the other, to be used as prescribed above.

Pilot vessels, when not engaged on their station on pilotage duty, shall carry lights similar to those of other vessels of their tonnage.

*Article 9.

Article 10.—A vessel which is being overtaken by another shall show from her stern to such last-mentioned vessel a white light or a flare-up light.

The white light required to be shown by this Article may be fixed and carried in a lantern, but in such case the lantern shall be so constructed, fitted, and screened that it shall throw an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 12 points of the compass, viz., for 6 points from right aft on each side of the vessel, so as to be visible at a distance of at least 1 mile. Such light shall be carried as nearly as practicable on the same level as the side-lights.

Article 11.—A vessel under 150 feet in lenght, when at anchor, shall carry forward, where it can best be seen, but at a height not exceeding 20 feet above the hull, a white light in a lantern so constructed as to show a clear uniform and unbroken light visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least 1 mile.

A vessel of 150 feet or upwards in length, when at anchor, shall carry in the forward part of the vessel, at a height of not less than 20, and not exceeding 40 feet above the hull, one such light and at or near the stern of the vessel, and at such a height that it shall be not less than 15 feet lower than the forward light, another such light.

The length of a vessel shall be deemed to be the length appearing in her certificate of registry.

A vessel aground in or near a fairway shall carry the above light or lights and the two red lights prescribed by Article 4 (a).

Article 12.—Every vessel may, if necessary in order to attract attention, in addition to the lights which she is by these Rules required to carry, show a flare-up light or use any detonating signal that cannot be mistaken for a distress signal.

Article 13.—Nothing in these Rules shall interfere with the operation of any special rules made by the Government of any nation with respect to additional station and signal lights for two or more ships of war or for vessels sailing under convoy, or with the exhibition of recognition signals adopted by shipowners, which have been authorized by their respective Governments and duly registered and published.

* This Article will deal with regulations affecting fishing boats, and will be the subject of another Order, which will be submitted to Her Majesty for approval at a later date.

Article 14.—A steam vessel proceeding under sail only, but having her funnel up, shall carry in daytime, forward, where it can best be seen, one black ball or shape 2 feet in diameter.

Sound-Signals for Fog, etc.

Article 15.—All signals prescribed by this Article for vessels under way shall be given :

1. By "steam vessels" on the whistle or siren.
2. By "sailing vessels and vessels towed" on the fog-horn.

The words "prolonged blast" used in this Article, shall mean a blast of from 4 to 6 seconds' duration.

A steam vessel shall be provided with an efficient whistle or siren, sounded by steam or some substitute for steam, so placed that the sound may not be intercepted by any obstruction, and with an efficient fog-horn,to be sounded by mechanical means, and also with an efficient bell.* A sailing vessel of 20 tons gross tonnage or upwards shall be provided with a similar fog-horn and bell.

In fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain storms, whether by day or night, the signals described in this Article shall be used as follows, viz. :—

(a) A steam vessel having way upon her, shall sound, at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, a prolonged blast.

(b) A steam vessel under way, but stopped and having no way upon her, shall sound at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, 2 prolonged blasts, with an interval of about 1 second between them.

(c) A sailing vessel under way shall sound, at intervals of not more than 1 minute, when on the starboard tack one blast, when on the port tack two blasts in succession, and when with the wind abaft the beam three blasts in succession.

(d) A vessel, when at anchor, shall, at intervals of not more than 1 minute, ring the bell rapidly for about 5 seconds.

(e) A vessel, when towing a vessel employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable, and a vessel under way, which is unable to get out of the way of an approaching vessel through being not under command, or unable to manœuvre as required by these Rules, shall, instead of the signals prescribed in sub-divisions (a) and (c) of the Article, at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, sound three blasts in succession, viz., one prolonged blast followed by two short blasts. A vessel towed may give this signal and she shall not give any other.

Sailing-vessels and boats of less than 20 tons gross tonnage shall not be obliged to give the above-mentioned signals, but if they do not, they shall make some other efficient sound-signal at intervals of not more than 1 minute.

Speed of Ships to be Moderate in Fog, etc.

Article 16.—Every vessel shall, in a fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain-storms, go at a moderate speed having careful regard to the existing circumstances and conditions.

A steam vessel hearing, apparently forward of her beam, the fog-signal of a vessel the position of which is not ascertained, shall, so far as the circumstances of the case admit, stop her engines, and then navigate with caution until danger of collision is over.

Steering and Sailing Rules.

Preliminary—Risk of Collision.

Risk of collision can, when circumstances permit, be ascertained by carefully watching the compass bearing of an approaching vessel. If the bearing does not appreciably change, such risk should be deemed to exist.

Article 17.—When two sailing vessels are approching one another, so as to involve risk of collision, one of them shall keep out of the way of the other, as follows, viz:—

(a) A vessel which is running free shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is close-hauled.

(b) A vessel which is close hauled on the port tack shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is close-hauled on the starboard tack.

(c) When both are running free, with the wind on different sides, the vessel which has the wind on the port side shall keep out of the way of the other.

(d) When both are running free, with the wind on the same side, the vessel which is to windward shall keep out of the way of the vessel which is to leeward.

(e) A vessel which has the wind aft shall keep out of the way of the other vessel.

Article 18.—When two steam vessels are meeting end on, or nearly end on, so as to involve risk of collision, each shall alter her course to starboard, so that each may pass on the per side of the other.

This Article only applies to cases where vessels are meeting end on, or nearly end on, in such a manner as to involve risk of collision, and does not apply to two vessels which must, if both keep on their respective courses, pass clear of each other.

* In all cases where the Rules require a bell to be used, a drum may be substituted on board Turkish vessels, or a gong where such articles are used on board shall sea-going vessels.

The only cases to which it does apply are when each of the two vessels is end on, or nearly end on, to the other; in other words to cases in which, by day, each vessel sees the masts of the other in a line, or nearly in a line, with her own; and, by night, to cases in which each vessel is in such a position as to see both the side-lights of the other.

It does not apply, by day, to cases in which a vessel sees another ahead crossing her own course; or by night to cases where the red light of one vessel is opposed to the red light of the other, or where the green light of one vessel is opposed to the green light of the other, or where a red light without a green light, or a green light without a red light, is seen ahead, or where both green and red lights are seen any where but ahead.

Article 19.—When two steam vessels are crossing, so as to involve risk of collision, the vessel which has the other on her own starboard side shall keep out of the way of the other.

Article 20.—When a steam vessel and a sailing vessel are proceeding in such directions as to involve risk of collision, the steam vessel shall keep out of the way of the sailing vessel.

Article 21.—Where by any of the Rules one of two vessels is to keep out of the way, the other shall keep her course and speed.

Note.—When, in consequence of thick weather or other causes, such vessel finds herself so close that collision cannot be avoided by the action of the giving-way vessel alone, she also shall take such action as will best aid to avert collision. (See articles 27 and 29.)

Article 22.—Every vessel which is directed by these Rules to keep out of the way of another vessel shall, if the circumstances of the case admit, avoid crossing ahead of the other.

Article 23.—Every steam vessel, which is directed by these Rules to keep out of the way of another vessel shall on approaching her, if necessary, slacken her speed or stop or reverse.

Article 24.—Notwithstanding anything contained in these Rules, every vessel, overtaking any other, shall keep out of the way of the overtaken vessel.

Every vessel coming up with another vessel from any direction more than two points abaft her beam, i.e., in such a position, with reference to the vessel which she is overtaking, that at night she would be unable to see either of that vessel's side-lights, shall be deemed to be an overtaking vessel; and no subsequent alteration of the bearing between the two vessels shall make the overtaking vessel a crossing vessel within the meaning of these Rules, or relieve her of the duty of keeping clear of the overtaken vessel until she is finally past and clear.

As by day the overtaking vessel cannot always know with certainty whether she is forwarded of or abaft this direction from the other vessel, she should, if in doubt, assume that she is an overtaking vessel and keep out of the way.

Article 25.—In narrow channels every steam vessel shall, when it is safe and practicable, keep to that side of fair-way or mid channel which lies on the starboard side of such vessel.

Article 26.—Sailing vessels under way shall keep out of the way of sailing vessels or boats fishing with nets or lines, or trawls. This Rule shall not give to any vessel or boat engaged in fishing the right of obstructing a fairway used by vessels other than fishing-vessels or boats.

Article 27.—In obeying and construing these Rules, due regard shall be had to all dangers of navigation and collision, and to any special circumstances which may render a departure from the above rules necessary in order to avoid immediate danger.

Sound Signals for Vessels in Sight of one another.

Article 28.—The words "short blast" used in this Article shall mean a blast of about one seconds duration

When vessels are in sight of one another, a steam vessel under way, in taking any course authorized or required by these Rules, shall indicate that course by the following signals on her whistle or siren, viz.:—

One short blast to mean, "I am directing my course to starboard."
Two short blasts to mean, "I am directing my course to port."
Three short blasts to mean, "My engines are going full speed astern."

No Vessel under any Circumstances to neglect proper Precautions.

Article 29.—Nothing in these Rules shall exonerate any vessel, or the owner, or master, or crew, thereof, from the consequences of any neglect to carry lights or signals, or of any neglect to keep a proper look-out, or of the neglect of any precaution which may be required by the ordinary practice of seamen, or by the special circumstances of the case.

Reservation of Rules for Harbours and Inland Navigation.

Article 30.—Nothing in these Rules shall interfere with the operation of a special rule, duly made by local authority, relative to the navigation of any harbour, river, or inland waters.

SCHEDULE II.

Distress Signals.

Article 31.—When a vessel is in distress and requires assistance from other vessels or from the shore, the following shall be the signals to be used or displayed by her, either together or separately, viz.:—

In the day time—

1. A gun or other explosive signal fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. The International Code signal of distress indicated by N C;
3. The distance signal, consisting of a square flag, having either above or below it a ball or anything resembling a ball;
4. A continuous sounding with any fog-signal apparatus.

A night—

1. A gun or other explosive signal fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. Flames on the vessel (as from a burning tar-barrel, oil-barrel, etc.);
3. Rockets or shells, throwing stars of any colour or description, fired one at a time, at short intervals;
4. A continuous sounding with any fog-signal apparatus.

THE BIHAR SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING.

Prospectus for Admission.

THIS School was formally opened on 11th July 1896 by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal. The School is under the management of the Principal of the Patna College assisted by a Board of Visitors. The School owes its origin to a fund raised by Behari gentlemen to commemorate the visit to India of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales. The fund so raised was called the Prince of Wales' Reception Fund. The object of the fund was the promotion of technical instruction in Bihar.

2. The School as at present constituted is chiefly engaged in training students for Engineering appointments. The Engineer students have a course of study which extends over three years. The curriculum includes—

(1) a sound study of elementary mathematics,

(2) careful training in Survey work,

(3) drawing both Freehand and Engineering,

(4) elements of road-making and the construction of simple buildings,

(5) workshop practice with hand tools and with machinery.

The necessary additional buildings are in process of construction. It is hoped that after a short time it may be found practicable so to develop the Engineering teaching that students shall be prepared for the Provincial Branch of the Public Works Department. It is also in contemplation to add class instruction in Electricity and Chemistry.

3. The monthly fee at present is Re. 1. All scholarship-holders, however, receive free tuition. Some Government scholarships are awarded each year on the results of the first year and second year class annual examinations.

4. The next session will commence on 13th July 1897.

5. In considering the claims of candidates for admission into the School, preference will ordinarily be given to students who have been in the second class of a High English Government School or of a similar school under public management.

6. In the Engineering Department the teaching is given in English. There is, however, an Amin class, admission to which may be obtained by students who do not know English. In the Amin class the course of study is for one year only. The Amin student is taught elementary surveying with a corresponding amount of Mathematics and of Geometrical Drawing. An Amin student is not admitted to the Workshop. A student in the first year class of the Engineering Department who fails to pass the examination for promotion to the second year class, but who has shown an adequate knowledge of elementary surveying, may at his option leave the school with an Amin certificate.

7. As the fund was contributed solely by Behari gentlemen, and as the space for students is limited, it has by Government been ordered that in selecting students for the new first year Engineer class, preference shall ordinarily be given—

(1) to students who are Behari by race, and

(2) to Bengalis who were bonâ fide domiciled in Behar before they applied for admission to the school.

8. Except in very special cases a student will not be admitted either to the Amin class or to the first year Engineer class for the session that commences 13th July 1897, unless application for admission is made before 31st July 1897.

9. Every candidate for admission to the School must bring a certificate of good character from the Head of the Institution from which he has come.

A. C. EDWARDS, Principal, Patna College.

BANKIPORE, the 5th May 1897.

CIVIL ENGINEERING COLLEGE, SIBPUR.

Session 1897-98.

CANDIDATES for admission to the Engineer Department should apply to the Principal before the 15th May 1897. The session begins on Monday, the 7th June 1897.

Candidates must furnish proof that they have passed one of the following tests:—

(1) The F.A. examination of the Calcutta University, or a similar standard of any Indian University recognised by the Calcutta University. The candidate's age must be under 21 years.

(2) The B.A. examination in the B Course in Physics and Chemistry. The candidate's age must be under 23 years. (These students are admitted direct into the second-year class.)

The number to be admitted each year is limited to 40. The position in the University examinations and the age of the candidates will be taken into consideration when selection is made, and such selection will be made by the Principal.

Ten scholarships will be awarded to students entering the Engineer Department not being already holders of junior or senior scholarships. Every applicant before admission the College will be examined by the College Surgeon as to his physical strength, fitness for manual labour, and eyesight.

Further particulars will be supplied on application to the Principal.

5. Any matriculated student of the College may, with the permission of the Principal and the Professor of the subject, attend courses of lectures or departments of hospital practice in addition to the full curriculum for the year, and shall be entitled to certificates of attendance at such extra lectures, if the Professor is satisfied that he or she has really studied the subject. The fees payable in advance for such additional courses are the following:—

	Rs.
For a single course of lectures on each subject in one year ...	40
For six months' attendance in each department of hospital practice ...	60

6. Any matriculated student who leaves the College before completing his University course, with the object of continuing his studies at a medical school in Europe, may receive certificates of attendance of lectures on payment of fees at the rate fixed in the foregoing rule. But in calculating the sum to be so paid, the amount of the fees already paid by him as a regular student, or, in the case of a free student, the amount which would have been paid by him had he been a paying student, shall be deducted.

7. Any person not being a matriculated student of the College who wishes to attend any course of lectures, or any department of hospital practice, may do so with the permission of the Principal and Professor of the subject on payment, in advance, of fees at the rates fixed in paragraph 5. If he has passed the Entrance examination of the University, he shall receive certificates of attendance at lectures. If he has not passed the Entrance examination, he shall receive no class certificates.

8 At the end of their first year, students will be required to pass a College test examination in Anatomy, Chemistry, and Botany. Those who gain not less than 20 per cent. in two subjects, and not less than 15 per cent. in a third, will be eligible for promotion to the second-year class. Those who fail to gain the aforesaid percentage of marks will not be eligible for promotion, but will go through the first-year class again.

9 Students of the second year will be required to pass a College test examination in Anatomy, Physiology, and Materia Medica. Those who pass the examination with 20 per cent. in two subjects and 15 per cent. in a third will be entitled to go up in the following March or April for the Preliminary Scientific Examination of the Calcutta University, the subjects of which are Chemistry and Botany. Those who (after passing the College test) fail at the University examination will be entitled, equally with those who pass it, to join the third-year class, at the end of which the former will have to present themselves, as at present, for the combined Preliminary Scientific and 1st L.M.S (or 1st M.B.) examination.

10. Those students who fail at the College test examination of the second year will not be debarred from going up for the Preliminary Scientific examination, but will be encouraged to do so in order to get that stage over; but whether they pass or fail at the University examination, they will be relegated for a further year to the second-year class, provided that those who pass the University examination will not be required to attend the courses in those subjects in which they have passed.

11. Students of the third year will present themselves for the 1st L.M.S. or 1st M.B. examination of the Calcutta University. Those who fail at this examination will be relegated for a further year to the third-year class.

12. Students of the first or second-year class who fail a second time, at the same stage, to gain promotion to the next higher class, will be removed from the College and will not be entitled to re-admission. Third-year students who fail a second time will be liable to removal from the College; but if they are specially recommended by the Principal, they may again be relegated to the third-year class, on payment of the fees laid down in Rule 16, and re-admitted to the 1st L.M.S. or 1st M.B. examination, and this concession may be allowed for any number of years at the discretion of the Principal.

13. Students of the fourth-year class will be required to pass a College test examination in Surgery, Medicine, Midwifery, and Medical Jurisprudence. Those who pass the examination with 20 per cent. of the marks in three subjects, and 15 per cent. in a fourth, will be eligible for promotion to the fifth-year class Those who fail will be relegated to the fourth-year class for a further year. The examination in Surgery and Medicine will be both theoretical and clinical; but those students who can obtain from the Visiting Surgeon or Physician, to whose wards they have been attached, a certificate that they have really profited by their instruction in either subject, will be excused the clinical examination in that subject.

14. Students who fail at the 2nd L.M.S or 2nd M.B. examination will have to attend a further course of lectures in the subject or subjects in which they have failed, in accordance with the regulations of the University.

15. The Principal will determine the maximum number that may be admitted to the first-year class. Students who have failed at the test examination of the first-year will have a prior claim to re-admission over new students.

16. Students re-admitted to a class after failure at the test examination will be required to pay half the regular fee for the session (Rs. 35), but extra fees as for dissection (Rs. 6) in full. The half fee must be paid at the commencement of the session in June. Those, however, who, after failing either at the Preliminary Scientific Examination or at the final examination, have to attend a further course of lectures in the subject or subjects in which they failed, shall be required to pay for such lectures a fee of Rs. 20 for one subject, Rs. 30 for two, and Rs. 35 for three. Exceptions to this latter rule may be made in special cases by the Director of Public Instruction on the recommendation of the Principal.

These scholarships are tenable for two years, provided the holder passes creditably the Test and Honour examinations at the end of his fourth year. In the event of any scholarship being forfeited under this condition, it may be awarded for one year to any student of the fifth year who has fulfilled the conditions and is not the holder of any scholarship. These scholarships shall not be awarded to students who have gained the Durga Charan Laha scholarship of Rs. 30 per mensem or any other scholarship.

EASTERN ARCHIPELAGO—JAVA.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 199 of 1897) that the Time Signals at Tanjong Priok are now made as follows:—

Tanjong Priok Time Signal consists of 4 boards, placed above the signal station, which are inclined, at an angle of 45°, five minutes before signal; placed vertically at two minutes before signal; and dropped into a horizontal position at Noon, and at 1h. 7m. 32·6s. P.M. Tanjong Priok mean time, equivalent respectively to 16h. 52m. 27·4s., and 18h. 0m. 0s. Greenwich mean time.

Position, lat. 6° 5′ 48″ S., long. 106° 53′ 9″ E.

Should the signal fail, a red flag, with white centre, is hoisted, and kept flying until 0h. 55m. P.M.; and the signal is repeated at 1h. 0m. 0s., Tanjong Priok mean time; equivalent to 17h. 52m. 27·4s., Greenwich mean time.

(2) Surabaya—Amended particulars of Time Signal.

Also, with reference to Notice to Mariners No. 755 of 1896:—

That the Time Signal at Surabaya is now made from a mast on the western mole head at a height of 65 feet above the sea, with 4 boards, in exactly the same manner as described above at Tanjong Priok, at Noon, Surabaya mean time, equivalent to 16h. 29m. 2·6s. Greenwich mean time.

Should the signal fail, it is repeated, as at Tanjong Priok, at 1h. 0m. 0s. Surabaya mean time, equivalent to 17h. 29m. 2·6s. Greenwich mean time.

Position, lat. 7° 11′ 55″ S., long. 112° 44′ 21″ E.

NOTE.—If, at either Tanjong Priok or Surabaya Time Signal stations, a blue flag is hoisted at 11h. 30m. A.M., or after the signal at Noon has failed, it signifies that the time signal apparatus is out of order, and that no further time signal can be made on that day.

The above time signals are not made on Sundays or holidays.

INDIA, SOUTH—Indian ocean.

Caution—Reported icebergs.

With reference to Notice to Mariners No. 7, dated 15th January 1897, issued by this office, the British Admiralty has given further notice (No. 201 of 1897) that icebergs are still being reported in unusual numbers in comparatively low latitudes in the Southern Indian ocean between the meridians of 40° E. and 84° E., thus:—

(1) On 10th January 1897 the Dutch barque Concordia passed icebergs between lats 42° S. and 43° S., and longs. 46° E. and 48° E.

(2) The steam-vessel Kaikoura, from 10th to 16th January 1897, between lats. 45° S. to 48° S., longs. 42° E. to 80° E., passed many icebergs, especially in about lat. 48° S., longs. 59° E. to 65° E.

(3) The steam-vessel Port Chalmers, from 13th to about 18th January 1897, between lats. 44° S. and 46° S., and longs. 45° E. and 75° E., passed many bergs, much broken up in appearance.

(4) The steam-vessel Hubbuck, from 17th to 22nd January 1897, between lats. 45° S. to 47° S., longs. 40° E. to 74° E., passed icebergs, one in the last-mentioned longitude about 5 miles long.

(5) The steam-vessel Gulf of Lions, from 12th to 18th January 1897, between lats. 44° S. to 47 S., longs. 41° E. to 80° E., passed many icebergs, some said to be 400 feet in height.

(6) The steam-vessel Cornwall, on 28th January 1897, passed icebergs in lat. 41° S., longs. 52° to 53° E.

(7) The steam-vessel Nairnshire, from 8th to about 18th February 1897, between lats. 43° S. and 47° S., longs. 45° E. to 84° E., passed many icebergs; and during a fog on the 8th February was in collision with a low berg.

As it is not likely that ice in such unusual quantities will quickly disappear, the Seaman is cautioned that the route recommended in the Admiralty book of Ocean Passages, 1896, pages 138, 139, should be followed; and particular attention is directed to the reason on page 139 for not recommending a higher parallel than 40° S.

Non-existence of shoal south-west of Krishna shoal light-vessel.

WITH reference to Notice to Mariners No. 293, dated 19th December 1893, issued by this office, on a report by the Master of the steam-vessel Vita that he obtained a sounding of 11 feet at low water springs, in a position with Krishna shoal light-vessel bearing N.E. ¼ N., distant 6 miles; or approximately in lat. 15° 31¼′ N., long. 95° 30¼′ E., the British Admiralty has given notice (No. 191 of 1896) that a close examination of the locality, extending upwards of 4 miles in every direction from the above position, has recently been made by Commander C. F. Oldham, R.N., in charge of Marine Survey of India, with the result that a very even bottom was found, gradually deepening seaward, and no indication whatever of a shoal.

Amended positions of islet and rocks eastward of Awang bay.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 183 of 1897) that the islet and rocks above water, shown on the charts eastward of Awang bay, south coast of Lombok, are situated more to the eastward; and they have been placed in the undermentioned positions on the Admiralty chart;—

1. A rock above water in lat. 8° 55′ 30″ S., long. 116° 29′ 30″ E.
2. A cluster of an islet and three rocks above water, included between lats. 8° 55′ 10″ S. and 8° 55′ 50″ S., and longs. 116° 30′ 15″ E. and 116° 30′ 45″ E.

AUSTRALIA—HERVEY BAY.

Additional lights, Little Woody island.

THE Port Master, Brisbane, has given notice (No. 4 of 1897) that two pairs of white leading lights will be exhibited from Little Woody Island on and after the 31st March. The pair of lights showing to the northward are 450 feet apart, bearing when in line S. 43° E., and lead about two cables clear of the Long Middle Bank buoy. The second pair showing to the southward are 350 feet apart, they bear when in line N. 3° E., and lead about midway between the red beacon and black buoy shown on chart, intersecting the line of leading lights shown from White Cliffs nearly midway between the White Cliffs and the red buoy.

Directions.—Vessels leaving the Mary River or bound North through Sandy Strait will run down the White Cliffs lead as hitherto until the white leading lights on Little Woody Island bearing N. 3° E. come in line. Keep the latter in line until about half-a-mile distant from the island when haul up N. W. by N. ½ N. passing it at a distance of three cables, and continue until the white leading lights on the north end of the island are in line astern bearing S. 43° E. Keep the last-named pair in line until the Woody Island lights change from red to white, when proceed as before.

FINAL REPORT ON THE WHEAT CROP OF 1896-97 IN BENGAL.

THE following is published for general information.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Final report on the wheat crop of 1896-97 in Bengal.

Character of the season.—The character of the early part of the last wheat season was described in the preliminary note on the crop issued on the 3rd February 1897.

The season, to begin with, was very unfavourable to the prospects of the wheat and other rabi crops. The entire absence of rain for two months from the latter part of September to the latter part of November, combined with the effects of an abnormally short rainfall during the monsoon months, reduced the moisture of the soil and interfered with the preparation of land and the sowings of the rabi crops generally. Fortunately, the season from the end of November onwards proved to be favourable except in Bengal Proper for the wheat as well as for other rabi crops. All the wheat-growing districts of Bihar and Chota Nagpur received more or less rain in the latter part of November and in December and January, which greatly benefitted the standing crops. There was light but general rain again in February which still further improved the prospects of the crops. In March the rainfall was above the normal in every district of these Provinces, the excess amounting to nearly an inch in Bihar and Chota Nagpur. The greater part of the rainfall of March fell between the 22nd and the 30th of the month and came too late to do good to the standing crops, and it may have done some injury to the wheat crop, much of which was then lying on the threshing floors. Injury from the March showers is reported, however, only from Palamau. The frequent showers which fell during the cold weather made up to a large extent for the great deficiency of moisture which had seriously endangered the crop in the beginning of the season. The effects of the drought in October and November are still sufficiently apparent in the diminished area sown with wheat in the last season and in the poor outturn. The rain which fell in the early part of the cold weather (i.e., in November, December and January) was practically absent in the wheat growing districts of Bengal Proper, where the crops suffered from a continued want of moisture, and consequently gave very poor outturn.

2. Area sown.—The total area sown in wheat is shown in the appended returns to be 1,273,300 acres, against 1,427,400 acres in 1895-96. The decrease in the area in the season under report amounts to 154,100 acres, or 10·79 per cent. on the estimated area of the previous year. The decrease is due entirely to the drought in the early part of the season, and would have been greater but for the fact that in several districts (e.g., Shahabad and Gaya) wheat was sown on lands where the winter rice crop had failed.

3. Estimated outturn.—The outturn of the wheat crop was estimated in the preliminary note at between 10 annas and 11 annas. The rain which fell since the issue of the preliminary forecast appears to have improved the condition of the crop. The outturn of the crop may now be estimated at 12 annas or three-fourths of an average crop. In the districts of the Patna Division which contain a little under one-half of the total wheat-growing area in the Lower Provinces, the outturn of the wheat crop may be put at 13 annas, and in the Bhagalpur Division, which contains about one-third of the total wheat-growing area, at 12 annas.

4. Under orders of Government, an abstract statement showing the prices and general conditions of stocks of food-grains as reported by District Officers is annexed to this report.

Final report on the bhadoi crop of 1896, dated 8th December 1896. Final report on winter rice crop of 1896, dated 8th December 1896. Preliminary note on the outturn of rabi food-crops harvested in the spring of 1897, dated 3rd April 1897.

5. The following is a summary of the harvests of the year 1896-97, based on the marginally-noted reports published by this Department.

Bhadoi crops.—The last bhadoi season was very unfavourable, being characterised by short rainfall in every month since July in all parts of these Provinces except in Orissa. In Orissa the rainfall was excessive in July and August, and caused repeated floods, which destroyed the standing crops over a large area. The total area cultivated with food and non-food crops in 1896 was returned as 15,931,600 acres, against 15,740,900 acres in the previous year. The increase was nominal. Out of 43 districts from which reports were received only one district, viz., Tipperah, reported a full average crop; eight districts, viz., Burdwan, Bankura, 24-Parganas, Dacca, Faridpur, Backergunge, Chittagong and Gaya reported the crop to be from 12 to 14 annas; 27 districts, viz, Birbhum, Midnapore, Hooghly, Murshidabad, Khulna, Dinajpur, Jalpaiguri, Darjeeling, Rangpur, Bogra, Pabna, Mymensingh, Noakhali, Patna, Champaran, Darbhanga, Monghyr, Bhagalpur, Purnea, Malda, Sonthal Parganas, Balasore, Angul and Khondmals, Hazaribagh, Lohardaga, Manbhum and Singhbhum from 8 to 2 annas, and 7 districts, viz., Nadia, Rajshahi, Shahabad, Saran, Muzaffarpur, Cuttack and Puri at less than 8 annas. On the whole the yield of the bhadoi crops generally for these Provinces did not exceed 10½ annas, while the yield of the bhadoi food crops alone did not, perhaps, exceed 9½ annas of a full average crop.

Winter rice.—The winter rice crop of 1896 suffered very seriously from the deficient rainfall of July and August and the early cessation of the monsoon in the middle of September. The absence of rain in October was further aggravated in the riparian districts of East and North Bengal by the unusually low level of the rivers, which did not rise high enough to inundate the bhils where much of the winter rice crop is grown. The total area cropped with winter rice in 1896 was estimated at 29,341,600 acres, against 30,402,300 acres in 1895. The decrease was due to the insufficient rainfall during the transplanting season. Out of 45 districts, only one district, viz., Bogra, returned a crop as much as 12 annas; eight districts, viz., 24-Parganas, Dinajpur, Rangpur, Backergunge, Chittagong, Patna, Angul and Singhbhum, estimated it at 10 to 12 annas; 15 districts, viz., Birbhum, Bankura, Midnapore, Hooghly, Darjeeling, Dacca, Tipperah, Noakhali, Gaya, Monghyr, Bhagalpur, Purnea, Sonthal Parganas, Puri and Lohardaga between 8 and 10 annas; 12 districts, viz., Burdwan, Murshidabad, Khulna, Rajshahi, Jalpaiguri, Mymensingh, Faridpur, Cuttack, Balasore, Hazaribagh, Palamau and Manbhum, between 6 and 8 annas; 4 districts, viz, Pabna, Shahabad, Darbhanga and Malda between 4 and 6 annas, and the remaining 5 districts, viz., Nadia, Jessore, Saran, Champaran and Muzaffarpur at less than 4 annas. For the Lower Provinces, as a whole, the outturn of the crop was estimated at only 7½ annas, or slightly below half the average crop.

Rabi crops.—The rabi crops of 1896-97 suffered very badly at the time of sowing for want of moisture in the soil, due to the deficient rainfall during the previous monsoon and the entire cessation of rain in October and the greater part of November. Showers were, however, received at intervals during the last cold weather, which did much good in Bihar and in Chota Nagpur. The total area cropped with rabi food crops in 1896-97 was estimated at 8,226,300 acres, against 8,993,000 acres in the previous year. The decrease was due to the cessation of the monsoon in September last. Out of 45 districts in the Lower Provinces, only one district, viz., Gaya, returned the crops to be average or 16 annas;

6 districts, viz., Khulna, Rangpur, Muzaffarpur, Darbhanga, Bhagalpur and Malda returned crops varying from 12 to 14 annas; 22 districts, viz., Midnapore, Jessore, Dinajpur, Jalpaiguri, Darjeeling, Bogra, Dacca, Mymensingh, Backergunge, Tippera, Noakhali, Patna, Shahabad, Saran, Champaran, Monghyr, Purnea, Sonthal Parganas, Cuttack, Balasore, Puri and Hazaribagh from 8 to 12 annas; and 16 districts, viz., Burdwan, Birbhum, Bankura, Hooghly, 24-Parganas, Nadia, Murshidabad, Rajshahi, Pabna, Faridpur, Chittagong, Angul and Khondmals, Lohardaga, Palamau, Manbhum and Singhbhum returned the crops to be less than 8 annas. On the whole the outturn of the rabi food crops is estimated at $10\frac{1}{3}$ annas. In the Patna and Bhagalpur Divisions, which together comprise $\frac{5}{8}$ths of the total area under rabi food crops, the outturn was, perhaps, not less than 12 annas.

6. Taking into consideration all the harvests of the year, it seems probable that the total supply of food-grains derived from the three harvests bhadoi, aghani and rabi of 1896-97 amounted to only about one-half of the average yield.

7. Food stocks and prices of food grains.—The supply of food-grains is reported to be below the average in every district of these Provinces. Detailed statistics of the prices of food grains are now being published weekly by Government. The prices of common rice have generally been steady between 9 and 10 seers per rupee for the last few months, except in Orissa, where the range has been between 11 and 13 seers. This steadiness gives ground for the hope that the food stocks existing in the country, combined with imports from abroad, will suffice for the need of these Provinces till the reaping of the next bhadoi harvest.

8. Wheat exports from Bengal and Bihar.—It will be seen from the figures quoted in the margin that there was a very large falling off in the imports of wheat into Calcutta from Bengal Proper and Bihar during the nine months, April to December 1896, as compared with the imports in the corresponding period of 1895. The decrease was due to short production in 1895-96, to the high prices of food grains prevailing in Bengal, and to the diversion of part of the exports from Bihar to the North-West Provinces during the latter months of the year 1896.

Imports of wheat into Calcutta from Bengal Proper and Bihar during nine months, April to December—

The increase over last year's cultivation is due to the failure of the rice crop which led to an increased cultivation of wheat. Want of rain affected the outturn.

The area figures in columns 2 and 3 and the estimates of outturn in column 8 have been taken from the preliminary forecast. The estimated outturn in 1896-97 has been taken from the preliminary rabi forecast.
Darbhanga ...	90,000	100,400	102,600	—12·35	—13·23	16	8	28,500	22,100	26,600	+7·73	+7·99	In the preliminary forecast the total outturn of the district was estimated at about 8 annas, viz., Darbhanga 6 annas, Madhubani 4 annas, and Saraspur 13 annas, owing to insufficient moisture and absence of rain. The rainfall during January and February, which was distributed throughout the district, had a wonderful effect in improving prospects. In Madhubani a considerably smaller area than usual was sown owing to drought. The crop which came up gave nearly an average outturn.	The crop should be shown as 16 annas, if it was an average crop wherever it came up. The loss caused by drought by preventing sowing or germination has been shown. It is believed, in decrease of area, and should not influence the annawari estimate of the crop.

For want of timely rainfall the soil was unfit for sowing, and hence three-fourths of the last year's area is shown in column 2. The poor outturn shown in column 7 is also due to cessation of rain and want of moisture in land due to low flood.
Darjeeling ...	5,100	5,100	5,100	.....	.....	7	8	400	500	700	—20·00	—42·85	Want of seasonable rain accounts for the decrease in outturn.

There is doubt whether a 2-anna crop will be housed, as the weather for the past month has seriously damaged the reaped crop stacked on the threshing floors.	The estimate of outturn this year seems to be unusually low. There is no apparent reason why the outturn of the crop on the area sown should be so low in Pabna. It is not certain if the estimate of 8 annas is for the area sown this year or refers to the yield this year as compared with the normal yield.
Assam ...	8,000	8,000	8,700	.....	−8·04	8	11	800	1,100	1,300	−15·18	−38·76	The decrease in the outturn is due to the deficiency of rainfall.

If the acreage was only one-fifth of the normal, then 3 annas is too high an estimate.	The acreage has no relation to the character of the crop shown in column 7. The latter should represent the character of the crop on the actual crop-bearing area, and not the total yield, as compared with the normal yield.

STATEMENT II.

Abstract of the information regarding the prices and general condition of stocks and of food-grains in the Province for 1896-97, as furnished by District Officers.

DISTRICT, WITH DATE OF REPORT.	Cause of extension of wheat cultivation in recent years.	Whether the produce of the year's supply of food-grains has been much above or below the average.	Whether the food-stocks of former harvests are plentiful or not.	Whether prices of food-grains generally have ruled higher or lower than usual.	What have been the causes which have caused an increase or decrease of exports of wheat, and how far has the movement been influenced by a scarcity or otherwise of food-grains.	Remarks by the Agricultural Department.

Burdwan ... 19-4-97.	.....	Below the average throughout the district.	Not very plentiful...	Higher than usual in all parts of the district.	Very little wheat is cultivated in this district, and what is grown is for home consumption and not for export.
Birbhum ... 17-4-97.	.....	Much below the average	The food-stock of former harvests, i.e., of the years 1893 and 1894, were plentiful, but that of 1895 was the reverse. On the whole the stock at present in the district is sufficient.	Higher than usual	Wheat is grown in a very small area, and the trade in it is very insignificant. There has been a decrease in the export of wheat from this district owing to the scanty outturn in the previous years. The Railway Statistics show that only 378 maunds of wheat were exported during a period of ten months, from January to October 1896, against 418 maunds during the same period in 1895. On the other hand, the import was 1,774 maunds against 738 maunds during the above period. The scarcity of other food-grains does not seem to have had any effect in the matter, as the class which consumes wheat in the district is very limited in number.
Bankura ... 19-4-97.	.....	Ditto ditto	The produce of the crops during 1895-96 having been considerably below the average and a large quantity of the stock having also been exported to other districts during the year under report, the food-stocks of former harvests appear to be scanty.	Much higher than usual. Rice is now sold at 11 seers a rupee against 20 seers 18 chittaks of 1894-95 and 17 seers of 1895-96, and although this rate has been steady for some time, the price will, it is feared, rule still higher before the next crop is reaped.	Very little wheat is cultivated in this district, and what little is grown is not sufficient even for local consumption. Properly speaking there is no export trade of this crop, which is rather imported to meet local demand.

Howrah ... (Sadar subdivision). 29-3-97.	.....	Below the average, viz., 11 annas ...	Not plentiful	Higher	.....
24-Parganas ... 22-4-97.	.....	Much below the average	Not plentiful for local consumption ...	Higher than usual	.....
Nadia ... 6-3-97.	.....	Below the average	Not plentiful enough to make up the deficiency of the year under report.	Ditto ditto	The outturn of wheat is insignificant. There has been very little export of wheat owing to the poor outturn of the crop and to the high price of food-grains.
Murshidabad... 13-4-97.	.....	Much below the average	Not plentiful	Considerably higher than usual.	The considerable decrease in the outturn of wheat has caused a corresponding decrease in the export during the year, and the movement appears to have been influenced, to a great extent, by the scarcity prevailing during the year.
Jessore ... 7-4-97.	.....	Much below the average (by about 50 per cent. in Jhenidah and Narail subdivisions.)	Not plentiful in Sadar, Jhenidah, Bongaon and Narail subdivisions. In Magura subdivision there are no food-stocks of former harvests, the outturn of the preceding year being deficient.	Higher than usual	.....
Khulna ... 24-3-97.	.....	Much below the average	Very scanty	Very much higher than usual	.....
Rajshahi ... 5-4-97.	.....	Ditto ditto	Not plentiful	Ditto ditto ...	The export of wheat from this district is very limited, and is not affected by scarcity or otherwise of food-grains.

Dinajpur 14-4-97.	.....	Below the average, 10 annas all round	Plentiful. Supply is amply sufficient to meet the demand for export and local consumption in an ordinary year, but owing to the scarcity in other districts, the exports have been heavier than usual, and probably before the next harvest is reaped will have fallen low.	Higher than usual		The Collector's remark in column 4 apparently refers to the total supply, including old and new stocks.
		Much below the average ...	Not plentiful	Much higher than usual ...	..
Jalpaiguri 9-4-97.	.....	Below the average, 8 annas against 12 annas in the previous year.	Ditto	Higher than usual, owing chiefly to the demand in the plains. The price of coarse rice rose from 12 to 9 seers per rupee.	There is no export of wheat crop from this district. Only a small area is sown under the crop, and the produce is used for local consumption only.
Darjeeling 12-4-97.	.....
Rangpur 6-4-97.	.....	Much below the average, owing to deficient or unseasonable rainfall during the year.	Not plentiful. In this district people do not lay up large stocks. Tobacco, jute and ginger are largely cultivated, and people rely upon the proceeds for support in preference to laying by a store of food-grains.	Much higher than usual. The purchasing power of the people is comparatively higher than in less forward districts; so those who happen to have laid in a stock of grain can stand out for high prices with a certainty of getting them. There is no dearth of money, but in parts the supply of grain is barely equal to the demand.	Wheat is sown in very small quantity and is not exported. Most cultivators have a small patch for their own consumption. They do not reduce it to flour but cook it like rice.	The Collector says wheat is grown in very small quantity in the district. The wheat forecast shows, however, that nearly 40,000 acres is normally cultivated with wheat in Rangpur.
Bogra 7-4-97.	.....	The outturn of the aus crop was 12 annas against 10 annas in the previous year, and that of the aman crop 12 annas both in 1896-97 and in the year before. Of the rabi crops, the outturn of the pulses was also 12 annas in both the years. On the whole the outturn of the winter rice, which is the staple food-crop of the district, was at first expected to be a bumper crop, but, in consequence of scanty rains in August and continued drought from October, the expectation could not be realised, and though there was a 12-annas crop all round, the produce of the year's supply of the food-grains was above the ordinary requirements of the people. The prices, however, were much higher, owing to large exportations to other districts for failure of crops all over the province.	Plentiful, there being small demand for exportation in 1896-96.	Much higher than usual. The prices of rice, wheat and gram in 1896-97, as compared with the averages of the preceding five years, were as follows:—Best rice 8 seers 5 chittaks against 10 seers 6 chittaks; common rice 11 seers 1 chittak against 14 seers 2 chittaks; wheat 14 seers 2 chittaks against 12 seers 3 chittaks; and grain 11 seers 14 chittaks against 13 seers 10 chittaks per rupee.

1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Pabna ... 5-4-97.	.....	Below the average, owing to want of sufficient and seasonable rainfall during the year.	Not plentiful	Higher than usual	Very little wheat is grown in this district. It is not exported even in an ordinary year, and there was much less chance of export of this article during the year under report on account of the poor outturn of this as well as of all other crops which constitute the food-grains of this district. The local demand is supplied by importation from Calcutta, Bogra and the north-western districts. There has been no noticeable decrease in its import during the year, but only the price of it was abnormally high.
Dacca ... ... 6-4-97.	.....	Much below the average	Not plentiful	Higher than usual	.....
Mymensingh 20-3-97.	.....	Below the average	Ditto	Ditto	There were no exports of wheat from this district during the year under report.
Faridpur ... 9-4-97.	.....	Much below the average	Not plentiful, but rather insufficient...	Ditto	There is no cultivation of wheat in this district except in Goalundo. The Subdivisional Officer reports that the outturn of wheat was not more than 6 annas, and as it is not used as staple food, its exportation has not been influenced by scarcity.
Backergunge... 1-4-97.	.....	Eleven annas	In this district people store very little from previous harvests. What is now in stock is almost a negligible quantity.	Ditto	.....
Noakhali ... 7-4-97.	.....	Ditto ditto	Ditto	Much higher than usual ...	.....

Patna ...	.....	.....	.....	.....	Ditto.
Gaya ...	.....	Considerably below the average. The outturn of bhadoi was 12 annas and aghani 8 annas. Against this deficit must, however, be set a full average rabi crop, and, taking into consideration the relative outturn of the various crops, the whole outturn may be estimated at ⅞ths of the full average.	Not plentiful, but sufficient	Much higher than usual, the result of the poor crops and the scarcity in other parts of the country.	In 1895-96 there was a balance of imports over exports of wheat of a little over 3,000 maunds. In 1896-97 the balance has been in favour of exports to about 3,000 maunds. The cause of the change is the demand in account of scarcity in the North-Western Provinces.
Shahabad 8-4-97.	.....	Greatly below the average throughout the district. The general yield of the bhadoi crop was estimated at 7 annas and that of aghani rice at 6 annas. The estimate of the outturn of all rabi crops taken together was about 10 annas.	Not plentiful. Importation of grain is being now made, especially into the Bhabua subdivision.	Much higher than usual. The prices now stand at famine rates.	There was an enormous increase in the export of wheat during the year 1896-97, as compared with that of the preceding year (77,119 maunds in 1896-97, against 3,697 maunds in 1895-96). This is due to the fact that wheat has been a fair crop this year, and in clean lands especially it has been a good one, and partly to the very high prices of wheat in the North-Western Provinces and elsewhere.
Saran 22-4-97.	.....	Much below the average	Not plentiful. The produce of the district is not sufficient to provide for its inhabitants. The district depends a good deal upon imports from other districts.	Higher than usual	The export of wheat from this district during 1896-97 was 5,470 maunds against 697 maunds in the previous year. The scarcity and famine prevailing in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh have been the cause of large exports from the district, not only of wheat, but also of other food-grains.
Champaran ...	.....	.....	.....	.....	Not received.
Muzaffarpur....	.....	The outturn of the several crops in 1896-97 was as below :— Bhadoi ... ... 5 to 6 annas. Winter rice ... ... 8 ,, Rabi ... ... 11 ,, All the three crops taken together, the average outturn would be about 6¼ annas against 10¼ annas of the preceding year, or about 9 annas below the average.	The food-stock shows no sign of any depletion, and with the help of rabi just coming in, will, it is hoped, hold out for at least another two to three months.	Very high. Will continue to be so until next crops are harvested.	As usual, there is little or no export of wheat from this district. It is always imported from other places.

Whether the food-stocks of former harvests are plentiful or not.	Whether prices of food-grains generally have ruled higher or lower than usual. Remarks by the Agriculture Department.
Darbhanga ... 7-4-97.	.....	Much below the average. During the year the bhadoi yielded 9 annas for the whole district, varying from 4 annas in Madhubani to 12 annas in the Sadar and Samastipur, and that of the winter rice was only some 4½ annas in the Sadar and Madhubani and 6 annas in the Samastipur subdivision. The average outturn of rabi has been estimated at about 8 annas in Madhubani, 12 annas in Darbhanga and 16 annas in Samastipur. The rainfall of January and February had a wonderful effect in improving the barley and wheat crops, while at the same time it was too light to do any harm to the rahar and mustard.	It is believed that the food-stocks from previous harvests equalled about three months' supply or perhaps a little more.	The prices were normal up to the end of August, but since then they have risen very high.	The cultivation of wheat is not largely carried on in this district, and the produce is generally consumed locally. Export is not carried on to any appreciable extent.
Monghyr ... 5-4-97.	.....	Winter rice below the average owing to insufficient rainfall. Bhadoi was also below the average, but rabi has been an average crop.	The food-stocks of former harvests are probably almost entirely exhausted, the prevailing high prices obtainable having had the effect of increasing sales for exports. The fact that but little is being exported at present prices shows that stocks are abnormally low.	A great deal higher than usual since July last.	There has been a decrease in the export of wheat this year, as the produce of the wheat crop was less than usual. This diminution in exports was independent of the scarcity of food-grain.
Bhagalpur ... 19-4-97.	.....	Much below the average on account of insufficient rainfall.	Not plentiful. They have probably been all consumed or exported from the district.	Much higher than usual. They have approached to famine prices.	There is no extensive cultivation of wheat in the district. The produce is, perhaps, just enough for district consumption. The export of wheat during the year has been less than that in the preceding year, owing to the fact that the rabi harvest of 1896-97 was very much less than that of 1895-96. There has, however, been an enormous export trade in other food-grains owing to shorter production of wheat in 1896-97.	The Collector's statements to the effect that there is no extensive cultivation of wheat in Bhagalpur, and that the local production is just enough for local consumption, are not consistent with his estimates of wheat cultivation, according to which about 200,000 acres are normally cultivated with wheat in the dis-

Purnea 7-4-97.	... ...	Much below the average. Less than half of that of the preceding years.	The food-stocks of former harvests yet exist, but are not believed to be plentiful.	Much higher than usual ...	The export of wheat greatly decreased as compared with that of the preceding year, owing to short outturn during the year.	This has aggravated the scarcity felt in this district, and necessitated the opening of relief works.
Malda 2-4-97.	.....	Much below the average	Not plentiful	Higher than usual	During the year under report, the export of wheat was less than in previous year, owing to the produce being considerably below the average.
Santhal Parganas. 20-4-97.	.....	Much below the average	Not plentiful	Higher	The Subdivisional Officer of Godda reports that the exportation of wheat has been increased, and high prices have been paid owing to heavy demand in Bihar and North-Western Provinces on account of famine. The Subdivisional Officer, Rajmahal, reports that there has been a decrease of exports of wheat owing to the outturn being small. The Subdivisional Officer of Pakour reports that the exports of wheat are normal.
Cuttack 7-4-97.	... ...	Much below the average. Stocks were plentiful at the beginning of the year, as would be apparent from the fact that common rice, which is the staple food of the district, sold at the average price of 20 seers 9¼ chittaks per rupee in March 1896 and 26 seers 11½ chittaks in April 1896. These were speedily reduced by exports, as prices ruled high in other parts of India and in Mauritius. It cannot be said that stocks have been very seriously depleted, but in many parts of the district stocks are much smaller than usual, and it is believed the tendency is, with improved communications and greater trade facilities, for smaller stocks to be held than formerly even in conservative Orissa.	.....	Higher than usual	A limited quantity of wheat is grown in this district. None exported. The demand for consumption is met by imports from other places.

Imports.—The quantity of rice imported was ten times greater than that received in 1896, viz., 228,781 cwts. against 22,367 cwts. Of the former quantity, 224,657 cwts. came from Burma, and 4,109 cwts. from Balasore. Owing chiefly to the import of 62,794 cwts of paddy from Burma, the figures under that head rose from 9,906 cwts. to 64,498 cwts. The chief fluctuations in the trade in gram and pulse were an increase of 5,326 cwts in the supplies from Cocanada and of 2,451 cwts from Rangoon, against a decrease of 2,795 cwts. from Chandbali.

Exports.—In the following statement the total quantity of each kind of food-grain exported by sea during the week ending 7th May 1897 is compared with the figures for the corresponding period of 1896 :—

Foreign Ports.

There was a fall of only 18·45 per cent in the exports of rice to foreign ports, viz., from 78,275 cwts. to 63,840 cwts. The chief variations were a decrease of 27,007 cwts. in the despatches to Ceylon and of 16,365 cwts. and 8,956 cwts. to Réunion and Natal respectively, to which two ports nothing was sent in the week under review. On the other hand, there was an increase of 19,019 cwts. in the shipments to muscat, and of 10,460 cwts. to Aden which received nothing in 1896. Owing to the cessation of exports of wheat to the United Kingdom, the trade under that head fell from 11,201 cwts. to only 25 cwts. in the week under review. The decline of 16,066 cwts. in the exports of gram and pulse was almost entirely due to the quantity sent to the United Kingdom having diminished by 3,695 cwts. and to Réunion and Mauritius having taken nothing against 7,301 cwts. and 4,305 cwts. respectively in 1896.

Indian Ports.

The fall off of 18,668 cwts. in the exports of rice to Indian ports, viz., from 24,892 cwts. to 6,224 cwts., was due to a decrease of 9,484 cwts. in the shipments to Bombay and of 9,244 cwts. to the Madras ports. The trade in gram and pulse was half that of 1896, viz. 14,633 cwts. against 28,251 cwts., the decline being chiefly due to the exports to Bombay having diminished by 12,855 cwts.

Detailed statements showing the sources of supply and the places of destination, both as regards Foreign and Indian ports, are given below:—
